GARDEN, FARM, BEES, ETC.

ANNUALS TO SOW.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Garden Correspondent says:—

Indispensable among our border annuals are the Siberian Wallflower, Cheiranthus Allioni, of which autumn-sown plants are now coming into bloom, present sowings carrying on till well into a coming winter, and the good tempered blue cornflower holds an unique place, as indeed, does Love-in-a-Mist, Nigella Miss Jekyll, so superior to the old, typical plant, Sweet Sultan, we appreciate for its usefulness as a cut flower; and if one has bees the Bee plant, Limnanthes grandiflora, should not be forgotten. In fact, once introduced, the garden is rarely without the latter, and, if autumn sown, flowering shortly, our honey-gatherers have something in their time of scarcity; but it is not quite for the prim border, just a kind of wildling for bare patches near the hives.

COUNTY TIPPERARY OUTRAGE.

COURT SEQUEL.

At a Special Court, which was held in Borrisokane, William Lynch, Borrisokane, and Edward Brennan, Bonagooga, were charged in custody with unlawfully and forcibly entering the house of John McAree at Carrig, Puckane, and with assaulting the occupants. Lynch was further charged with being in possession of firearms.

McAree gave evidence that on last Wednesday night three men, wearing handkerchiefs over their faces, knocked at the door and demanded admission. When refused they burst in the door. The tall man of the three, who was identified by witness's wife as Lynch, carried a double-barrelled gun, which he pointed at the bed where witness and his wife and three children lay. The men then pulled his wife and children out of the bed, and compelled them to remove all the furniture from the house. Having done so, they marched witness, his wife and family to the house of a neighbour named Lucy. While at the latter place, McAree heard the noise of hammering, and when he returned later he found the doors and windows of his house nailed up.

At a Special Court, which was held in Ballinderry, Borrisokane, John Toohey, farmer, Claree, Puckane, Nenagh, was charged with counselling the men to remove the McArees from the house. John Dwyer, a labourer, of Ballinderry, also was charged with Toohey. Toohey, it was alleged, took part in the raid. Bails were fixed for all the accused men in the sum of £200, and they were allowed out to come up at Borrisokane District Court to-morrow.

FATAL STREET ACCIDENT.

When returning home from a cookery class at Blackhall place, Dublin, last Friday night, a girl named Annie McKeown, of North Circular road, was knocked down by a cyclist and received serious injury to the head. She had just stepped from the footpath near Aughrim street, to cross the road, it appears, when the accident happened. She was taken in the Fire Brigade Ambulance to the Richmond Hospital, and died on the following morning.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT.

A BABY'S ADVENTURE.

GIRL ACCUSED OF STEALING CHILD IN PERAMBULATOR.

(BEFORE MR. CUSSEN.)

"I like babies, and I only took it for a walk," said ten-year-old Annie Gannon, who lives with her foster-mother at 487 North Circular road, when she was asked by the Justice what answer she had to the remarkable charge against her of having stolen a baby in its perambulator in Henry street last Friday afternoon.

There were further charges of stealing the perambulator and the clothing, pillows and wraps in it, the total value of which was given as £7, but the girl said that she was interested only in the baby and had no thought of theft.

The Justice wanted to know at what value the baby was assessed, but received no information on that question.

It appeared that the mother of the child, Mrs. Josephine Dunne, of Mary street, was shopping in Henry street and left the perambulator on the pavement. When she re-appeared there was no sign of the perambulator or her nine months old boy. At 8 o'clock that night the perambulator and the baby were found in front of No. 447 North Circular road. The people in the house took charge, and later communicated with the Guards at Mountjoy Station, who returned the child to his mother later that night.

In a statement which she made when charged the girl Annie Gannon told of meeting another girl, Maureen Dillon, and accompanying her to Henry street.

"We saw a baby in a pram outside Woolworth's," the statement went on, "and I wheeled it away down towards O'Connell street. I took it into Gardiner street Church, took the shoes off and put them under a seat near the Sacred Heart altar. Then I carried it out again and wheeled the pram to the North Circular road, and left it outside No. 447."

The girl was remanded until Friday next, and was allowed to go home with her foster-mother.

TRANSFORMED BICYCLES.

PARTS CHANGED AFTER THEFT TO DECEIVE OWNERS.

When James F. Dolan was charged, on remand, with stealing a number of bicycles, some of the cycles, which had been traced by the police, were produced in court, and it was stated that the back wheel of a Raleigh had been removed and attached to a Sunbeam, and other parts had been changed so as to render it difficult for the owners to identify the machines.

The accused man was remanded for a further period, and the Justice complimented Detectives Byrne and Kenny for their work in recovering the machines for the owners.

CHARGE AGAINST 'BUS DRIVER.

John Fagan, an omnibus driver in the employment of the Tramways Company, was charged with the manslaughter of James Byrne, aged nine years, by running into him and knocking him down in Dolphin's Barn street last Friday morning. Fagan was previously charged with having driven the 'bus at a speed dangerous to the public. After the child's death the more serious charge was preferred against him.

He was remanded until Friday next.

DUBLIN SCHOOLS.

COMMITTEE'S REPORT FOR PAST YEAR.

The City of Dublin School Attendance Committee in their report for the year ended 31st December, 1929, state that, despite an epidemic of influenza in January, which caused the closing of the schools for three weeks, and the inconvenience of a general tram stoppage in September, together with the abnormal rainfall towards the end of the year, the attendance showed an improvement on the year. The following figures show the average number of pupils of all ages on rolls, the attendance and percentage of attendances in the aggregate for the years 1928 and 1929 at the National schools, and the pupils under 14 years attending schools other than National in the areas in charge of the five City Divisional School Attendance Committees.

	Average No. on Rolls.	Average No. in Attendance.	Percentage.
1928	53,626.5	46,504.6	86.7
1929	53,943.4	46,936.0	87.0

The figures show for the year 1929, as compared with 1928, an increase of 316.9 on rolls, of 431.4 in attendance, and of 0.3 in the percentage of attendance.

VACATION RATES.

The report goes on: —

"The irregular dates at which city schools situate in adjacent localities close and re-open at vacation periods was again a matter of concern to Committes. The existing practice in this respect is harmful in affect on school work generally. It tends to a lack of discipline in the homes and irregularity of attendance on the part of pupils. The North-West Committee made representation to the Ministry of Education on the subject, with a view to the arrangement of a uniform date, or as near as possible to a uniform date, of closing and re-opening primary schools in the city area—especially at the summer vacation period. It is hoped the Ministry will pay due consideration to the matter, as, by a spirit of give and take, all parties concerned could help towards the solution of a problem which would tend to the smoother working of our educational system."

Of 1,021 cases in which notices were served because of unsatisfactory attendance at school, proof of dire poverty was forthcoming in 699 cases. As a result of kindly advice and encouragement, many of these parents effected a marked attendance in their children's attendance. In 260 cases of indifference or neglect, summonses to the District Court were issued, and penalties and costs to the amount of £53 10s. were imposed. Twenty-seven of the children concerned in the prosecutions were committed to industrial schools.

THE COMMITTALS.

The report states that where a parent is convicted for a second offence under the School Attendance Act, or satisfies the court that he cannot get his child to attend school, the justice is empowered to commit the child to a certified industrial school. "A child thus committed has to remain in custody until his sixteenth year. He is separated from all home ties and becomes a charge on the ratepayers for a long period of years.

"It is felt that if it could be made feasible on the part of the authorities to effect a minor punishment in the nature of a brief period of detention in the cases of such offenders, the prevalent habit of truancy would be further—if not ultimately eliminated.

"An amendment of the existing laws bearing on the committal of children to industrial schools is desirable and would, no doubt, be welcomed by parents and ratepayers."

DUBLIN RATES.

ESTIMATE ADOPTED BY COMMISSIONERS.

The Dublin Borough Commissioners, at their meeting in the City Hall last Saturday, adopted the estimate of receipts and expenditure for the year ending on the 31st of next March. The total municipal rates were estimated at £664,389, which would require a poundage rate of 11s. 2¼d., and the total poor rate at £300,445, which would need a poundage rate of 4s. 9¾d., making the total estimate £964,834 and a total rate of 16s. to the £1.

The Commissioners accepted the tender of Messrs. Frederick Hanna, Ltd., for the supply of books to the public libraries for the year to end on the 31st of next March, 10 per cent. discount to be given on net books, 12½ per cent. on non-net books, 30 per cent. on secondhand books from stock, and 20 per cent. on books from stock (remainders), and the firm to carry out the usual library service, labelling, stamping, etc., to the satisfaction of the Corporation, at a cost of 3s. 3d. per 100 books.

The tender of the Riverside Bindery Company, the present contractors, for book binding was accepted.

The expenditure involved by the acceptance of these tenders, it was stated, would not exceed £4,605.

Mr. Seamus Murphy presided at the meeting, and Dr. Dwyer and Mr. P. J. Hernon were also present.

Mr. Gerald J. Sherlock, Town Clerk, and Mr. I. J. Rice, Law Agent, were in attendance.

AFTERMATH OF THE GALE.

DAMAGE AT BRAY HARBOUR.

Part of the concrete protecting wall at the northern end of the sea front at Bray has suffered damage consequent on last Friday's sixty-miles-an-hour gale.

Although the wind had abated considerably, violent seas were still running on Saturday morning. About twenty-five feet of the rampart between the fishermen's boat slip and the mouth of the river gave way, and behind the barrier some twelve feet of earth was washed into the sea.

MISSION AT THE PRO-CATHEDRAL.

Yesterday evening at the Pro-Cathedral His Grace, Archbishop Byrne, presided at the closing ceremony of a four weeks' mission given by Fathers Cassen, Mangan, Curran and Treacy.

African Art—L'Art Négre—which is all the rage in modern home-decoration, has invaded the fashion world.

This summer fashionable Parisiennes and cosmopolitan society may be clad in straw mantles, jackets and jumpers made of the same material as the loin-cloths which native women wear in Central Africa.

Some fascinating models were seen at a private exhibition of African dressmaking adapted to the most modern styles.

There were elegantly embroidered mantles, walking coats and wraps of every description, in the gayest of hues, which would have delighted the most fastidious of dusky queens.

They were worn by pretty mannequins, wearing a new type of sandal embroidered to match the cloaks, which, it is predicted, will be "the thing" at Le Touquet, Deauville, Biarritz and other fashionable resorts this summer.

The great convenience of these straw garments is that they are so light. A long and richly-embroidered mantle, for instance, weighs only one pound, yet it is not only warm, but extremely strong and durable.

The straw clothing can be lined with silk or any other material, but all the embroidery is also composed of palm fibre, from which the material is made.

The favourite colours are yellow, with blue embroidery, with negro art designs, and black and bright yellow, but blue and red and other bright and primitive colours are also extensively used.

Flowers.

Primroses and anemones and other spring-like flowers are already appearing, but in Paris, not in the woodlands, artificial flowers in silk, reproducing primroses in their original colours, make the cuff-links and smart buttonholes for a tailored suit. The flowers are given a realistic finish by the addition of leaves carefully cut and moulded to take on the primrose leaf shape.

Primula-shaped flowers are much in the picture. They are made in minutely pleated cream-coloured silk, and prove an attractive finish on a jabot blouse of pale shrimp-pink crepe-de-chine.

Nature's colourings in silk are used for these artificial blossoms, which have become the vogue for cuff-links and stud-buttons on the cream or white silk blouses which will be worn with coat and skirt this season.

The new silhouette will at least deviate from the lamp-post outline of the past few seasons. This much is assured. The flowing lines of the new fashions for spring and summer will give a fresh coutour to women.

The spring and summer clothes show a blending of the novel ideas launched by the couturières in the spring collections and the novel reservations of the smart women. The longer skirt, the slender line, the long-limbed effect and the curves launched in the earlier collections, have become the new standard of fashion.

The uneven hemline, very subtly handled, is present in most daytime costumes, which have the skirt half-covering the calves and slightly shorter in front. In the evening gowns the skirt length often slips from the knees to the ground, and what a feeling of grace and height it gives to the figure!

Fashions turn to the back in many of the newer of the spring and summer models, and the back view of the coat line of a coat or frock is considered as important as the front.

This is noticeable in a number of the coats to be worn this summer, which have graceful lines in curves or a deep "V" of the same material at the back.

The vogue of the hood-collar, the diagonal line of the waistline and the full, fluted skirt-front, are interesting new fashion points this season.

Four different fabrics are sometimes used in one ensemble, and in a model recently seen a white fancy canvas cloth was used for the coat, with its scarlet collar and cuffs, a plaid crepe-de-chine in the same colouring for the skirt, and a plain ivory crépe-de-chine for the jumper. The vogue of the hood-collar is a means of making the back of the coat as decorative as the front.

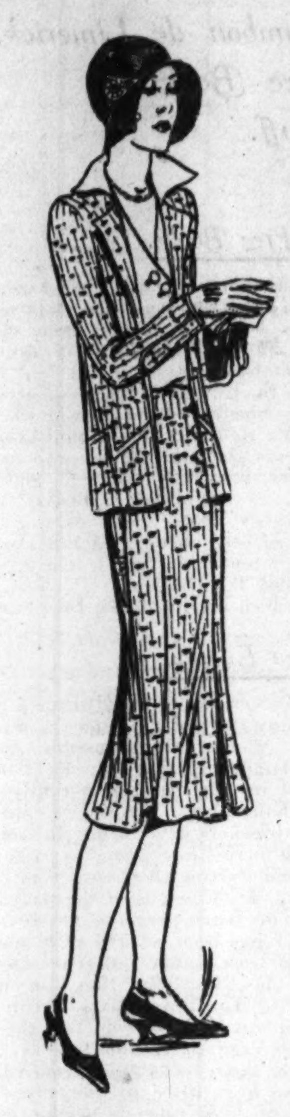
Eccentric Hats.

Wide-brimmed hats made a first and somewhat timid appearance on Sunday afternoon at the races.

A great effect was produced by some of them, which had a peak, like that of the jockey's cap, rakishly set on one side, with a rounded brim on the other.

The majority of hats, however, in straws and silk, were close-fitting.

One peculiarly striking ensemble was composed of a trim and severely-cut black tailor-made dress, with a Beau Brummell whiten silken cravat, and a tiny black silk toque set on artificial curls of white silk hair.



A Paris Model.

A smart "tailleur" in beige and brown speckled kasha. The hip-length coat has a clever inset zig-zag section, the skirt is box-pleated, and a beige crépe-de-Chine blouse finishes the "ensemble."

The Order of the Bath.

A daily bath is essential if you would preserve the health of your skin.

A hot bath just before retiring suits some people, for others it is too stimulating.

When a warm bath is taken in the morning it should always be followed by a cold douche or sponge to close the pores. A brisk rub down with coarse towels should immediately follow. This brings the blood to the surface and gives to the skin a rosy glow.

A mild super-fatted soap is the best to use. If the water is hard and no other obtainable, use just enough borax or ammonia to soften it.

For the truly luxurious bath there are bath salts which are delightful. Oatmeal, bran and starch baths are delicious, too.

To make these, you simply mix one pound of either with half a pound of orris root. Fill several small muslin bags with the mixture and drop one into the bath just before you get into it.

For the Youngsters.

Here is a simple, but original, recipe that is sure to be appreciated by both Miss and Master Sweet Tooth. Put an unopened tin of tinned milk into a pan of cold water and boil it gently for four hours. Let it cool, and then slip out the contents. The milk will be fairly solid and can be sliced neatly.

When serving, place a crystallised cherry on each slice to make the dish look attractive, and, if desired, surround with tiny mountains of whipped cream. The dish is neither too sweet nor too rich, but is like ice cream, with an additional pleasant, but indefinable, flavour.

Hints that Help.

Ivory handles can be whitened by an application of a thin paste of whiting and the juice of a lemon.

* * * * *

To prevent feathers working through pillows or cushions, rub the inside of the ticking or cover with soap or beeswax.

* * * * *

When the wick of an oil stove becomes too short to reach the oil sew a strip of flannel on the bottom of the wick.

* * * * *

Flour mixed with water is a substitute for starch. Make a cream with cold water, then pour on boiling water and stir till thick.

* * * * *

To clean black marble make a paste of equal parts of soft soap and quicklime. Apply and leave on for a day; wash off with hot water and polish with putty powder and olive oil.

Washing blue mixed with cold water will not streak the articles to be blued.

Red-bordered house linen which is steeped for twenty-four hours in strong salt water will not run when washed.

Make Spring Cleaning Cheerful

DEAR MARY,—I was much interested in your spring-cleaning hints last Monday. As it happened, I had asked two friends to tea that afternoon. Janet arrived first, cross and tired and grumbling. I enquired what was the matter, and found that she was worried at the prospect of Spring-cleaning—"such a messy, tiresome job, and everyone gets in the way, and Jack says he never can find anything for a week after it!"

So I gave her a cigarette, and as I went to boil the kettle I put the Irish Times beside her, tactfully opened at the page where your letter appeared. I came back in ten minutes and found that her frowns had disappeared: Janet was busy with pencil and paper planning a time-table for cleaning, and deciding which rooms should be done first!

The Brightness of Spring.

Then Lynette blew in—yes, blew in like a Spring breeze—with her arms full of parcels and a sparkle in her eyes.

"Hullo, everyone! I'm just going to enjoy my Spring festival, and I've been doing some special shopping. Sorry, Aileen, if I'm a bit late, but I've lots of nice things to show you!"

Janet gasped at the idea of actually enjoying Spring-cleaning, but we soon settled down to a vigorous talk as we sat surrounded by scraps of gay chintz, patterns of filet net and silks of all kinds, not to mention books of wallpaper patterns and other odds and ends.

Lynette explained that she enjoyed cleaning because she loved Spring, and liked to greet it suitably. "I haven't much to spend, of course, but I saved a few pounds and, after all, it is the small touches that count. Besides, there's always the joy of burning rubbish. I often wonder why 'civilised' people haven't the sense of some of the South African tribes, who celebrate Springtime by burning all their household utensils and making new ones."

Window Draperies.

Windows, we agreed, are the most important item. If you cannot afford complete new sets of curtains for Spring and Summer, new net half-curtains will brighten everything, especially if a really Spring-like colour is chosen—primrose or daffodil.

If your curtains of cretonne or brocade are faded in patches they can be renovated with a dye to match, rubbed well into the material with a camel hair brush, and left to dry for twenty-four hours. A second "coat" of dye may be added after this time if necessary.

By the way, "patchy" carpets can be treated in a similar way if the dye is rubbed on while very hot with a cloth, then left to dry for an hour. The colour may be fixed by an application of salt dissolved in water.

In the Bedrooms.

Bedrooms look new if a new bedspread is bought to match or harmonise with new curtains. Lynette had two with her—only 6s. 6d. each. "When I saw them advertised in the Irish Times to-day I couldn't resist them," she remarked cheerfully. At the same shop she bought two dainty sets of table mats in peach and old gold, at 5s. 11d. each, to cheer up the lunch table.

While talking of bedrooms, I remembered a tip I collected some time ago which my friends received with acclamation. In most bedrooms dress-boxes and cardboard hat-boxes accumulate. A certain number are really necessary for light frocks one cannot hang up, and for extra-special hats. But they are unsightly piled on top of the wardrobe—their usual haunt, and if pushed under the bed they collect dust and hamper sweeping.

Camouflaged Hat Boxes.

A big box of plain deal, with a hinged lid, may be mounted on casters, and if the top is padded and the whole box covered with a gay cretonne, you have both a useful receptacle for cardboard boxes and a convenient window-seat.

If, however, you are so cramped for room that there is no space for an additional piece of furniture, the unsightly boxes may be made quite attractive if pasted over with wallpaper to match the room. You can cover two or three in an hour with little trouble, and it does make a difference.

New Cushion Covers.

In the sittingroom a wonderful effect of general renovation and brightness can be obtained by new cushion-covers. Striped art-silks, in rainbow hues, are, perhaps, the best choice you could make, though plain colours are very attractive if gay birds and flowers are appliquéd in the corners.

Lynette has achieved an original touch in some cushions by using, instead of appliqué figures, a number of those dainty Chinese mats with brilliant colourings, which can be bought for 1s. 6d. or 2s. each, according to size. She has two bolster-shaped cushions covered with blue silk, each end being finished off with one of the round mats in harmonising colours.

If you have curtains of plain-coloured silk or casement cloth, these can be decorated very effectively by sewing three or four Chinese mats at intervals along the edges where the curtains meet when drawn.

Yours,
AILEEN.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LEICESTER WOOL.—No improvement can be noted yet in the general trade for wool and yarns. There is a moderate demand for good class yarn for the higher priced sports goods, but the medium and low class yarns are practically on the same low ebb as they were last week, and, indeed, have been for some time. No price changes can be noted. The wool market in regard to English wools is dull, as it usually is about now. The hosiery trade generally is very quiet.

HIDES AND LEATHER.

(SPECIAL REPORT.)

Conditions at the Bermondsey auction of warbled hides proved to be somewhat irregular, with calf practically unaltered and ox showing an all round decline of ¼d. Best heavy ox was sold at 5¼d. and light at 5⅛d., second heavy at 4⅞d. and light at 4½d. Best light calf realised 11½d.; cows were ¼d. and bulls ⅛d. down; kips unaltered, imported hides were in fair request where obtainable at previous rates, but there was a general reluctance to pay any advance. Dry first Capes sold at 8⅛d. and B.A. Americanos at 7⅞d. and 8d. There was no improvement in the demand for sole leather, the buying being mainly in small parcels for immediate needs and tanners' stocks occasionally tend to accumulate. The demand was chiefly for light-weight sole leather, and with English productions of this class limited rather more has been done in Continental bends. In the offal section, shoulders were in moderate demand, but bellies were quiet, with an easier tendency. Rough leather was a dull market, and, apart from export sales of pickled and salted splits, very little was done. In the upper leather department trade was quiet, and no revival is expected until after Easter. The demand for black suede appears to be fading away.

"HUMANE KILLER" PROTEST.

A letter addressed to the editor of the Irish Times, which has been signed by seventeen Wexford meat traders and firms, contains a vigorous protest against the proposal to compel the meat and allied trades to use "humane" slaughtering appliances, it being contended by the signatories that the present methods are superior on humanitarian grounds to any mechanical appliances.

IRISH WHITE CROSS.

The annual general meeting of the above Association took place on Friday last, at the registered offices, Room No. 7, 27 Dawson street, Madame O'Rahilly in the chair.

The Council's report showed that during the year 618 children were dealt with, and that at January 1st there were still 546 children on the Fund. Of these 310 are under the age of 16 years, 54 are apprenticed, 182 awaiting apprenticeship.

The statement of accounts show that the amount expended on the care of those children last year was £15,193 17s. 8d., while the expenditure exceeded the income by £12,270 8s. 10d. This amount had to be found by selling £19,580 stock.

The outgoing Council was re-elected, and the following officers appointed:—Madame O'Rahilly and Mr. John O'Neill, Hon. Treasurers; Senator Mrs. Tom Clarke, Hon. Secretary.

A KILMORE SYNOD

THREE HUNDRED YEARS AGO.

SOME QUAINT CANONS.

(By CANON G. A. CHAMBERLAIN, B.D.)

THE election of a bishop in the Diocese of Kilmore recalls to mind a curious and interesting episode in the history of that diocese which took place almost three hundred years ago. So accustomed are we in Ireland to the assembling of Diocesan Synods year by year for the transaction of their statutory duties that we have come to take them as a matter of course. For many years "Synod Week" has been a feature of public life in Dublin.

It was not ever thus. When, three hundred years ago, Bishop Bedell called together the clergy of the Diocese of Kilmore in Synod he not only took an unheard of course, but he raised such a storm of indignation and of protest that he was in serious danger of losing not only his bishopric, but his liberty. His friend, the great Archbishop Ussher, was strongly opposed to what he considered a dangerous and unnecessary innovation. Bedell, however, was a stout antagonist and not to be touched with impunity; so, as his biographer puts it, "My Lord Primate of Armagh thought it most prudent to let him alone, who had assembled that Synod, lest they should find him more able to defend what he has done, than any person whatever to oppose him." Ussher had other things to occupy his mind and his time, and the reform of administrative affairs was hardly his métier. However, if Bedell erred, he erred but once. He did not again summon the Synod of Kilmore

SYNOD AND CANONS.

In order the better to regulate his diocese, which on his advent he had found in considerable disorder, Bishop Bedell, with that independence of judgment which marked both his opinions and his actions, summoned his clergy to a Diocesan Synod. The Synod met on September 19th, 1638, in the Cathedral Church of Kilmore. At its opening Service the Bishop preached on the text, "Thy testimonies are very sure; holiness becometh Thy house, O Lord, for ever," and, with this fitting overture, the Synod proceeded to the business of drawing up canons for the regulation of the diocese, which all present undertook to observe. The Latin text of these twenty-two canons has been preserved, and throws interesting side-lights upon Church life in the County of Cavan three hundred years ago.

It is evident that reverence in church left something to be desired. Little boys had a way of interrupting Divine Service by their chatter; for the Synod required churchwardens (Œconomi parochiarum) to see that small boys (puerull) did not hold conversations in church. The Scottish custom of bringing dogs to church appears to have been common; and, as the ways of dogs then were probably much the same as now, it was a wise canon which forbade this element of discord in Divine Service. Dogs were to be kept out of church by duly appointed doorkeepers (constitutis ostiariis). The personal appearance of the clergy did not escape the vigilance of this Synod; for a canon issued its prohibition of long hair (Clerici comas ne nutriant).

Dublin evidently set the fashion in those days; for, with regard to their clothing (habitu clericali), the clergy were instructed to follow the Dublin fashion. The clergy seem to have indulged in an ungracious habit of tittle-tattle, since a canon laid down that, if one clergyman told tales against another without having first informed the bishop, all the others [illegible] to steer clear of him (ab ejus consortio ceteri omnes abstinebunt). Another canon lays down that the clergy are not to be too exacting (acerbe exigat) in the matter of fees, especially from poor folk.

FUNERALS.

Burials have always been a fruitful source of trouble in Ireland, and even to this day some of our Irish graveyards are in a condition which is literally shocking. In Cavan, three hundred years ago, it was a common practice to bury within the church itself, with the result that funerals were often accompanied by unseemly sights. Bishop Bedell felt keenly the shame of this, and arranged that both his wife and himself should be buried in the remotest part of the south side of the churchyard of the Cathedral of Kilmore. "For, having observed," says his biographer, "such thronging and crowding of dead bodies into a small patch of ground in church and chancel, and the casting up the bones of the dead, often before the flesh was returned to the dust, sometimes to the annoiance of the living, and alwaies to the disquieting of the dead. . . . and that meerly out of ignorance, pride or superstition, his judgement was therefore alltogether against burial in churches." According to his wishes, his Synod drew up a canon prohibiting any future interments in church or within five feet of the wall. Also it was decreed that human bones were no longer to be heaped together, but reverently buried. Another canon struck at the root of the Irish custom of keening, by prohibiting women from lamenting and howling (luctum et ululatum) at funerals. Some idea of the disorder of the diocese which Bedell set himself to reform may be gathered from the canon which forbids the sanctuary from being turned into a meeting place and prohibits the Holy Table from being used as a seat by lawyers and writers.

THE SEQUEL.

We might well conclude that a Synod which set itself to regulate defective administration and reform gross abuse would win universal approval; but it was not so three hundred years ago. Reformers are rarely universally popular, and Bedell had already made by his reforming zeal a powerful enemy in his own Chancellor—a Dr. Cooke. In the easy-going days of the past Cooke appears to have acquired two habits which cannot be broken easily or without pain. One was the habit of feathering his own nest; the other, the habit of wanting his own way. What he called in derision the "Presbyteriall Conventicle of Kilmore" gave Cooke his chance to make things hot for the Bishop with the authorities.

Tidings of this enormity were carried up to Dublin. The authorities were alarmed at an innovation that might end in anything. Strafford was furious. There was talk of a praemunire, of the High Commission Court and of the Star Chamber. Bedell was astonished at the storm. "I did never think," he wrote to Archbishop Laud, "that malice could have beene so bold or ignorance so blind as to set tooth in it." The authorities on reflection appear to have come to the conclusion that it would be wiser not to join issue with the Bishop, who had not acted without carefully considering his precedents. In another and subsequent letter to Laud he writes: "Concerning my bringing into the Castle chamber and Praemunire for our Diocesan Synode, the bruite is much ceased, since men have a little looked on their bookes."

From a letter of Archbishop Laud, preserved amongst the Irish State Papers, it seems clear that, in his judgment, the Bishop of Kilmore had acted ultra vires. "I was in very good hope," he wrote, "you had been so watchfull over your proceedings, as that you had prevented the Danger of running into a Praemunire by medling with anything about matter of Religion without being authorised soe to doe under the Broad Seal. . . .Where these Synods shall be limited by the Statute Lawes of anie kingdome, there I conceave the Law must bee submitted unto, till itt may be help't."

The matter was never put to the test. Two years after Laud penned these words the storm of the 1641 rebellion broke, and before another year had passed Bedell was lying beside his wife "in the remotest part of the south side of the churchyard of the Cathedral of Kilmore."

The Street of the Publishers.

I wonder how many million miles of printed words leave that Mecca of the novelists and story-writers, Paternoster Row, every year. Almost every building there houses a famous publishing concern. As long ago as 1228, when the Row was first built, it was possible to obtain crude volumes from the text-writers and bead-sellers who dwelt there and made a living by selling alphabet books with the Pater Noster printed on the back. Apparently, their trade was a profitable one; for the rents of the houses went to pay for the upkeep of London Bridge, then a wooden structure, constantly in need of repair.

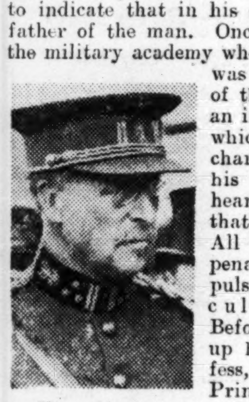
Paternoster Row was not, however, always a street of publishing houses. At one time the makers of books shared the Row with milliners and cloth-merchants; indeed, the famous citizen of London who is known to us as John Gilpin was a mercer, whose business premises were situated there.

A Good Stroke of Business.

After the Great Fire of London, most of the milliners of Paternoster Row moved westward to the more select precincts of Covent Garden, though, as late as 1720, the narrow street was still a favourite shopping centre for the ladies of fashion. In that year, at the Sign of the Ship, Taylor published "Robinson Crusoe," after Defoe had hawked the manuscript all over London in an attempt to sell it. Never did a publisher do a better stroke of business. "Robinson Crusoe" became a "best-seller," and Taylor made so much money out of it that he bought the Sign of the Black Swan, next door, and there, in conjunction with Thomas Longman, founded what is now Longmans, Green, and Co., the oldest publishing house in England.

Belgium's King.

His subjects are fond of a story of the boyhood of the King of the Belgians, who will be fifty-five to-morrow, which seems to indicate that in his case the boy was father of the man. Once during drill at the military academy where Prince Albert was in training one of the pupils uttered an impatient remark, which the officer in charge, noted for his severity, overheard. "Who said that?" he demanded. All knew that the penalty would be expulsion, and the culprit hesitated. Before he could make up his mind to confess, out stepped Prince Albert and took the blame upon himself. "Monseigneur," said the officer, "I am sorry I may not send you to prison. Go on with the drill." The lad thus saved from ruin lived to fight gallantly under King Albert in the Great War.



KING ALBERT.

Jerry Builders.

Building a house with bricks stolen from your neighbour's residence is not strictly legal, and would result in serious penalties for the thief. Birds, luckily for them, are not tied by such restrictions, and, as I watched some rooks nest-building the other day, I thought how nice it must be to be a bird—that is to say, an experienced bird, and not one that is setting up house for the first time. One pair of rooks was trying to make a nest in the fork of an overhanging branch. I suspect they were young birds that had never before made a nest, because they were quite unsuccessful in their efforts. Every time they laid a twig on the fork of the branch it fell off, and, though they tried repeatedly for the fifteen minutes I was watching, they were no further forward than when they started. I felt sorry for them, but I could not help being amused at the cunning of another pair of rooks that were building a nest in the same tree. They were wise through experience. Instead of searching far and wide for suitable twigs for their nest, they waited patiently until the young birds had dropped a few twigs. Then the old villains calmly glided down and appropriated the twigs that had been so carefully selected by the newly-weds.

A Cosy Muff.

The number of persons who utilise an old coat for the purpose of keeping the radiator of their cars warm are numerous. I have seen all sorts of muffs used, and I cannot help thinking that the home-made varieties, which are made for warmth, and not for appearance, are, without doubt, the most efficient and satisfactory. Not long ago, when driving along a rather windswept and unutterably dreary road near the Dublin mountains, I noticed a car parked outside a wayside cottage, and, as the day was very cold, I was inclined to envy its lot. Its radiator was swathed completely in the luxurious folds of a dainty down quilt, which had by no means lost its original attractive appearance.

The Wexford Breed.

During a sudden visit to Wexford I was at a loss to know how to pass the evening after dinner. I strolled into the hotel smoke-room and asked advice, but instead of that I got information. In the immediate vicinity I had shown to me the site of the house, once the rectory, where Lady Wilde was born. She was Miss Jane Frances Elgee, the rector's daughter. Her brother achieved the distinction of becoming Judge in New Orleans, while she herself was a contributor to the Nation even before her marriage to Sir William Wilde, not yet knighted, in 1845. Her letters to the Nation were signed John Fanshaw Ellis, maintaining her initials, and an admirer wishing to meet that gentleman was rather astonished to learn that "he" would be found at Dr. Wilde's residence, and more astonished still when the Doctor produced the author in his wife. Later she achieved a certain fame as "Speranza" for her poetry, but she is best remembered for her attempt to graft the literary salon of France upon the soil of Dublin, and the strange attire in which she presided over her court of wit. I was further interested to learn that the same house had seen the birth of Sir Robert McClure, the discoverer of the North-West Passage in 1807.

Moore's Mother.

I could not leave Wexford without a look at the birthplace of Thomas Moore's mother. The family of Codd, to which she belonged, were the owners of the Ark Tavern in Corn Market. Her sister's career was more nearly touched with romance than her own. A little out of the town used to stand an inn much frequented by farmers going to or from market, and squires and gentry moving home from the meet. The attraction was not so much the stout Wexford beer as the hand that drew and served it, that of "pretty Molly Codd." Virtuous as she was winsome, she captured the heart and hand of one of those squires. They were married in the teeth of much opposition from the squire's people, who objected to what seemed to them a mésalliance, though the family of Codd was good, if impoverished. They were able to flatter themselves later on the lover's obstinacy.

Local Delicacies.

I met a friend the other day who was indignant over the lack of appreciation of some of our "local delicacies," a subject mentioned recently in the "Diary." Whenever he went to London, he said, he saw in the window of a Bond street restaurant a beautifully-arranged dish of succulent shell-fish, labelled "the delicious Dublin prawn." Here we make nothing of it, and tourists to Dublin hardly ever hear of it; yet it is found in abundance almost the year round in what is known as the Lambay deep, quite close to Dublin. In other parts of the British Isles it is so rare as to be almost unknown; in fact, outside Dublin, it is common only in a few spots on the coast of Norway, and, curiously enough, near Fiume, on the Adriatic Sea. It is not really a true prawn, but many people think it superior in flavour to the lobster, and, of course, it is very much cheaper. What a pity that, during the tourist season, the Dublin restaurants do not boom this truly local delicacy.

"Jambon de Limerick."

My friend went on to tell me that frequently, in Paris restaurants, he has seen announced on the bill of fare "Jambon de Limerick," though, I daresay, in Ireland, where people seem actually to prefer Chinese, Danish or American bacon, the tasty product of Limerick would hardly be counted as a local delicacy. Not everyone appreciates sloke; yet, it is a peculiarly Irish sea-weed, and there are clubs in Dublin which make it a regular feature of the menu, and where it is eaten with relish by some of the members all the year round. Cork, I am told, boasts a particular type of black pudding called "drisheen," and probably in other parts of Ireland will be found dishes that are never eaten outside these shores.

French Canadians.

At the entrance to the City Hall Park in Quebec stands an imposing memorial to Louis Hébert, the Parisian chemist who left his home so long ago and adventured forth to become the first farmer in Canada. At the base of the statue there are seventy-one names; the first eleven of these belong to the pioneers from France who reached Canada between 1615 and 1641. The remaining sixty are those who went there during the twenty-five years that followed, and it is of interest to note how those names have persisted to this day in the city of Quebec.

The telephone directory contains ten of the eleven original French names; and, out of the whole seventy-one, sixty still flourish in that place. "The Côtés," someone has said, "are the Smiths of Quebec." No people in the world love their country more dearly than do the French-Canadians; and we are told that more than two hundred families still occupy the very farms that were tilled first by their French ancestors in the seventeenth century.

Duty-Free Books.

The other day (writes a correspondent) I met a lady who was in a state of high dudgeon because she had been charged 2s. 6d. duty and 6d. delivery tax on a parcel of books value 15s. I told her to write to the Customs authorities about the matter. She was quite pleased when she received a refund of the amount overpaid. It appears that the official who assessed the duty read the declared contents—namely, "Children's Books" — as "Children's Boots." Of course, if the parcel had been opened, the mistake could not have occurred; but I am afraid it would not be practicable to open every parcel which arrives in the Free State.

Misused Energy.

If only someone could discover a means of utilising the power behind the waves of the sea, what an inexhaustible store of energy might be tapped? My thoughts were led in this direction recently when out in Kingstown. It was a wild day, and the breakers were rolling in from the east with terrific force, pounding the rocky shore, and wasting their energy in clouds of spray. I realised then the power of a wave. For years past the beach at the East Pier has been covered with boulders weighing from a few hundredweights to several tons, but now they are nearly all gone. The huge waves, during the storms of last winter, swept into the little cove, and tore the boulders away. Not only have these rocks been removed, but they have been lifted by the waves over a six foot high concrete wall, and deposited in a more sheltered corner of the beach. Perhaps, after all, the energy of the waves has not been altogether wasted, because the beach has now a layer of reasonably fine sand that will be the delight of hundreds of children in the summer.

The League of Nations.

Great interest is being taken in Belfast in the visit of Princess Radziwill, who will address a meeting in the city under the auspices of the Belfast Branch of the League of Nations Union this week. The Princess has gone to Belfast from Dublin on the invitation of Miss Montgomery, the Hon. Secretary of the British Women's Citizens' Association in Belfast.

MISS MONTGOMERY.

Miss Montgomery first interested herself in the work of the Belfast Girls' Club as far back as 1910. This Union has now under its influence hundreds of working girls who all have felt the benefit of the Holiday Home, an enterprise in the promotion of which Miss Montgomery took an active part. For many years Miss Montgomery has been interested in the suffrage movement, and, in conjunction with Dr. Walkington, she founded the Belfast Suffrage Society in 1911.

Miss Montgomery, who is a woman of much culture and personal charm, allows herself very little relaxation, but her greatest hobby is painting, and she has visited all the art galleries of Europe. She also is very fond of music, being a critic of some ability.

A Dubliner's Centenary.

It is not often that a distinguished chemist and philosopher appears as a successful dramatist, but this was the case of Richard Chenevix, who died in Paris on the 5th of April, 1830. His family was one of the Huguenot families which took refuge in Ireland after the revocation of the Edict of Nantes. Another member of the family, his uncle, had attained to the rank of Bishop of Waterford and Lismore.

His early scientific training was acquired in Dublin, but in 1800 (he was then twenty-six) he appears to have taken up permanent residence in London, and was at this time publishing the results of his earliest researches in Nicholson's Journal. Important discoveries in connection with platinum and palladium brought him the Copley Gold Medal of the Royal Society in 1803. Later he was elected to Fellowships of the Royal Society and of the Royal Irish Academy.

In his thirtieth year he began to pay frequent visits to Paris, some of them of long duration. Here it was that he met the Countess of Ronault, who became his wife on the 4th of June, 1812.

A Successful Dramatist.

Besides his scientific works he published several dramatic works; of these the most important were "The Mantuan Rivals," a comedy, and the tragedy, "Henry VII." Writing after his death a critic speaks of this tragedy as "the boldest, the most elaborate, and upon the whole the most successful imitation of the general style, taste and diction of our older dramatists that has appeared in the present times."

ROYAL HIBERNIAN ACADEMY OF ARTS.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIRST EXHIBITION.

Saturday last was varnishing day in preparation for the one hundred and first exhibition of the Royal Hibernian Academy of Arts, which opens to-day at the Metropolitan School of Art, Kildare street, Dublin, and, as usual, there was the liveliest interest to see what works had been approved for hanging this year. In all there are close on four hundred exhibits, including miniatures and sculpture, and, having regard to the limited wall space, excellent judgment has been shown in the hanging. Taken as a whole, the standard is quite good, as one would expect in an exhibition which includes works by the leading Irish artists, as well as many painters well known in the neighbouring country. There is a marked absence of the bizarre, and a pleasing feature is the number of excellent portraits on view, especially in the main gallery. As one enters, for instance, the eye is caught by a striking portrait of the Right Hon. Sir T. O'Shaughnessy, the last Recorder of Dublin, painted by Leo Whelan, R.H.A. The artist has caught his subject in a very familiar pose, and imparted to the canvas wonderful vitality and character.

Equally striking is Mr. Whelan's portrait of John Count McCormack clad in his doctor's robes. The mobile features and whole pose are true to life. Another canvas, "Midday Meal" (23), is a splendid sample of Mr. Whelan's art as a painter of interiors. Mrs. Margaret Clarke, R.H.A., has a trio of portraits on view—that of Mrs. McNeill, the wife of the Governor-General, being vivid in its treatment.

Lady Heath, the well-known airwoman, has provided a splendid subject for Sir John Lavery, and the artist has presented an animated work. Nearby is a delightful painting by the same artist of "Autumn on the Riviera" (63)—a fascinating study in blue and gold reflecting the glories of that fashionable pleasure-ground. Pulsating with life and colour is this artist's painting of "Chiswick Open Air Baths" (90).

PORTRAITS OF NOTE.

Among the portraits of note is that of Octavius Wallace (125), by Dermod O'Brien, President of the Academy, who has caught a natural play of colour and expression in the features and pose. Mr. O'Brien has also a number of landscape studies done in those warm tones which make his work always so satisfying. "The Road from the Plage" (108) and "Grey Weather" (116) are a nicely contrasting pair of scenes at Cassis. Mr David N. Ingles, A.R.H.A., has found a good subject for his canvas in "Sir Arthur Du Cros" (106). On the opposite wall is an effective portrait study of a lady in "The Green Shawl" (181), by that promising painter, Mr. Maurice McGonigle. Vigorous work and understanding of his subject are reflected in Mr. John Keating's arresting portrait of Mr. Laurence J. Kettle (79), while the same artist has also a fine canvas in "Thunder on the Left" (206) (lent by Dr. Bethel Solomons), in which the rugged hardy type of countryman is splendidly painted. There is a keen sense of humour in Mr. Keating's sketch, "The Irish Statesman"—a bit of work that will recall many memories of the "troubled times." There are many other portraits one would like to mention, but one must pass on with a parting reference to Mr. Gerald F. Kelly's compelling study of "Arthur Bourchier" in his famous part as "John Silver" (154), and Mr. F. C. Mulock's painting, "The Dark Lady" (87)—one of the most impressive canvases on view.

STILL LIFE.

The art of Mr. H. Davis Richter as a painter of still life is too well known to need description. He has surpassed himself in the big canvas, "A Vegetarian Feast" (26)—a work which must win the warm approval of even the most Lucullan taste. "A Sumptuous Bunch" (85), by the same artist, fully merits the title. It is a glorious bunch of colour. Other painters who have been very successful with still life paintings are Mr. J. Crampton Walker, with two lovely bunches of Polyanthus (Nos. 28 and 59); Mr. Hans Iten, with "Thoughts of Autumn" (77), and Miss Elsie M. Robson, with "Delphiniums and Iceland Poppies" (76). The Impressionist school is represented solely by Mr. Jack B. Yeats, R.H.A., who has two characteristic works in "The Avenger" (78), and "Now or Never." The artist has spared neither pain nor colour and the canvases stand out strikingly, though the unversed will find it difficult to catch their fleeting message.

Mr. Sean O'Sullivan, A.R.H.A., has a couple of notable portraits in oils. That of "Goddard Henry Orpen" (61) is very happy in its treatment, but the pose of "E. A. McGuire" (52), the tennis champion, is just a little too stiff. Mr. O'Sullivan has a number of lovely portrait drawings in which he has caught to life such well known people as "Maud Gonne McBride," Dr. Patrick Brown, Mr. J. B. Yeats and Dr. Larchet.

CONNEMARA STUDIES.

Mr. Charles Lamb, A.R.H.A., is another who has some strong portrait studies of Connemara types His "Connemara Woman Knitting" (15) is very faithful, the fine old face, strong hands, and the warm woolly shawl, with apron and red skirt, being true to type. Another portrait study of "A Connemara Woman" (115) is by Miss Helen Yates, a promising young painter, who has three canvases honoured, and steadily continues to improve. There is a quiet strength in this study. More impressive still is her painting of "Betty" (42) in the Main Gallery—probably the best work this young painter has yet done. The colour scheme is well presented, and there is a lovely satisfying glow about the work. Her painting of "The Music-Maker" (162) also is very happy.

LANDSCAPES.

Of landscapes there is such a wide range that one finds it difficult in a single notice to cover all one would like to mention.

Mr. Frank McKelvey, A.R.H.A., has quite a number, of which "Blackberry Gatherers" (151) and "Lake at Hillsboro'" (152) are good examples. Mr. J. Humbert Craig, R.H.A., is also strongly represented, and his pair in the Main Gallery—"The River Bann" (36) and "The Glenveagh Hills" (41)—catch the eye at once. In the same gallery is a fine painting by Lady Butler of "Daybreak on a Night March in Flanders" (97), drawn with that calrity of line so characteristic, and full of atmosphere. At the other end of the room "Tales of a Grandfather" (49) is a very colourful work by Miss Flora M. Reid. Mr. Borlase Smart has made "Portwidden Beach" (64) a rugged, compelling work, whilst close by "The Enchanting Hills" (57), by Lewis T. Gibb, and "Le Monument aux Morts, Le Mont Dore" (56), by Miss Henriette Healy, are pleasing both in conception and technique. Mr. Julius Olsson has a couple of paintings after his distinctive style. "Nightfall" (150) is a fine study in cloud effects, whilst "Silver Morning" (196) shows the same lovely touch, though not on so sweeping a scale. Sir George Clausen has put plenty of life into his study, "The Storm" (160), the sweep of angry clouds being well achieved. Other works which caught the eye were colourful landscapes by Miss Letitia M. Hamilton and Miss Eva Hamilton, some fanciful studies in brilliant colours by Mrs. B. Campbell, a fine study of "The Sovereign Islands" (44), by Hugh C. Charde, and "A Landscape Painter's Day—Howth" (48), by Henry W. Moss, in which the painter departs somewhat from his usual golden tones.

There are some excellent miniatures, and also finished pieces of sculpture, but mention of these, as well as some other paintings, must stand over.

A SOUTHERN LETTER.

BAD WEATHER DELAYS FARMERS.

Late Season Anticipated : Rats Over-running Mental Hospital : Cork County Council Criticised : "This Will o' the Wisp, De-Rating" : Limerick Demand For City Manager.

FROM A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.
CORK, Sunday.

THE unusual severity of the weather during the past few months has seriously inconvenienced the agricultural community throughout the South of Ireland. Not for many years have they been so compulsorily backward in their work; for they have been virtually idle through the month of March, which is normally one of their busiest seasons. The continuous heavy rains rendered tillage operations out of the question, and, despite the tradition that potatoes should be set before St. Patrick's Day, they are still out of the ground in many centres.

Even at this late period of the year large areas in low-lying districts throughout County Cork still remain under water, and although the surface is comparatively dry in the higher parts, the sub-soil is still sodden. Fine weather for a week or more is needed before work can be commenced, but, in any event, a late season seems certain.

RAT-INFESTED HOSPITAL.

It is a matter of urgent necessity that immediate steps should be taken to cope with the plague of rats at the Cork Mental Hospital. The institution is described as "an ideal place for rats," having been built in "fourteenth century style, with catacombs underneath like those in ancient Rome," and at a recent meeting of the Home Committee Dr. McCarthy, the Resident Medical Officer, stated that there were thousands of rodents in the asylum.

Even the form of rat poison recently recommended by the Department of Public Health proved a failure. When it was given to two rats that had been caught in a trap they lived for three days afterwards.

The fact that one of the hospital patients is suffering from that rare disease, rat-bite fever, serves to demonstrate the urgency of the problem. It may be true that the situation is not unusual in institutions of this type, where it is difficult to prevent patients from carrying food around in their pockets and throwing it away in out-of-the-way corners.

Dr. McCarthy also informed the Committee that formerly they had a man who killed more than a thousand rats annually at the hospital. The present rat-catcher, a patient, was not very good, said the doctor, and it seemed as though the services of a professional rat-catcher were required, as frequently they had to take up the flooring to remove the bodies of poisoned rats.

SHANNON BOARD AND CORK.

Without ceremony of any kind, the control of the lighting and power business of the Cork Electric Supply Company was taken over a few days ago by the Electricity Supply Board, marking another important stage towards the fullest development of the Shannon scheme. As was stated in this column last week, the reduced charges which will now come into force will be greatly welcomed by the citizens.

No change has been made on the staff of the old company, all the officials and employés having been retained, and, despite fears to the contrary, the tramway system will continue to be run by the Cork Electric Supply Co., Ltd.

COUNTY COUNCIL FINANCE.

It is evident that in all parts of the county there is a growing sense of dissatisfaction regardng the administration of the Cork County Council. The estimate recently adopted by that body provides for a total expenditure of £608,000, of which £384,048 is levied directly on the county, the remainder being provided by Government grants. The maintenance of roads and public services, including the hospitals and administration of relief to the poor, must of necessity constitute a large sum in an area of this size, but it is apparent that, apart from these services, various economies can be effected without causing hardship in any direction.

The situation was discussed at a meeting of County Cork Farmers' Union yesterday, when the Very Rev. Canon Barrett put forward the suggestion that they should set up a "Watching Committee" to investigate where reductions could be made and where their representatives favoured unnecessary expenditure. "The County Council is working on an overdraft," he declared, "and, just as there is room for national economy, so is there great room for local economy, and we should follow that policy instead of that will-o'-the-wisp de-rating, which is nothing but a mockery, a delusion and a snare."

Mr. J. Applebe was doubtless referring to the rash generosity of the Council in regard to the development of the Irish language and other movements when he said that it was the "side-shows" more than the upkeep of roads and similar County Council work that took up the money. Mr. T. Corcoran said that the farmers themselves were actually responsible for the high rates owing to their apathy in public affairs. "We are too slow to look after our own interests," he said, "and go to races and sports instead of voting at the elections."

CITY MANAGER WANTED.

While the members of Limerick Corporation have decided, "as the supreme body, not to take dictation from outside sources," they cannot ignore the growing desire among the business community for the adoption of the managerial form of local government in their city.

At the last meeting of the Borough Council a few days ago the resolution of the local Chamber of Commerce, calling on the Government to appoint a City Manager, was discussed. Mr. E. R. Shaw, a member of the two bodies, said that the Chamber of Commerce, as ratepayers of considerable standing, viewed with alarm the present rates, which constituted a serious menace to trade and business. It was for that reason that they had adopted a resolution similar to that which had been defeated in the Corporation by a narrow majority a short time before.

Mr. P. Bourke and the Mayor (Mr. J. Keyes) both took up the cudgels on behalf of the Corporation, the latter delivering a somewhat unwarranted attack on the Chamber of Commerce. "Their resolution," he said, "is a vote of censure on the Corporation, and it comes from a body which has invariably adopted a Rip Van Winkle attitude in civic affairs." As a collective body the Chamber was the most helpless in the country, he declared, and should be the last to offer criticism when they had never proffered practical advice or co-operation in the past.

The discussion is an interesting outcome of the increase of 1/10 in the £ which is to be made in the rate for municipal services for the coming year, and it is suggested that the rate of 24/6 in the £ would be greater still but for the economies effected by a Commissioner recently appointed over the poor law administration.

Under the auspices of the members of the Old Wesley Rugby Football Club and the Ladies' Hockey Club, a very successful dance was held last Saturday night in the Metropole ballroom, Dublin.

In connection with the dance at Stackallen House to-morrow, in aid of the Meath County Cricket Club, several large house parties have been arranged. Among those giving house parties are the Marchioness Conyngham, Slane Castle; Lady Lambart, Beauparc; Lord and Lady Louth, and Lady Ainsworth.

NEGRO SPIRITUALS.

PAUL ROBESON'S RECITAL IN DUBLIN.

At the last of the season's "Celebrity" concerts in the Theatre Royal, Dublin, the attraction was Paul Robeson, a coloured vocalist, whose ability as an exponent of negro spirituals and other folk songs of the coloured folk in the Southern States of America has been made known far and wide by some excellent gramaphone records. There was a large audience, attesting the interest aroused by his visit.

With a pleasant voice, yielding at times some fine deep bass notes, Mr. Robeson has a commanding figure and a quietly confident platform manner. With these aids he commends to sympathetic acceptance the simple rhythms of the negro folk songs. Many of these songs now are widely known, and the audience enjoyed Mr. Robeson's delivery of such numbers as "Deep River," "I'se going to tell God all my Troubles," "Steal Away," "Scandalise my Name" and "I got a Robe." To pianoforte accompaniment by Mr. Lawrence Brown, who made the arrangements of many of these negro songs for concert purposes, Mr. Robeson sang many others of the same kind. One of the most effective was the negro preacher's quaint "Exhortation," while a striking song, with different associations, was the convict song, "Water, Boy." Among the numerous extra songs presented in response to encore calls was "Ole Man River," which was written for Mr. Robeson to sing in a Drury Lane play in which he had a part.

Pianoforte solos by Ania Dorfmann were enjoyable parts of the concert. Miss Dorfmann played compositions by Mozart, Schubert, Chopin, Schumann and Mendelssohn, and also some brilliant arrangements of orchestral works, including Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Flight of the Bumble Bee." Her strong point is touch. She seems to approach every piece of music as a bundle of problems in touch technique; and it must be said that her solutions of these problems are clever and convincing. She extracted so many distinct varieties of tone from the pianoforte as at times to make the instrument sound like a small orchestra. Apart from the variety of colour, the crispness of her touch was something to admire; it yielded just the right musical-box kind of effect needed for the Mozart Sonata, with which she began her programme.

OBBLIGATO.

THE PLAZA, DUBLIN.

The supper dance at the Plaza Restaurant, Dublin, was very well patronised on Saturday night, over 300 attending. The reception accorded the versatile Embassy Six Band and the repeated demands for encores, left no room for doubt as to its popularity. Questioned regarding the rumour that the Plaza would shortly close down, the manager stated that this was entirely unfounded, and could be emphatically denied.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

LONDON STOCK MARKET FEATURES.

A MIXED SHOWING.

SOME NEWSPAPER SHARES.

(From Our Financial Correspondent.)
69 FLEET STREET, LONDON, Saturday.

Last week's Stock Exchange record was somewhat mixed. Gilt-edged Securities were a more uncertain market, influenced by the monetary situation, the many new capital issues, and the disclosure of a deficit for the past financial year of £15,500,000. The last circumstance served as a reminder that the forthcoming Budget is likely to impose extra taxation, but in what form there is, of course, no indication. As regards money, there is no reason to think that all chance of a 3 per cent. Bank rate has disappeared. The tendency of world interest rates is still downward, as witness the recent reduction in official rates of Sweden and Switzerland, the movement in the latter case having been the first for about four and a half years. The fact that Germany took most of the bar gold in the open market last week is not surprising, for that country is compelled to borrow abroad in order to replace the wastage of capital caused by the war, and the basis of an enlargement of credit is, of course, an increase in the holding of gold. If this cannot be obtained as a result of a favourable trade balance, it must be borrowed.

SPECULATIVE MARKETS.

While the market for purely investment securities was more subdued, there were various features in other directions. The recovery in Argentine Rails that followed the sharp improvement in the exchange is welcomed by many British investors, and following, as it did, the substantial rise in Brazilian securities tends to restore confidence in the future of those great South American republics. New York galvanised the market for shares in which that city is largely interested, though the full extent of the improvement in Brazilian Traction, Hydro Electrics and International Holdings was not held. American support was also largely responsible for more liveliness in the Rhodesian section, and to some extent also in oil shares. In the gramophone group prices have fluctuated more than for some time past; for, after the spurt caused by rumours of a coming fusion of the Columbia Graphophone and the H.M.V. companies, prices relapsed on an official denial of the report. It is still thought, however, that the two undertakings will come to some arrangement in connection with selling prices or the marketing of records, and on Friday there was a sharp rally when, it was rumoured, the shares were being bought for control purposes. Otherwise there would appear to be little scope for a substantial rise in prices of shares that during the 1928 boom reached a level that was not justified by the position.

ELECTRICAL ISSUES.

The Electrical Equipment issues have also been favoured by New York, and this is not surprising; for, if the consumption of electricity in this country is to increase to the extent indicated by present plants, such undertakings should enjoy a period of very great prosperity, and it is probable that current prices do not discount the future too liberally. Apparently, it is better business to buy such shares than those of the electric light and power companies themselves; for the latter are quoted at prices giving but a moderate yield from the last dividends, and there is not much chance of a substantial increase in distribution in the near future.

NEWSPAPER SHARES.

At this juncture it is useful to study yields afforded by the leading newspaper shares. Prices have fallen very considerably from the highest level of recent years. For this there are various reasons, but the principal is that as a result of the slump in America last autumn, followed by a severe curtailment of financial business generally, advertising revenue has suffered very considerably. It is regarded as a foregone conclusion, therefore, that the next reports will show a considerable reduction in profits, though it is not certain that such reduction will be translated into smaller dividends. At the current price of 1 7/16, Allied Newspapers Ord. give a yield of 9 per cent.; on Amalgamated Press. Ord. at 24s., the return is 6½ per cent., while on Associated Deferred 5s. shares, assuming the maintenance of the previous dividend of 40 per cent., the return is 6⅔ per cent. Daily Mail Trust Ord. at 3 1/16 per cent., yield little over 5¼ per cent. free of tax, equal to £6 12s. less tax, while on Daily Mirror Ord. the indicated yield is 6¼ per cent., taking the 5s. shares at 24s. each, and on Sunday Pictorial £1 Ord. Shares at 3⅛ the yield is 8 per cent. It will be seen that the returns vary a good deal, a circumstance that may be due to the difference in the holdings of allied companies. For example, it is understood that in the case of the Daily Mirror such interests are important, which may account for these shares returning only 6¼ per cent.

PREFERENCE ISSUES.

The more cautious investor would probably be satisfied to confine his interest to the Preference Shares, the dividend upon which is well covered by profits: that is to say, revenue could diminish very considerably, and yet the dividends on these Preference Shares might not be jeopardised. Allied Newspapers 8 per cent. Pref. give a yield of 7¼ per cent. at the current price of 22s.; Amalgamated Press 7 per cent. could probably be obtained at par, thus returning 7 per cent., while Sunday Pictorial 8 per cents. at 24s. yield 6⅔ per cent. A very high figure is indicated in the case of Illustrated Newspapers 7 per cent. Pref. The annual interest requires £126,000, and last year's net profits amounted to £239,318. Therefore, little doubt should exist regarding the company's ability to meet the payment; yet the £1 Shares are quoted at 14s. only, these returning 10 per cent., without allowance for the fact that six months' interest will be payable next month.

AUSTRALIAN SECURITIES.

The drastic fiscal reforms announced by the Australian Premier draw attention to the depreciated level at which the State Loans of the Commonwealth are quoted. If the object aimed at is attained, there should be a material movement in the economic position of the country, though a problem might arise in future years when the authorities would have to decide whether a higher tariff, inflicted for the avowed purpose of restricting imports, should remain in force as a revenue-producer. It is fairly safe to assume that there will be no debt repudiation, and, that being so, the various loans offer tempting returns at current prices. The Commonwealth 5 per cents due 1945 give a flat yield of 5 1/16 per cent., but with redemption this is increased to 5⅜ per cent. New South Wales 4 per cents., due 1962, stand at a price yielding 5¼ per cent., or 5 7/16 per cent. allowing for redemption, while the 5 per cents. 1955, give 5 7/16 and 5⅝ per cent., respectively.

A TAX SAVER.

Queensland 4 per cent. 1950 can be bought on a yield basis of 6 per cent., with redemption, the flat return being 5¼ per cent. This is a good example of a tax-saving security, for the difference between the two returns, 17s. 6d., is free of tax, as it represents capital appreciation. It is, therefore, equal to about 22s., less tax, which, added to the flat return of 5¼ per cent., gives a total return of nearly 6¼ per cent. On South Australia 4 per cent. 1960 the flat yield is 5 1/16 per cent., a figure increased to 5 11/16 per cent. allowing for redemption. A much shorter-dated security is Tasmania 4 per cent., repayable ten years hence. It is quoted about 88, thus returning 4 9/16 per cent., but with redemption the figure is increased to 5 11/16 per cent. The 5 per cent. Stock, due two years later (in 1942), is quoted about 91½, thus yielding 5 7/16 per cent., or 6 per cent. with repayment at par. Victoria 3½ per cent. 1949 at 73 return 4¾ per cent., but 5⅞ per cent. with redemption. In this case the difference between the two returns, 1⅛ per cent., is equal to fully 1 7/16 per cent., less tax, thus bringing up the full return to over 6⅛ per cent. Expressed in another way, £500 nominal of this particular stock could probably be bought for £365, plus charges; but in nineteen years' time the stock would be worth £500, while during the intervening period the holder has received an annual income of £17 10s.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

THE OUTLOOK.

To-day (Monday) week the Budget statement is due, and the city waits with interest and a good deal of anxiety to see how Mr. Snowden will provide for the past year's deficit of over 14½ millions, as well as for the many millions of additional expenditure required to carry out the Government's programme. Practically the only chance of effecting any substantial economies lies in taking advantage of the present spell of cheap money to bring forward a scheme of debt conversion on a really important scale. It is suggested (writes The Sunday Times) that the 5 per cent. War Loan, totalling over 2,000 millions, will be dealt with piecemeal, and that an offer will be made, say, to convert 500 millions into 4½ per cent. stock, accompanied by a warning that the next 500 millions will be offered only at 4 per cent., followed by successive reductions to 3½ per cent. and 3 per cent. Such a plan to be successful presupposes a further rise in Conversion 4½ per cent. and War Loan 4½ per cent. at least to par, and a corresponding appreciation in other British Government stocks. In any event, it may be taken for granted that holders of War Loan 5 per cent. would be given the option of repayment at par with accrued interest, and the question arises: How many would elect to take this course and run the risk of being unable to reinvest in a security of equal standing to give a similar return? In this connection it should be remembered that the supply of high-class investments other than British Funds is seriously depleted, and the shortage has not been remedied by the recent issues of Colonial and Corporation loans. Although business in Industrials has received a stimulus from the American buying of certain specialities, this revival of the speculative spirit in Wall street is hardly a matter for congratulation, especially as it is apparently unaccompanied by any real improvement in American trade.

DUBLIN CORPORATION ISSUE.

The Dublin Corporation recently authorised the creation of a further one million 5 per cent. Stock, 1950-70, part of which, we understand, will be offered to the public on attractive terms this week. This stock, is, of course, a full trustee security in the Free State, and, in view of the success which attended the previous issue in July, 1928, resulting in the prompt closing of the lists, we think the investing public should be prepared to lodge their applications at the earliest opportunity. The issues recently made by the English municipalities have, during the last few weeks, been readily absorbed, and good premiums established on the new stock.

RISING "INTERNATIONALS."

The revival of speculative activity in Wall street has been reflected here in that section of the market which deals in international securities (says The Observer). Quotations have fluctuated, but dealings have been considerable. Compared with the lowest points touched recently the present quotations show favourably, although they still remain, and are likely to, far below the level reached in the "boom" period last year. The following table shows the position:—

	Highest 1929.	Lowest 1930.	Price now.
International Nickel	74¼	32	43¾
Brazil Traction	84½	36¾	48¾
Hydro Electric	86¾	38½	52
International Holdings	15	4½	6¾
Associated Electric	58/6	24/10½	29/9
General Electric	81/3	44/9	54/0

It must be remembered that the shares of upwards of 100 British companies have quotations on the New York curb market. While the "boom" was in progress buying from the other side caused values to rise here. When the crash came in the autumn, however, many of these American holdings were unloaded here, with a very depressing effect. To-day the situation appears to be again changing, and purchases for American account are once more making their appearance. It is worth emphasising, however, that those who take part in the present movement must be prepared for wide fluctuations in prices.

THE ACTIVITY OF WALL STREET.

The New York Correspondent of the Evening Standard cabled on Saturday:—The spring bull market goes merrily on, and at its present rate of progress bids fair to rival the historic rising markets of recent years. The swift pace of the recovery movement from the low levels of November last to the prices of the present time is estimated to have cancelled 50 per cent. of the losses sustained in the selling wave of the autumn, and provides ample testimony of the tremendous power behind the constructive market forces. Heavy trading has been witnessed for almost a fortnight, but there are many who declare that this is not indicative of a normal, healthy market. The constant switching from one set of market leaders to another is further proof of the contention that the market appears to be in a distributive state, with the possibility of a decline of far-reaching proportions in the making. If the market continues to forge ahead there are numerous issues which may be considered as favourites for the time being. Radio Corporation shares are going through their paces in a manner reminiscent of a year ago, when they broke away sensationally to record high levels. Columbia Graphophone also appears to be primed for a real move. Among Chemicals, Air Reduction, Davison Chemical and Union Carbide appear to be on the upward trend. Consolidated Gas and Electric, North American and Standard Gas are the best acting issues in the utility group.

BOND ISSUES NOW THE FASHION IN AMERICA.

The extent to which the medium for new capital issues in the United States has changed from Common stocks to Bonds since the Wall street break is strikingly illustrated by the figures for the first quarter of 1930. During the first three months of this year the total security flotations in the American market amounted to £387,651,800, against £454,845,200 for the same period of 1929. Of this total £339,341,600 is represented by Bonds and £48,310,200 by stocks, as compared with £221,659,600 Bonds and £213,185,600 stocks in the first quarter last year. These statistics indicate that whereas in the first quarter of 1929 only 50 per cent. of the new financing was represented by Bond issues, this year 88 per cent. was in the form of Bonds and only 12 per cent. in stocks.

TRINIDAD PITCH LAKE.

Writing with reference to a statement made by Sir Courtauld Thomson, chairman of the Limmer and Trinidad Lake Asphalt Company, at the annual meeting on 28th March, in which he suggested that his company held the concession of the pitch lake in Trinidad, and paid yearly to the Crown the royalties on the asphalt there mined, Lord Lee, of Fareham, says:—"This statement, if not corrected, would be very detrimental to the interests and position of the company, of which I am chairman—that is, Trinidad Lake Asphalt, Ltd., of 4 Adelphi terrace, London, W.C.2, which is, and has been for many years, the sole and exclusive concessionaire of the pitch lake and its products, under the lease granted to it by the Crown in 1925. This company has no connection with the Limmer and Trinidad Lake Asphalt Company, though the latter is the chief and much esteemed user of pitch lake asphalt in the United Kingdom."

N.S. WALES BORROWS IN NEW YORK.

Messrs. Blair and Co. will shortly offer for subscription in New York $7,500,000 Metropolitan Water, Sewerage, and Drainage Board (Sydney, New South Wales) Twenty-Year 5½ per cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, due April 1st, 1960, at the price of 92½ and interest. The bonds will be guaranteed unconditionally by the State of New South Wales as to principal and interest. A Cumulative Sinking Fund of ½ of 1 per cent. per annum will operate annually through purchases in the market at or below 100 and interest or by drawings by lot at 100 and interest. The proceeds of this issue are to be used by the board for the construction of additional water, sewer, and drainage works or to refund floating debt incurred for such purposes.

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS.

ARMY AND NAVY CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETY.—Final dividend of 1/10½ per share, making a total for year of 2/6 per share, or 25 per cent. (Same as for previous year.)

BANGAWAN RUBBER.—Profit for 1929 was £5,235, less Debenture interest, £4,418, leaving £817 (against £5,642), adding £10,041 brought in, gives £10,857 to carry forward.

CONSOLIDATED MINES SELECTION.—The Consolidated Mines Selection Company, which is considerably interested in the Northern Rhodesia copper industry, the Anglo-American Corporation of South Africa and other large concerns, reports revenue totalling £129,712 for 1929. This compares with £114,622 for 1928, and after meeting all charges, the net balance was £112,300, against £79,836, income tax absorbing only £4,861, compared with £28,924. Revenue comprised interest and share dividends of £62,049 (against £67,080), sundry profits of £67,519 (against £47,399), and transfer fees of £144 (same). After taking £8,000 (against £22,000) from the dividend equalisation fund, the directors, as already announced, propose to maintain the dividend on the £600,000 capital at 20 per cent., carrying forward about £8,000, subject to additional remuneration to directors, compared with £7,758 brought in. The dividend funds, after the above withdrawal, will stand at £10,000. The balance sheet shows that cash and cash assets exceed the total of current and contingent liabilities by £235,201. It is stated that the market value of the shareholdings as at December 31, was largely in excess of the figure of £622,856 shown in the balance sheet. Loans against security stand at £67,095, and cash at £103,324.

D. AND W. MURRAY.—Directors decided not to declare interim dividend on Ordinary in respect of the half-year ended January 19. Usual dividend of 7 per cent. per annum on Preference will be paid April 15.

HARPENDEN (SELANGOR) RUBBER.—Profit for 1929 was £2,886 (against £6,456), adding balance brought forward, £5,599, and transfer from taxation reserve no longer required, £3,000, makes £11,486. Preference dividend takes £1,639, commission £133. General reserve receives £3,000, forward £6,713.

LONDON GENERAL CAB.—Against a prospectus estimate of £32,000 for the first year, rising to £63,000 by the third year, after ample provision for depreciation, the London General Cab Co., which was formed October 9, 1928, reports a net profit of £10,189 for the period to December 31, 1929. This was struck after allowing £14,132 depreciation and £867 directors' fees. After providing £500 for income tax and deducting £189 proportion of profits earned prior to incorporation carried to capital reserve, there is available £9,501. The directors propose reducing the preliminary expenses of £16,643 by £8,322, leaving a carry forward of £1,179. They state that the construction programme was, owing to a number of unforeseen causes, delayed many months beyond what could have been reasonably anticipated, with the result that the number of cabs on service fell short of expectations. The issued capital is £225,000 fully-paid in shares of 10s. each.

MOOLOYA ESTATES.—A final dividend of 30 per cent. on Ordinary Shares, making 45 per cent., less tax, for year. (Same.)

MONK BRIDGE IRON AND STEEL.—Accounts for 1929 show loss of £897 (against profit of £2,129), debit balance brought in is thus increased to £140,959.

OLYMPIC PORTLAND CEMENT.—Net profit for 1929, £12,380 (against £59,395). Dividend of 6 per cent., forward £33,259 (against £32,878). For 1928 dividend was 15 per cent., while £10,000 was transferred to reserve fund, and £10,000 to reserve for extension of property.

OUVAH CEYLON ESTATES.—Final dividend of 20 per cent., making 27½ per cent., less tax. (Last year dividend was 25 per cent.)

PANAGULA RUBBER.—Dividend of 4 per cent. (Last year 5 per cent.)

PAQUIN'S RESULTS.—Paquin, robe and dressmakers, of Paris and London, report a profit of £130,813 for 1929, as compared with £139,981. After providing directors' fees and income tax, the net profit was £81,976, against £74,478 for 1928, the latter being struck after meeting a loss on exchange of £32,218. ASSOCIATED GAS AND ELECTRIC CO.

It was officially announced in New York on Friday that the common shares, 5½ per cent. 1938 investment certificates, and 4½ per cent. 1949 convertible debentures of the Associated Gas and Electric Company have been introduced on the New York Curb Exchange. Shares of the company, which is one of the largest U.S. public utility enterprises, financed by the Harris Forbes banking interests, were previously dealt in on the New York Produce Exchange.

CHEVIOT RUBBER.

The directors of Cheviot Rubber have decided to issue a further 259,565 shares of 2s. each, raising the issued capital to £220,000. The shares are to be offered in the first instance to shareholders registered March 18th, at the price of 2s. 6d. per share (2s. in respect of capital and 6d. in respect of premium) in the proportion of one new share for every ten shares held, fractions of a share being disregarded. The new shares will rank on allotment pari passu with the existing issued shares of the company. For the convenience of shareholders who may desire to transfer their right to all or any of the shares to which they are entitled, renunciation forms are issued. Applications may also be made for small numbers of additional shares to "round off" odd holdings.

BARCELONA TRACTION, LIGHT AND POWER.

The scheme of arrangement for the reorganisation of the share capital, which was approved by the shareholders, has now been confirmed by the Canadian Courts, and a supplemental charter has been granted giving effect to the arrangement. Shareholders will be notified when the new definitive certificates in respect of the registered shares of no par value will be ready for delivery against the surrender of the existing share certificates. Holders of share warrants to bearer will, in due course, be requested to present their warrants for the purpose of having the same endorsed to represent shares of no par value.

MANCHESTER MARKETS REVIEW.

TRADE DISAPPOINTING.

(From Our Commercial Correspondent.)

The trend of business in the provision trade throughout the week has been comparatively featureless, and, with one or two exceptions, of a more or less disappointing character. In bacon, Irish continues in small supply, and held for full rates, but the Continental trade has been rather unsatisfactory. At the weekly meeting of the Bacon Committee no alteration was made in Irish, Danish or Swedish, but Dutch was reduced 3s. per cwt. According to a report from Denmark, the co-operative bacon factories in that country have, during the months of January and February, endeavoured to gather reliable information about the stocks of pigs in that country at the present time in comparison with the census of last year. As was expected, there was an increase in the number of pigs differing in the various districts of the country, which might average for the whole of the country between twenty and twenty-five per cent. more. The weakness noted in the butter market for sometime past continues, and the Danish official quotation shows a further reduction of twelve kroner at 232 kroner per 100 kilos; at the corresponding period of last year the figure was 268 kroner, and, in 1928, 310 kroner. The present figure is the lowest registered since the end of the Great War, and even experts show no disposition to commit themselves as to whether a further decline will take place. Whether the reason be over-production, lower consumptive demand, or economics, the values of all descriptions of butter continue to fall. Confidence has taken wings, and buyers are keeping off the market. Stocks are accumulating, and increasing visible supplies add to the discomfiture of all interested parties. Very heavy losses are being faced, and the tendency is for still lower prices before any stabilisation can be thought of; even at the present quotation of New Zealand and Australian butters, the market is top-heavy. The opinion generally prevailing is that during the next few months, when the European production of butter will have established itself, values will be nearer to those prevailing before the Great War than they have ever been since. All protests about costs of production, etc., must be dismissed—the producer abroad will have to cut his coat according to his cloth, put his own house in order, and accept the new situation now created by the economic upheaval throughout the world. The public has got to be brought back to fully appreciate the lower retail prices, and then the demand for butter will come back to its own again. Irish and English eggs continue to form the bulk of supplies in this centre, but the lower prices ruling appear to have stimulated demand, and there is a much better undercurrent for most descriptions.

Business at Salford Cattle Market on Tuesday was generally slow, and with an easier feeling in most departments. Taken in the aggregate, the number of fat cattle penned showed a decrease, but Irish were offered in larger numbers. At the Manchester Pig Market the number of pigs offered was almost in excess of requirements, and, with weather conditions by no means favourable to business, were on the easy side. At the Manchester Dead Meat Market home-killed meat was quiet, but prices generally were maintained. Imported lamb has been fairly steady, but prices of both beef and mutton have declined during the week.

Dead poultry closed firm at higher prices, best chickens being quoted 1s. 3d. to 1s. 6d.; fowls, 8d. to 10d.; Irish turkeys up to 1s 8d., and geese 10d. to 1s. per lb. Salmon in better supply, medium fish being obtainable at 2s. 10d., and large 2s. 6d. per lb. (wholesale).

TROPICAL PRODUCE MARKET FIRMER.

PALM OIL BUSIER.

(From Our Commercial Correspondent.)
LIVERPOOL, Saturday.

Business has been somewhat better this week in the tropical produce section, and values were firm. Palm oil during the early part of the week was inclined to drag, but, with home consumers coming in as buyers, sellers raised values slightly, and to-day soft oils in transit made £28 5s., [illegible] at £28 10s. and £28 15s., with the latter price ruling at the close. Business was done at [illegible] wanted April-May shipment. Imports of oil during March were [illegible] 4,216 tons against [illegible] tons last year, while deliveries were 1,388 tons, against 4,225 tons. The stock on hand is [illegible] tons, a decrease of 66 tons on the February figures.

Palm kernels have been firm throughout the week, with business done to Hamburg in April-May shipment material at £15 2s. 6d., May-June £15 6s. 3d., and June-July at £15 8s. 9d. To-day April-May is held for £15 3s. 9d., with May-June offered at £15 5s., but these values are within 1s. 3d. of what buyers are inclined to pay. Imports of kernels last month totalled 4,390 tons, against 6,661 tons in March, 1929. Liverpool's total for the three months is 14,422 tons, against 24,818 tons. Hull consumers have not been greatly interested, though a number of sales were noted in forward positions. May-June made £15 1s. 3d. and £15 2s. 6d.

Copra has been steadier, and sun-dried Straits April-May made £21 7s. 6d. to Rotterdam, while Marseilles paid £20 5s. for smoked South Sea.

Ground nuts continue on the quiet side, with undecorticated Nigerian and decorticated Rufisque steadier in value.

Seed oils have not varied much, and local made cottonseed is firm at 32s. 6d. for common edible, with deodorised at 34s. 6d. nett naked, ex mills. Linseed oils are unchanged on the week, raw making 44s. 6d. and boiled on spot in barrels at 46s. 6d. per cwt. Ground nut oils held to £38 10s. per ton for Liverpool made deodorised naked, ex mills, with Manchester crushers quoting the same figure.

LIVERPOOL MEAT IMPORTS.

During the past week four steamers landed fresh meat at Liverpool from the various North and South American and Colonial ports. The vessels, with their freights, were as follows. The Nariva, from River Plate, with 43,544 sheep and lamb carcases, 50 carcases and 512 boxes of pork, 13 sides of veal, 3,146 bags of meat, and 41,173 quarters of beef; the Duchess of York, from St. John, with 252 boxes of meat; the Euripides, from Australia, with 21,577 sheep and lamb carcases and 1,965 bags of beef; and the Carmania, from New York, with 250 boxes of pork and 594 boxes of meat—making a total of 65,121 sheep and lamb carcases, 50 carcases and 752 boxes of pork, 5,957 bags, etc., of meat, and 41,173 quarters of beef. Compared with the arrivals of the preceding week, these figures show an increase of 37,990 sheep and lamb carcases and 8,937 quarters of beef, and a decrease of 1,000 boxes and carcases of pork and 3,082 bags, etc., of meat.

"IRISH INVESTORS' GUARDIAN."

The April issue of this periodical contains quite a lot of important up-to-date financial information which should be appreciated by investors, as it includes reviews of the reports and balance sheets of the Alliance and Dublin Consumers' Gas Company, Alexander Thom and Company, [illegible] Odhams Press, Morris Motors, Provincial Tramways, Cheviot and Lake Rubbers, British Insulated Cables, [illegible] Rand Mines, National Bank of India, Britannic Assurance, Norwich Union Fire Insurance, Bank of Ireland, and Dundalk Cotton Mills, besides the usual information on Dublin Stock markets and other interesting information.

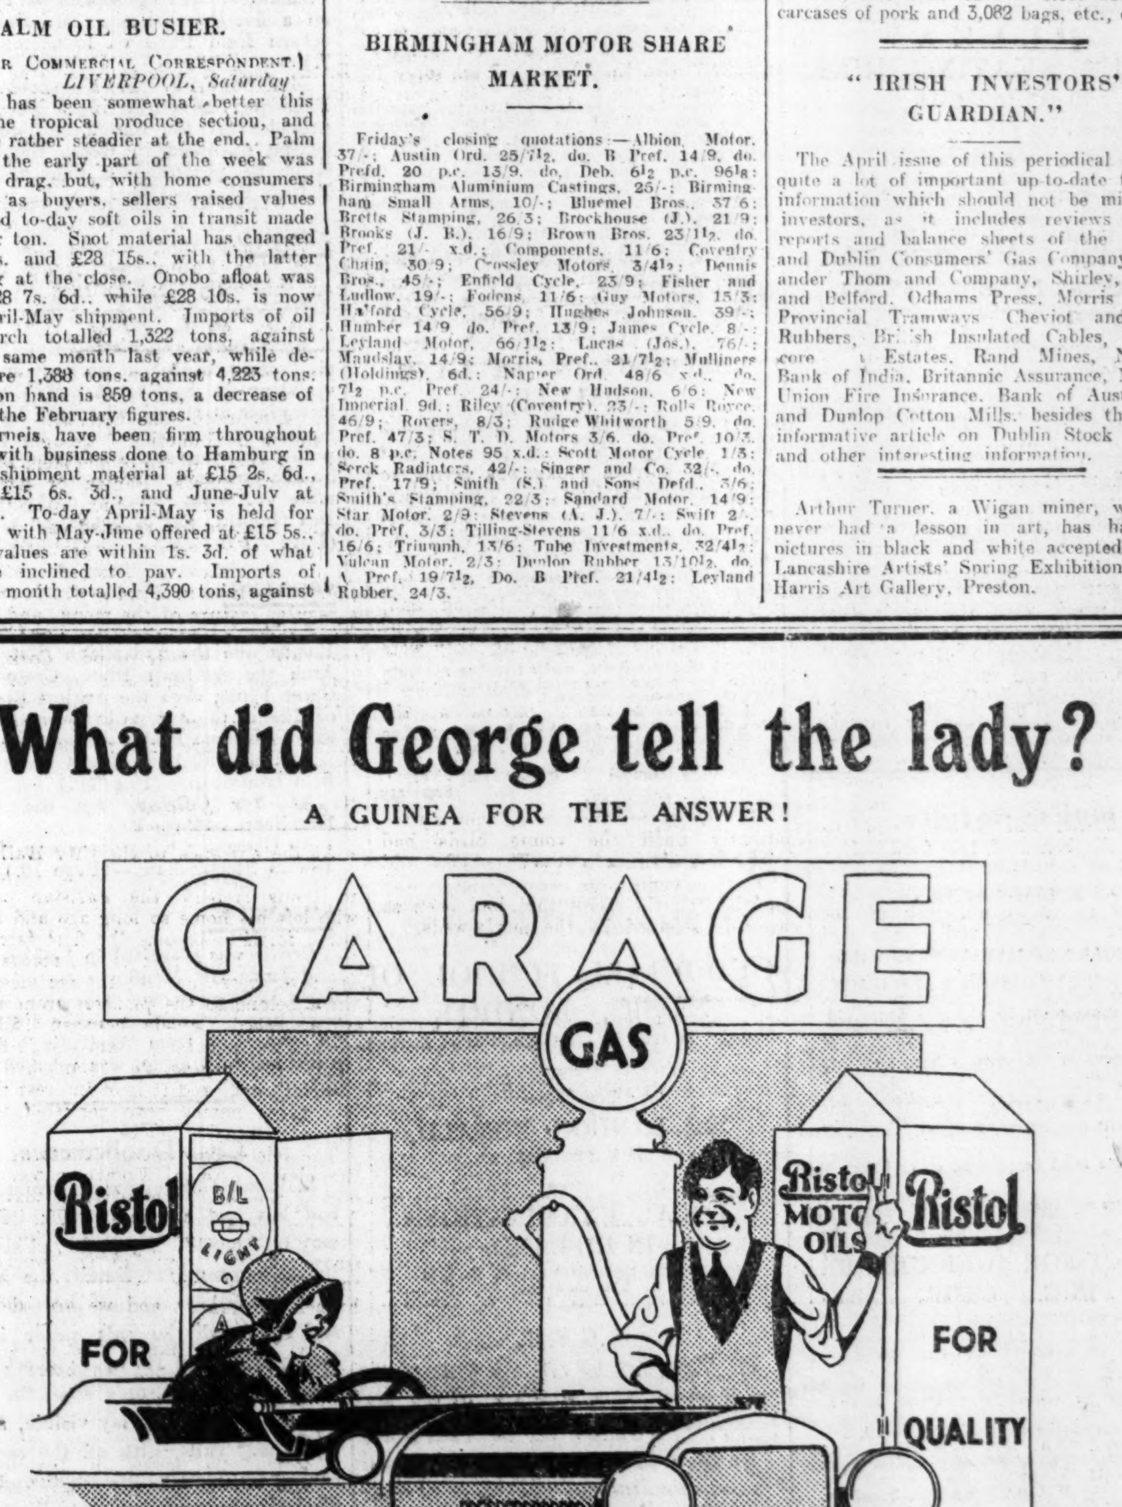
What did George tell the lady?

A GUINEA FOR THE ANSWER!



George has worked on engines since he was "so high," and, therefore, knows what damage can be done to them by the use of inferior motor oils. The fair motorist knows this also, and has asked him for "the finest oil you can recommend." George has supplied her with "Ristol," and is telling her why it is the ideal motor oil.

The proprietors of "Ristol" offer a prize of £1 1s. for the best version of George's recommendation, which must not exceed 12 words, and must have some bearing on "Ristol."

Entries must be written on postcards, and reach Ristol Advertising Department (Competition No. 12a), 53-54 Lr. O'Connell Street, Dublin, not later than April 11th. The decision of the proprietors of "Ristol" will be final, and no correspondence can be entered into.

WHAT "THE LIMERICK MAN" SAID

The prize in "Ristol" Competition No. 10a has been awarded to Mr. W. E. Shepherd, 46 Belgrave square, Rathmines, Dublin, for the following:—
"'Ristol' I'll make the rule,
To keep you, me, and engine cool."

The Irish Times

MONDAY, APRIL 7, 1930.

NEWS SUMMARY.

IRELAND.

There was a very large attendance at the ex-Service men's reunion dinner, which was held in the Gresham Hotel, Dublin, on Saturday night under the auspices of the British Legion.—(Pages 7 and 8.)

Speaking at Ballybay, Co. Monaghan, yesterday, Mr. Blythe, Free State Minister for Finance, said that with Fianna Fail in power for a month the country would get back to the dreadful position in 1922, when there was no government in the country.—(Page 7.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

It is believed that the fate of the Naval Conference will be decided this week. A three-Power agreement is regarded as a certainty, but it is considered extremely doubtful whether agreement can be reached on a five-Power basis. M. Briand will return from Paris on to-morrow.—(Page 7.)

Mr. Snowden, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, is considering a scheme which provides for the compulsory use in the baking of bread in Great Britain of a stipulated percentage of flour milled from British wheat.—(Page 7.)

ABROAD.

Six persons were killed in a level-crossing accident in New Zealand.—(Page 7.)

Mr. Gandhi and his followers began the civil disobedience campaign yesterday by violating the Salt Laws. No disturbance took place at Dandi, where the Nationalist leader directed operations; but at other points the contraband salt was confiscated by the authorities and some arrests were made. Among those in custody is Ram Das Gandhi, son of Mahatma Gandhi.—(Page 7.)

SPORTING.

At the Phœnix Park on Saturday Remus won the Ardsallagh Plate, Double Arch the Ashtown Plate, Cornstack the Greer Plate, Bem the Arklow Plate, Lass of Rheims the Artane Plate, and Equality the Ashbourne Plate.—(Page 10.)

At Lingfield Arctic Light won the Lingfield Handicap.—(Page 10.)

At Ayr Culzean won the Eglinton Handicap.—(Page 10.)

At Uttoxeter Kingsdown won the Alton Towers Steeplechase.—(Page 10.)

FINANCIAL.

Credit was plentiful in Lombard street, and loans till Monday were offered at 2 down to 1½ per cent. Discount rates were very firm. The Bank received £1,000,000 in sovereigns from Australia. £500,000, previously set aside, was released.—(Page 3.)

Civil Disobedience.

Mahatma Gandhi's march from Ahmedabad has had a safe ending; its success may be doubted. Yesterday, at six o'clock in the morning, at Dandi, the Mahatma and his fellow-pilgrims entered the sea and collected the salt water in pots. Evaporation did the rest; shortly afterwards, under the sun's rays, the coveted and contraband salt lay visible, a Bethel in India. Thus, with all the ceremonial so dear to the Hindu heart, the great civil disobedience campaign formally has been launched. Yesterday's events at Dandi, and throughout Surat and the Bombay Presidency—and, indeed, throughout all India—generally were unmarked by any serious émeutes. In one Bengal village a man was killed in a local brawl, a fact out of which the Swarajists are trying to make capital; but it is probable that this bickering in no way differed from those quarrels that appear to be inseparable from the village life of Hindustan. Bombay was the scene of some grave rioting. Strikers in the employment of the G.I.P. Railway marched up and down the line waving red flags and stoning trains. Nineteen men have been arrested, and the situation seems to be under control. Elsewhere, however, order prevailed. While the Mahatma at Dandi laboriously was breaking the law, his lieutenants were following his example in other parts of the country, though without the same immunity. Mr. Manilal Kathari, President of the Gujerat Province Congress Committee, was arrested with a party of fifty-five volunteers at Viramgam, in the Bombay Presidency, while the Mahatma's son, Ram Das Gandhi, suffered the same fate at [illegible], in Surat.

Of the chief leaders of the campaign the Mahatma himself and Jawarharlal Nehru alone remain at large. Mr. Gandhi did not expect this state of affairs, and certainly is embarrassed by it. He hoped to be arrested before he reached the coast, in which case, while he languished in jail a picturesque and inspiring figure of martyrdom, his lieutenants would have led a perfervid and outraged populace in the paths of civil disobedience. The arrest of Mr. Vallabhai Patel especially was irritating, for much was expected of him. Mr. Gandhi now indicates that he will speak daily until he is arrested; presumably Mr. Jawarharlal Nehru will pursue the same course in the Punjaub. The Government's intentions are not yet known, but hitherto it appears to have acted most adroitly. It has laid hands on the executive and left the figure-head, and, while the Mahatma holds the centre of the stage, as he must continue to hold it, no minor leader can usurp his place in the popular esteem. Thus, the square peg of vision is thrust into a round hole of action of its own making, while those who might have filled it are prevented. In itself the infringement of the salt law is not important; but, if it should precipitate chaos in other branches of the administration, or if such developments should be seen to be inevitable, the Government might be forced to accede to the Mahatma's wish and arrest him. Future action, we suppose, will be determined according to the course of events.

Although in India, as in Ireland, the end of political convulsions is hard to foresee, the tale of the pilgrimage from Ahmedabad suggests that the authorities were prudent when they decided not to interfere. When the pilgrims left that factious city they started amid the plaudits of a great multitude. Missionaries in motor cars preceded the party to stir up popular excitement, and the villagers were told that the Mahatma would be welcomed best by a display of khaddar—native cloth—and the resignation of the patels—village headmen. The results fell short of expectation. In Broach only 37 out of 549 patels resigned; Surat, the home of the movement, showed better figures, but even here, out of 760 patels only 102 produced the desired welcome for the Mahatma. Indeed, in several villages local Simon Alleyns withdrew their resignations after the procession had passed, while everywhere the display of khaddar was deficient. There were further stings to wound the Mahatma's heart. His followers enrolled bearers to illuminate their way by elaborate flares at night. Instead of a simple and edifying witness to the purity of an ideal, Mr. Gandhi's march to Dandi threatened to become a "golden journey to Samarkhand." Moreover, on April 1st, the Child Marriage Act, which forbids the marriage of children, became law, and the pilgrims found that the villagers, ignoring Swaraj, were occupied with a final spate of juvenile weddings. Yet, the whole position remains uncertain. Yesterday's ceremonial at Dandi may have serious repercussions, and we imagine that, until more evidence is forthcoming, the Government will not commit itself in the matter of Mr. Gandhi's liberty.

Australia's Imports.

The drastic steps which have been taken by the Commonwealth of Australia to reduce imports have given rise to much criticism. Since the War Australia has been living beyond her means. Labour Governments have increased wages to an almost fantastic extent, while costs of production have been rising steadily. States and municipalities have been borrowing money in the most extravagant manner. Huge loans have been floated for the purpose of maintaining a completely artificial condition of affairs, with the inevitable result that Australia is faced with a financial crisis. In these circumstances, the Scullin Government has decided to take almost unprecedented measures. The excess of imports over exports had become so great that the exchange in London was beginning to move against Australia, and, in order to avoid a financial collapse, the Government realised that something must be done to redress the balance of trade. In the first place, all the available gold in the country was mobilised and sent to London. The Government of the Commonwealth, however, has not nearly enough gold to bridge the gap between imports and exports, and it has taken the extreme course of imposing a complete embargo upon certain types of imports, of reducing the amounts of another type by half, and of levying a fifty per cent. surtax upon a third type. These new restrictions apply to virtually every class of import, with certain inevitable exceptions, and are calculated to reduce the total value of imports into the Commonwealth by £15,000,000 or £20,000,000 every year. Of course, they are purely emergency measures, which have been taken to meet an almost desperate situation; but, although they show that Mr. Scullin and his colleagues have great courage, we do not believe that, in the long run, any such interference with the natural trend of trade can have good results. For example, the embargo on imports is certain to involve retaliation. Already the French Government has decided to pay the Commonwealth back in its own coin. It proposes to apply a heavy surtax to corn and butter from Australia, and, on balance, the Commonwealth stands to lose heavily. Other countries, notably the United States, are not likely to ignore Mr. Scullin's embargo. Britain, by virtue of imperial preference, probably, will gain on the transaction, but many of Australia's most lucrative customers certainly will not continue to buy her goods while their own wares are being excluded from the Australian market. Furthermore, shipping freights from Australia to other countries will be increased, since trade with the Commonwealth will be almost entirely "one-way" while the import ban continues to exist. It will be an interesting, but, we fear, costly experiment. All experience teaches that no country can afford to play fast and loose with economic laws, and Australia is not likely to be an exception to the rule.

Railway Stations.

Sir Felix Pole, formerly general manager of the Great Western Railway, predicts that, in the near future, when electricity finally has triumphed over steam, all terminal railway stations will be underground. When that day comes it may be possible for visitors to a great city to obtain a favourable impression of it. As things are now, the entering train puffs its way through rows of squalid houses, blackened by a perpetual dew of engine smoke. Most urban railway stations were constructed amid the uninspired materialism of last century, when architecture was at its lowest depth and town-planning was unknown. A vague respect for amenities, fortified by certain practical considerations, prevented promoters from doing worse harm; at least, we can be thankful that they did not plant their stations in the main streets. In some respects, Dublin is treated more kindly than most cities—Kingsbridge and Broadstone are a high improvement on the general ruck of stations. Her two most important approaches, however—those that enter the city by Amiens street and Westland row—are dingy and unimpressive; not only are the stations in themselves uncomely, but the lines are elevated, with the result that the visitor obtains a panorama of the city's worst quarters. Now that the Shannon scheme is a fait accompli, in a few years, perhaps, a few inventions will ensure the electrification of Irish railways. Then, doubtless, the passenger will plunge into subterranean depths some miles from the city, and, passing beneath environs—by that time washed and gleaming with a cleanliness unknown for a century—rise by revolving stairways into the magnificence of Sackville street. On that day one reproach of the iron age will have been removed.

A Sign of Grace.

Soviet Russia has committed many crimes against common-sense and normal evolution. Nevertheless, something may be forgiven her for her latest action, in which she has set an example to the civilised world. Respectable Communist opinion, we are told, frowns upon jazz; a young man or woman who is suspected of "fox-trotting" becomes a social outcast, unworthy of association with the complete Communist. The few low haunts that continue to pander to the decadent and reactionary taste of their customers are avoided by all self-respecting disciples of Stalin. Visions arise of a country whose youth throbs and languishes to the soft "plonk" of the balalaika rather than to the hoot of the saxophone. Alas! we learn with some sadness that the Soviet's motive is not æsthetic, but doctrinaire. It objects to jazz, not on account of its obvious demerits, but as a symbol of capitalism and the bourgeoisie. The lords of Russia love the dances of pre-revolutionary days no better than they love the syncopated swayings of a bourgeois Occident. Instead, they have tried to develop "proletarian dances," and some of the more enterprising spirits hope that group dances, symbolic of industrial organisation, will attract the young. Pragmatically, the Soviet is worthy of all honour in this affair: for any attempt to discountenance jazz deserves the applause of all good men.

PHŒNIX PARK CLUB RACES.

FIRST APRIL MEETING.

Considering that the weather conditions were decidedly chilly, there was a very satisfactory attendance for the opening meeting of the season, held at the Ashtown course on Saturday afternoon last.

The well-kept grounds of the paddocks and enclosures were looking as attractive as ever, but the extreme lateness of spring was very evident when one viewed the bareness of the trees, which made one think more of December than of April. A bright patch of colour was noticeable in a lovely bed of golden polyanthus, but there were many regrets that the beautiful herbaceous bed has had to be sacrificed to provide a site for the erection of the "Tote."

The cold north wind was responsible for the fact that fur coats were still the most popular wear, and a further deferment of light spring fashions was deemed advisable.

Among those noticed in the Members' Enclosure during the afternoon were:—The Marchioness Conyngham, Lord and Lady HolmPatrick, the Lady de Freyne, Sir Lindsey and Lady Hogg, Lady Weldon, Sir Anthony Weldon, Sir Walter Nugent, Lady Chance, Lady Goulding, the Hon. Mrs. Dewhurst, the Hon. Gerald and Mrs. Wellesley, Miss O. Plunket, Major and Mrs. M. King-French, Mrs. D. More-O'Ferrall, Mr. R. More-O'Ferrall, Capt. Boyd-Rochfort, V.C., and Mrs. Boyd-Rochfort; Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Barker, Mr. H. Jameson, Misses Kennedy, Judge O'Byrne, Miss McNeil, Mr. E. Bellaney, Mr. G. Purcell Gilpin, Major E. M. Connolly, Miss Holmes, Capt. L. J. Arnott, the Right Hon. T. K. Laidlaw, Misses Laidlaw, Mr. and Mrs. F. Lillis, Mr. D. Pack Beresford, Colonel Clarke, Miss A. Clarke, Miss Noble Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. H. Peard, Miss Manley, Mr. and Mrs. H. O'Reilly, Mr. Leonard, Major and Mrs. Wilkins, Capt. and Mrs. Collins, Mrs. Uniacke, Major V. Morton Jackson, Mrs. Lingard, Capt. and Mrs. J. Parr, Mr. M. Arnott, Mr. T. J. Fleming, Capt. Gerald Martin, Mr. Hubert M. Hartigan, Mr. H. Ussher, Mr. C. Myerscough.

MR. A. W. GAMAGE.

Mr. A. W. Gamage, the founder of the famous Holborn store bearing his name, died at his residence, Chesham, Buckinghamshire, at 7 o'clock on Saturday evening. His end was peaceful. He had been unconscious for two days, and he passed away without being able to recognise the members of the family, including Mr. Eric Gamage, who were at the bedside. He was in his 75th year. Fifty-two years ago he started business in a small way with stock, much of which was obtained on credit, and gradually built up a big business.

LONDON LETTER.

THE CONFERENCE'S LAST STAGE.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

In diplomatic circles it is thought that the Naval Conference must come to an end this week. It is outliving its usefulness, and, unless a satisfactory conclusion is reached without further delay, it is likely to do more harm than good by the fostering of doubts and suspicions that might have remained dormant. Yesterday the British delegation submitted to the French delegation its final proposals for a formula, and M. Briand took them to Paris for discussion with M. Tardieu. There is some wonder whether the latest formula will have a happier fate than the twenty-three that preceded it. France has been unable to accept one out of this score, and there seems to be little reason for the acceptance of that submitted yesterday. In fact, it is expected in well-informed quarters that M. Briand will be back in London on Tuesday with a rejection. If this happens, the end of the Conference is in sight.

A Possible Development.

If France definitely rejects the last formula to be put forward by Mr. Macdonald, there may be some speedy and interesting developments in the formation of a three-Power pact between Great Britain, the United States and Japan. It is known that the British Dominion delegates are much in favour of such an arrangement, and it is recognised generally that it can be carried through. Once the principle is accepted, there will be no need for the Conference to continue, since the necessary negotiations can be carried out through the intermediary of the Embassies. All hope of securing a five-Power pact will not be lost, but further consideration of the question will be postponed for many months—possibly to be resumed at Geneva on a suitable occasion. It may be found that the plenary meeting of the Conference called for last Friday and postponed to a date unfixed, will be held towards the end of the present week, when it may prove to be the final sitting.

Anxiety.

The search for a formula which will satisfy the Italian, as well as the French, delegation has led the negotiators into some strange roads of late, and there is not a little anxiety among members of the House of Commons about the possibilities of the situation. The rules of the League of Nations have been twisted so strangely that Conservatives fear that the Labour Government is prepared to give away more than is justifiable to secure agreement. Several questions will be put to the Prime Minister and the First Lord of the Admiralty to-morrow on the subject, and, if satisfactory assurances are not forthcoming, an attempt will be made to obtain a day for a full-dress debate on the Naval Conference, whether it is sitting or not.

The Conservative Outlook.

Stories have been circulated during the past few days suggesting that there are pronounced dissensions in the ranks of the Conservative Party; but, while there are differences of opinion, there is nothing of a character suggesting a clash of opposing forces. Mr. Baldwin's speech on Friday last has done a great deal to dispel any fears that the Conservatives will be rushed into an acceptance of certain policies whether they like them or not. The present outlook for the party, if not very good, is certainly not very bad, and, probably, the next few weeks will show that the support accorded to Mr. Baldwin by his followers will be unanimous and enthusiastic. This is the opinion of some prominent men in the party.

Party Campaigning.

Mr. Baldwin's speech at the Primrose League demonstration at the Albert Hall will be followed by another engagement to-morrow, when he will speak at Manchester in the Free Trade Hall. It is expected that he will deal with questions concerning commerce and industry, particularly in connection with "safeguarding" and the development of Empire trade. It is intended that these two speeches shall be the basis of the new Conservative campaign to be carried on in many parts of the country during next month. Engagements are being made by prominent speakers to address meetings in the principal centres, and the campaign will cover three weeks.

Speculation on the Budget.

Budget day draws near, and speculation about new taxation is increasing. It is accepted generally—though there seems to be little ground for the assumption—that the Chancellor of the Exchequer will not interfere with either the McKenna duties or the "safeguarding" duties, though it is expected that Mr. Snowden will have something to say about the continuance of these duties in the future. Land taxers are hugely delighted at the report that Mr. Snowden intends to place a tax on land value, and their pleasure is enhanced by the suggestion that the tax will not be as modest as was proposed at first. They have an idea that very big sums can be raised by this method of taxation, and hope to see their belief justified. It may be found, however, that Mr. Snowden intends to do no more than initiate a scheme of land taxation, with the intention of extending it later on.

The Stock Exchange Sweep.

The decision of the Stock Exchange Committee that there shall be no outside participation in the Stock Exchange sweep this year has given the brokers more trouble than a possible extension of the sweep would have done. Obviously the decision would mean that the sweep would be very much smaller than it had been in late years, but few members anticipated that it would become impossible for them to take tickets to pass on to clients. Each member is restricted to twenty-five tickets, marked "not transferable," and, if this intimation should be ignored, it may mean that the re-election of the member to his seat on the Stock Exchange may be jeopardised. This has led to a refusal by brokers to take any but a few tickets for themselves, while others are refusing to have anything whatever to do with the sweep. This does not preserve them from a flood of requests for tickets, and each application has to be answered with an explanatory letter.

The Indian Air Mail.

The new route to be followed by the Indian air mail service has been decided, and the revised time-table will be brought into operation when Summer Time begins next week. The machine leaving Croydon next Saturday morning will cross Europe by way of Cologne, Vienna, Budapest, Uskub and Salonika. This portion of the journey will occupy two days. On the third day the Mediterranean will be crossed, and for the remainder of the journey the old route will be followed. The complete journey from London to Karachi will be performed in just under seven days, which will represent a saving of about twenty-four hours on the previous time-table.

GANDHI VIOLATES THE SALT LAWS.

TAME PROCEEDINGS ON THE SHORE AT DANDI.

LEADER'S SON ARRESTED AT SURAT.

AUTHORITIES CONFISCATE CONTRABAND SALT.

MR. GANDHI and his followers began the civil disobedience campaign yesterday by collecting salt from the sea at various points in violation of the law.

At Dandi, where Mr. Gandhi himself directed operations, there was no interference by the authorities, but at other points the salt was confiscated when made.

Some arrests were made, among the persons taken into custody being Ram Das Gandhi, son of the Nationalist leader. They were offered bail in their own recognisances, but refused it, and remain in jail until their trial to-morrow.

Small quantities of contraband salt were on sale in Calcutta yesterday, and were eagerly bought up at fancy prices, the amount which usually would be sold for a rupee fetching from five to twenty-five rupees.

HOW THE DEED WAS DONE.

LEADER'S HANDFUL OF SAND AFTER MORNING SWIM.

FROM "THE TIMES" SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

DANDI, JALALPUR, Sunday.

Mahatma Gandhi broke the salt laws of the Indian Government at 6.30 this morning. About a quarter of an hour earlier he had walked down the steps of his bungalow and been greeted almost rapturously by some 4,000 followers who had gathered during the night, spending the hour before dawn in silent prayer alternated by Nationalist songs.

Mr. Gandhi, wearing a loin-cloth, plunged into the sea, which is almost lukewarm here, and enjoyed a swim. After a few minutes he came out and, accompanied by his lieutenants, walked along the firm sand at the water's edge.

"THE APPOINTED TIME."

Punctually at the half-hour ("the appointed time for beginning civil disobedience throughout India") his companions advised him of the fact. Mr. Gandhi stooped down, scooped up a handful of sand and salt water and returned to the bungalow with a broad smile on his face.

The great deed was done, at least from the technical point of view; for he had "collected salt" within the meaning of the Salt Tax Act.

Shortly afterwards the eighty-two volunteers who had marched with the Mahatma from Ahmedabad received orders to carry on and proceeded in military formation to a neighbouring creek, where the salt deposits are thicker than on the beach.

The handful of salt collected by Mr. Gandhi was sol dby auction for 425 rupees (£32).

ARREST OF GANDHI'S SON.

At a meeting this afternoon, however, Mr. Gandhi announced that his son, Mr. Ram Das Gandhi, had been arrested, with five companions, at Surat during the day, on a charge of collecting salt. All six had been remanded, refusing bail.

There is another fact that gives a more significant side to to-day's picture. On my way back from Dandi to the camp at Jalalpur I passed a rickety bridge over a creek, which was almost dry. In the bed were gathered 156 volunteers from the neighbouring village, busily engaged in scraping salt from the deposits, piling it in mounds and finally carrying it off in bags. The whole operation was carried out with military precision, under orders from a leader, who gave a short blast on a whistle to mark each stage. Evidently the party had been carefully drilled for a long time.

It was still early in the day, but the leader proudly informed me that the party had gathered nearly 1,000lb. of salt. He added that the village intended to carry on the business after the present week of civil disobedience as a regular operation.

WHERE POLICE INTERVENED.

Another member of the party claimed that the failure of the Government to arrest Mr. Gandhi meant the early repeal of the salt tax as the natural implication.

Late this afternoon the police seized the salt collected by the villagers. They met with passive resistance, but there was good feeling on both sides and no hostilities. As soon as the police party was out of sight the villagers resumed operations, collected more salt and distributed it among the houses.

This is an isolated incident, but it illustrates the effect of Mr. Gandhi's campaign. It suggests more than ever that the march is not so ridiculous in the eyes of India as it appears on the surface. It must be remembered that, compared with the cheerful African, the Indian is a sad fellow, with little sense of humour at any time, and none where he himself is concerned.

THE CUTSTANDING FACT.

No useful purpose can be served by discussing the arguments for and against Mr. Gandhi's arrest, especially in this remote spot. The plain fact standing out above all controversy is that he has done what he set out to do and published to the world that he would do—broken the laws of British India on British Indian soil. Opinion on both sides still apparently regards his ultimate arrest as inevitable, but so far there are no signs of interference by the camp police.

GANDHI INVITING ARREST.

NETTLED BY AUTHORITIES' RESTRAINT.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BOMBAY, Sunday.

A large crowd, controlled by a hundred armed police, watched the somewhat unexciting proceedings at Dandi this morning, which were not enlivened by the arrest of Gandhi, as they had anticipated.

The Indian leader appears to have been nettled by the restraint of the authorities and to provoke arrest he proposes to address meetings every evening until he is arrested.

The agitation had some success of a sporadic sort in various other centres. In Viramgam (Bombay Presidency), Manilal Kothari, one of Gandhi's lieutenants, has been arrested, with a party of fifty-five volaunteers, who were carrying five pounds of salt each. The leader has been fined five hundred rupees (£37 10s.) or six weeks' simple imprisonment in default, while all the salt has been confiscated.

POLICE SEIZE SALT.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

JALALPUR, Sunday.

The police confiscated this afternoon about thirty maunds of salt, collected by 150 volunteers in the Bardoli and Jalalpur Talukas at Aat, three miles from Dandi. The volunteers have started to collect salt again.

Gandhi's volunteers at Dandi also collected salt, but, as the deposits there are not considerable, they brought water from the sea in earthen pots, which are being heated in order to manufacture salt.

Note.—A maund is about 80lb.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

CONTAI, BENGAL, Sunday.

Twenty-nine Nationalist volunteers, led by Dr. Auresm Banerji, broke the salt laws this morning in the village of Pichabani, six miles from here.

Excise officials, with the concurrence of the district police, seized and destroyed the salt which had been prepared, and, on the process of manufacture being resumed, they smashed the earthen vessels used for boiling the sea water. No arrests were made, but constables were placed at tactical points to prevent any further preparation of salt.

During this demonstration the District Magistrate, the Excise superintendent, some local officials and a dozen Excise men were present.

FANCY PRICES FOR CONTRABAND.

SALT THAT LOOKS LIKE SAND.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

CALCUTTA, Sunday.

Thirty-four civil resisters to-day manufactured about twenty pounds of unrefined salt at Manisbathans, on the edge of the salt lake. Several well-known Calcutta shikaris were present (shikaris are members of a low Bengal caste), and helped in the operations. The demonstrators, who were mostly satyagrahis, erected a small hut and placed an evaporating tank a short distance away from it.

The crowds that gathered to watch the proceedings were kept half a mile from the coast by the police. These were under the control of the District Magistrate, who was accompanied by Excise men and other officials.

After some salt had been manufactured a small quantity was distributed to the journalists present, including Reuter's Correspondent. In its unrefined state it looked very much like sand, but when tasted had a slight salty flavour.

Later to-day small quantities of contraband salt were available in Calcutta in a pure state, the process of refinement having been supervised by Das Gupta, who is a chemist. Quantities which would normally be sold for a rupee fetched fancy prices, ranging from five to twenty-five rupees.

To the palate the illicitly-produced and refined salt seems quite a good substitute for the commercial article, but whether it is strictly edible is doubtful, although Das Gupta strongly maintains that it is good.

THE VICEROY.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW DELHI, Sunday.

Lord Irwin, who has been staying over his time here to deal with any possible developments of the "civil disobedience" movement on the spot, left for the frontier to-day to visit the North-West frontier province prior to going to Simla on the 17th inst. The Government of India (Departments, Secretariats, etc.) assembles in Simla for the hot weather to-morrow.

THE SOVIET REPLY.

WAR TO BE CARRIED INTO ENEMIES' CAMP.

FROM THE SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT OF "THE TIMES."

RIGA, Sunday.

The Soviet Press has published brief summaries of the Archbishop of Canterbury's speech in the House of Lords on Wednesday, with a few selected passages, and comments generally reflecting the satisfaction of the Bolshevist authorities with the British Government's declaration of its intention to abstain from interference.

Isvestia has also published quotations from Lord Parmoor's speech in reply, and accused the British Government of "helplessness, timidity, uncertainty and ambiguous subterfuges."

Bolshevist leaders in Moscow have made preparations to "counter" the crusade against the Soviet anti-religion policy by carrying the war into the enemies' camp, and proposes to use the prominence thus gained for Russian matters abroad to organise a pro-Soviet revival in England, France, Germany and other European countries under trained agitators from Moscow.

The Society for the Promotion of Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries states that it has already enlisted the services of fifty well-known men, including scientists, men of letters and notable public personages, for this campaign. They will lecture and write in the chief European centres on "Cultural life in the U.S.S.R.," and dispel the "calumnies which have begun to shroud the reputation of the Soviet Union in mist." The Society adds that preparations are already complete for this campaign, which is to begin immediately.

EX-SERVICE MEN IN FREE STATE.

AN ASSET TO THE COUNTRY.

THE PROPOSED WAR MEMORIAL.

LORD GLENAVY AND THE FUND.

At a reunion dinner of ex-Service men in the Gresham Hotel, Dublin, on Saturday, under the auspices of the British Legion, at which Major-General Sir G. Franks, K.C.B., presided.

Lord Glenavy proposed the toast of the British Legion. He said that ever since the conclusion of the war he had felt that the paramount and pressing necessity of the day was that every man of any honour or gratitude should see to the welfare of the men who fought and died for them in the Great War. It always had seemed to him that so long as there was any small percentage even of those men who survived the terrors and triumphs of that great event undergoing privation or suffering as the result of it they had an absolute duty which they were bound to discharge for them.

There was a strange and sinister movement afoot to-day which found expression not merely in the Press but on the stage and in their literature, that the time had come when they should think of nothing but the tears and the tragedy of the Great War, and that they should forget its triumphs and the men who fought and won it for them. He did not think that that feeling was going to get the upper hand, but he did believe that as time progressed and as that great host of men who had been left as a debt upon them was diminishing, their interest and their devotion to their welfare was increasing.

A GREAT ASSET.

In the Free State alone there were no fewer than 160,000 ex-Service men. Let them just imagine if these men—trained, experienced, loyal and law-abiding citizens—were properly organised and looked after, what a valuable asset they would be to the Free State. If these men were properly organised there was hardly anything that they could not accomplish in this Free State for themselves and others. He had for some years past been very anxious to see the activities of the British Legion become more localised, and if this were done there was nothing in the way of justice and equity that they might not demand which would be refused to them.

Personally he had always regretted that their Free State Executive had more or less turned the cold shoulder on the ex-Service men. (A Voice—"No.") They had not done as much as they ought to have done. If the Free State Executive only realised what a valuable asset this body of 160,000 law-abiding, experienced men would be to them, he thought that they would play a different tune.

THE WAR MEMORIAL FUND.

He believed that a great many more people would contribute to the relief of the sufferings of ex-Service men if they knew how to set about it, and, in order to help them, he thought that local people should be organised and that people should be able to go to a secretary and satisfy themselves if a case was a deserving case. He spoke of the amount of money spent by the British Legion on the relief of distress among ex-Service men in the Free State, and went on to refer to the War Memorial Fund that was started shortly after the War.

That fund, said Lord Glenavy, was asked for, and was to be applied to the distinct, plain and express purpose of founding a permanent war memorial in some part of the city, that would remain a lasting monument to the glorious courage of those men who died in the war. He had read suggestions in the newspapers, which were natural enough in the present state of affairs, that this money should be used for the relief of distress amongst ex-Service men and not allowed to accumulate as it was accumulating.

A BREACH OF TRUST.

His answer to that was that they could not expect that to be done because it would be a breach of trust to those who gave the money and gave it for a specific purpose—namely, a permanent war memorial to their honoured dead. It had been also suggested that the interest on the money should be used while the committee were making up their minds—and, goodness knew, they had been long enough making up their minds—about it, and applied towards temporary relief. He was sufficiently a lawyer to be able to tell them that where the principal of a fund like that was to go to a special purpose the interest must follow on the same lines—it must follow the principal and must be devoted to the special purpose.

But that did not explain or account for the long delay or very tiresome delay that they had in regard to the war memorial. He was told that the difficulty was owing to the fact that the Executive of the Free State had refused to sanction any part of public ground in the city being applied to such a purpose. He could hardly imagine that was so, but if it was, he thought it was a mistake—(a Voice—"It is a shame")—and he thought that the Executive Council would be well advised if they were to devote in some of their prominent parks a sufficient space for a war memorial worthy of the purpose for which the money was collected.

LORD GLENAVY'S HOPE.

He did not believe that amongst their Irish people, no matter what their creed might be, and no matter what their politics might be, there would be any with envy or malice or ill-will in their minds with regard to a memorial of that kind, which would be put up, not to signalise any political triumph, not to signalise any particular party, but solely and only in honour of their brave dead. It was because he felt this that he did hope and trust that they would soon see a solution of this war memorial question, and that the memorial would take some shape that would be a credit to those who were looking after it and an honour to the Free State.

FRENCH TAXES CUT BY £12,000,000.

REDUCED INCOME TAX AND FOOD IMPOSTS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS Sunday.

The Prime Minister, the Ministers of Finance and the Budget, the Governor of the Bank of France, and high financial officials, held a conference to-day, at which the main lines of the projected tax reductions were discussed—notably the reduction of taxation on food products.

The total amount of the reductions is likely to be 1,500,000,000 francs (about £12,000,000).

Other taxes which are expected to be reduced are income tax, transfer duty and the duty on stock exchange transactions.

In addition to these reductions, a vast programme of improvement in national utility services is expected, involving the sum of 1,350,000,000 francs.

While playing with other lads in a sandpit near Manchester on Saturday, Frederick Lane, aged nine, was buried by a fall of sand and killed.

WHEAT-GROWING IN BRITAIN.

CHANCELLOR'S NEW SCHEME.

COMPULSORY USE OF HOME FLOUR.

Information has reached master bakers in Great Britain that the Chancellor of the Exchequer is considering, in connection with his forthcoming Budget, a scheme which provides for the compulsory use in the baking of bread in Great Britain of a stipulated percentage of flour milled from British wheat. The scheme is accompanied by financial proposals for the encouragemnet of the growing of British wheat.

The compulsory quota in contemplation is understood to be on a sliding scale, varying from 7½ per cent. to 20 per cent., according to the available supply of British wheat. Anything like 20 per cent., it is understood, is impossible under the present circumstances.

THE PUBLIC TASTE.

It is assumed that a necessary feature of the scheme would be the regulation of wheat imports at the ports, but, so far as is known, no differentiation is proposed as between foreign and overseas Empire flour.

Representatives of the master bakers have been privately consulted by the Government. The bakers are understood to be opposed to the scheme on the ground that it would prevent them from buying flour to which they are accustomed, and for which the public have acquired a taste.

THE BAKERS' PROPOSAL.

At present bakers throughout the British Isles use about 20 or 30 per cent. of strong Canadian flours and blend them with varying proportions of British, Australian and Argentine products.

The master bakers are believed to be considering a proposal to petition the Chancellor of the Exchequer to permit the bakers to buy established brands of flour, and to do the blending themselves under a system by which they will be able to prove from their books that the requisite proportions have been observed.

CANADIAN INTERESTS PERTURBED.

The existence of the scheme has become known through Canadian interests, and there the proposals are regarded as a serious menace not only to Canadian millers, but also to Empire wheat producers as a whole.

During the week-end the cables to Winnipeg have been busy, and it is understood that to-day or to-morrow there will be an emergency meeting of the Canadian millers to discuss the situation.

The Canadian Government is said to be seriously perturbed in view of the unsatisfactory state of the wheat market.

MR. SNOWDEN'S SECRETS.

THE TAXATION OF LAND VALUES.

A week brings the Budget that Mr. Snowden guards very strictly. Certain expectations, however, have been formed. Rightly or wrongly, it is anticipated that he will retain the McKenna duties for another year; that he will increase the death duties on large estates, and get extra revenue from income taxpayers by making the super-tax payable from £1,500 instead of £2,000 a year. His schemes for reducing interest on debt may include a new issue of National Savings Certificates, with a lower interest than the present.

He is expected to make a beginning with the taxation of land values, though whether it will be a penny in the pound on all land and mineral values, which, it is said, would produce twenty millions in due course, is doubtful. He is supposed, at any rate, to be after the land speculators who benefit by public developments of districts.

Mr. Snowden is also said to have up his sleeve for announcement in his Budget speech on the 14th a scheme for taxing the profits made by tobacco manufacturers, brewers and distillers, while hoping that such a tax will not lead to any extra charge for commodities to the consumer.

AIR PILOT KILLED.

MACHINE BURNED AFTER CRASH.

George Edward Watts, of St. Maur, Totnes, Devon, lost his life in an air crash at Feltham, Middlesex, yesterday. He was the sole occupant of an aeroplane which, after crashing in Powell's Orchard, Feltham, burst into flames and was wrecked.

Watts was dragged out of the machine and taken to Hanworth Cottage Hospital, where he died shortly after admission.

The aeroplane belonged to National Flying Services, of Hanworth Air Park, Hanworth.

FELL LIKE A STONE.

Mr. Sidney Edward Smith, a motor engineer, of Staines road, Bedfont, Middlesex, who was an eye-witness of the crash, said: "I was outside my garage at 12.30 when I saw a 'plane go over. It was flying all right I thought when quite suddenly it shot down like a stone and immediately smoke rose in the air where it had disappeared.

"I at once got out my own motor ambulance, which I keep in the garage, and, taking along Mr. Marshall, the R.A.C. scout, who is on duty here, set off for the place.

"When I arrived on the scene I found that the pilot had been got out of the machine and was being attended by Dr. Montgomery. We placed him at once on the ambulance, and when we got to Hanworth Cottage Hospital he was still breathing, but he died as he was being taken inside. He was badly knocked about and burned."

R.A.F. SERGEANT DIES FROM INJURIES.

HIGH SPEED PILOT'S CRASH RECALLED.

Sergeant J. Martin, No. 335633, of the Royal Air Force, died last night in hospital at Aldershot from injuries received when an aeroplane crashed at South Farnborough on March 17th.

Sergeant Martin was a passenger in the aeroplane, which was a dual control machine, and was piloted by Flight-Lieutenant R. L. R. Atcherley, the Schneider Trophy airman. The machine overturned while landing. Lieutenant Atcherley was thrown out, but escaped with a few bruises. Sergeant Martin was severely injured and was conveyed to hospital.

The Rev. Davidson Murray, of Crieff (Perthshire), South Church, collapsed in the pulpit yesterday morning after preaching the sermon, and died later.

Mr. A. J. Cook, Secretary of the Miners' Federation, was an unsuccessful candidate in the Wealdstone (Middlesex) Urban District Council elections decided on Saturday. He received 862 votes to 2,184 recorded for Mr. F. W. Wale, a former Councillor, who headed the poll.

FATEFUL WEEK AT NAVAL CONFERENCE.

RITAIN, U.S.A. AND JAPAN

TO "SCRAP" NINE BATTLESHIPS.

U.S. AMBASSADOR'S STATEMENT.

Mr. Macdonald returned to Downing street last night, after a quiet week-end at Chequers. There have been no meetings of any kind in connection with the Naval Conference during the week-end.

The fate of the Conference, it is believed, will be decided during the present week, and the immediate prospect points to a plenary meeting at the end of the week, when it will be made known whether or not the Conference has been a failure on a five-Power basis. The present prospects of a five-Power agreement are, to say the least, gloomy.

M. Briand has returned to Paris with the latest draft formula concerning Article 16 of the Covenant of the League of Nations, and it is not likely that the French view of this draft will be known until M. Briand returns on Tuesday.

FIVE-POWER PACT DOUBTFUL.

A three-Power agreement now appears to be a certainty, but it is extremely doubtful whether agreement can be reached on a five-Power basis, even if it took the form of a purely technical understanding.

Reuter's Agency learns from a French source that M. Dumesnil, the French Minister of Marine, will take part in the conversations which M. Briand is expected to have on Tuesday with Mr. Macdonald. This would appear to indicate that the negotiations have now reached the point at which it will be possible this week to deal as much with the political aspect as the technical and naval side of the question. It is not improbable that to-day M. Dumesnil, who, during the absence of M. Briand, is remaining at the headquarters of the French delegation, will have an interview with Mr. Alexander, the First Lord of the Admiralty, and, perhaps, also with some of the Italian delegates.

CONFERENCE'S GREAT ACHIEVEMENT.

U.S. DELEGATE ON THREE-POWER PACT.

The Hon. Hugh S. Gibson, United States Ambassador to Belgium and delegate to the London Naval Conference, broadcasting to the U.S.A. from London yesterday, explained the effect of the three-Power agreement in terms of reduction. "During the past week," he said, "definite agreement has been reached between the United States, Great Britain and Japan. It means that from the fleets of the three Powers nine battleships are to be scrapped without replacement.

"Under the terms of the arrangement the Japanese battleship fleet will consist of nine battleships. The reduction of the combined battleship fleets of the three will, therefore, equal in numbers the third largest battleship fleet in the world.

THE WASHINGTON TREATY.

"This is not all. Under the terms of the Washington Treaty the United States, Great Britain and Japan were committed to the laying down of twenty-six battleships between now and 1936. Under the arrangement of the last week not one battleship will be laid down during the next six years.

"These twenty-six battleships would cost between 800,000,000 dollars and 900,000,000 dollars. How much of that will be spent after 1936 depends on the next conference. None of it will be spent during the life of the Treaty made by this Conference."

BETTER THAN GENEVA.

The great achievement of the Conference, he said, was that it had arrived at a basis for limiting all kinds of vessels in the three largest fleets. Cruiser, destroyer and submarine tonnage would be far below the lowest limit discussed at Geneva in 1927.

Reduction was not the most important part of the agreement. A fixed agreed relationship between navies was what produced security and good-will. For the three largest navies in the world the work left uncompleted at Washington in 1922 was now complete.

HOPE OF FIVE-POWER PACT.

"We have good reason to hope that a five-Power agreement may be signed before we leave here," concluded Mr. Gibson. "Whether this is to be we ought to know within a few days. If this is to be it will mark the most notable testimony to the existence of a more secure, confident and peaceful world that any five Powers have given since the war.

"If the full measure of that agreement cannot be had at this session the three-Power agreement can be made, and made on a basis which will welcome in the others two Powers when their difficulties have been solved. We feel sure of ultimate solution for the work that has been done here and the spirit in which it has been done are such as to spell either immediate or ultimate success."

M. BRIAND SEES THE FRENCH PREMIER.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Sunday.

M. Briand called on M. Tardieu this morning, and the two had a long consultation on the position of the Naval Conference negotiations in London and the recent Anglo-French talks on the subject of French security. As they left both Ministers denied the rumour that M. Briand came here with a fresh British offer for submission to his Prime Minister. There will be a Council of Ministers under the presidency of M. Doumergue, the President of the Republic, at the Elysée at 9.30 to-morrow morning.

After the interview it was confirmed that M. Briand will return to London on Tuesday morning.

THE PRINCE AGAIN IN THE WILDERNESS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

KHARTOUM, Sunday.

The Prince of Wales has now entered the Sudd, a vast area of marshland on both banks of the Nile, and nothing is likely to be heard of the Royal party for nearly a week.

SIX PERSONS KILLED AT A LEVEL CROSSING.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

WELLINGTON, Sunday.

The worst railway level-crossing accident in the history of New Zealand occurred near Whan arei last night. A train ran into a motor 'bus that was crossing the line, killing six of the occupants and injuring five. One of the injured persons is not expected to recover. The passengers in the 'bus were mainly young people who were on their way to Whangarei to see a film entertainment.

LATE NEWS.

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH "THE TIMES."

IRISH LABOUR FOR SUGAR BEET.

PROTEST BY ENGLISH TRADE UNION.

The Times Correspondent at Colchester telegraphed on Saturday:—Complaints are made that the sugar beet firms in East Anglia are employing Irish labour, although a large number of local labourers are without employment. The members of the Transport and General Workers' Union take a serious view of the situation, and on their behalf a letter has been addressed to companies in Ely, Felstead, Ipswich, Bury St. Edmunds, Wissington and Cantley protesting against this utilisation of Irish labour.

In the course of the letter it is stated that "this union feels that it would be very unfair, unjust and unwise to continue the practice of importing Irish workers into this district, when there are plenty of workers eager, willing and able to do this work," and an appeal is made for the employers to give the matter sympathetic consideration.

AN EXPLANATION.

Councillor W. J. Shingfield, of Clacton, divisional organiser of the Transport and General Workers' Union in the eastern counties, explained to me to-day the position regarding the importation of Irish workers for the cultivation of sugar beet and for employment on farms in East Anglia, against which the union is protesting to the owners of beet sugar factories and to farmers. Mr. Shingfield, who was an original member of the Executive of the British Sugar Beet Society, said: "In 1924 we succeeded in getting Mr. Snowden to give a rebate of the tax on home-grown sugar, and to that extent the industry is subsidised certainly, on a sliding scale. Every year since 1924, so far as I can judge, some of the factory companies have made arrangements with the farmers to grow a certain number of acres of beet and to supply the farmers with Irish labour for the operations necessary to cultivation. Last year the number was very considerable and the importation was general in the eastern counties.

MORE ACUTE THIS YEAR.

"The matter this year is much more acute, because the members of the Farmers' Union are declaring that they cannot find their men full-time work. There are large numbers of farm workers out of work all over the place, and we are protesting now to prevent these Irish workers being brought in about May."

Mr. Shingfield added that the Irishmen would "work from dawn to dark on piece-work. He expressed the opinion that at a time like the present, when there was a joint move for co-operation between farm workers and farmers, and when good-will was being fostered between them, it would be absolutely stupid and unwise to bring the Irish workers here. The farm workers now were on fairly good terms with the farmers.

It is understood that the matter is to be raised in the House of Commons.

SLUM CLEARANCE.

THE BRITISH HOUSING BILL.

The Times of to-day observes in a leading article upon the Government's Housing Bill, upon which discussion is to begin to-day:—On the whole, the bill may be said to lay down a more promising strategical plan for an attack upon the slums than could be prepared under existing legislation. For example, the new permission to provide smaller houses for aged persons, and, under the Scottish bill, hostels for single persons, is a welcome recognition that the type of house should conform to the needs and the means of tenants. Again, even the clause which seems most inspired by bias against owners of property may result in giving opportunities hitherto denied to them. If local authorities order owners to clear sites, at least these owners will be freed from the operation of the Rent Restriction Acts, which have often prevented them from rebuilding their property because of their inability to turn out tenants. But although there is much good revealed or implicit in the bill, there are also certain fundamental criticisms which Mr. Greenwood will have to meet.

In the first place, there is the difficulty of ensuring that larger subsidies will really be reflected in lower rents. It has happened before, and it may happen again, that larger subsidies have been intercepted by higher building costs. Mr. Greenwood has deliberately chosen to devote the bulk of his effort to clear the slums to the encouragement of new building. His effort will, therefore, fail if there is such an increase in the cost of houses that the new subsidy will not close the gap between the economic rent and the rent which the slum-dweller can afford to pay.

But it cannot be denied that in its present form the bill opens up new and unlimited possibilities of calls upon the ratepayer and taxpayer, and some possibility of undue favouritism of certain classes of tenants as against others. It is more necessary, therefore, to see that full value is received for every penny expended and that strict justice is administered. No one would wish to cast the slightest reflection on the integrity or ability of the great majority of local authorities, but, after all, the bill may not prove to be the final word of wisdom in the matter of slum clearance, and, to explore alternatives by which, if need be, it may be reinforced and supplemented at a later date, is merely a matter of common sense.

LORD CRAIGAVON AND EASY CREDIT.

ADVICE TO THE NORTHERN WORKING MAN.

Lord Craigavon, Premier of Northern Ireland, made his first public speech since his return from the Antipodes to the Ulster Unionist Labour Association in Belfast on Saturday night.

Contrasting the social, industrial, and agricultural conditions in Northern Ireland and those of Australia and New Zealand, Lord Craigavon said that he thought the people of Northern Ireland were as well off as any community of the Empire, considering the higher rents and the higher cost of living.

CONDITIONS AT HOME.

He declared that he was not ashamed of the conditions of the Northern Ireland working classes; in fact, the Ulster people were better off in many respects. In New Zealand and in Australia he had found an encroachment into the life of the working classes of the pernicious method of purchasing on easy terms or on the credit system. That system had made an incursion into the life of those two Dominions, which, in his opinion, would cost them dear in the future. He advised the Ulster people not to tie such loads round their necks, but to save, and then buy when they had the money.

INCIDENT IN THE HOUSE.

Lord Craigavon referred to an incident in the Northern House of Commons last Wednesday, when Mr. Nixon (Independent Unionist) accused Mr. Grant (Unionist) of shooting himself during the troubles to keep out of danger. He described the attack as most regrettable and unforgiveable.

Mr. Grant, he declared, was the soul of honour and an outstanding figure in the working class community. In the dark days Mr. Grant had accompanied Lord Carson and himself to London to fight the battle of the working classes and of the whole loyalist cause. Mr. Nixon dare not make the charge outside the House.

Those present stood up at Lord Craigavon's request as a mark of confidence in Mr. Grant and as a repudiation of the insinuations made against him.

MINISTER AND PARTITION.

THE WAY TO WIN THE NORTH.

GOVERNMENT BY FIANNA FAIL.

GOING BACK TO 1922.

IN the course of a speech which he delivered yesterday at Ballybay, Co. Monaghan, Mr. Ernest Blythe, Free State Minister for Finance, denied that the Free State had any intention of ending partition by force.

Concerning the Fianna Fail attitude towards land annuities, he said that all that Great Britain had to do if the payments to her were withheld was to put an extra tax in all cattle and produce imported from the Free State, which would mean that the farmer here would have to pay twice; for, the Minister added, there was no fear that Mr. de Valera would ever remit the annuities to the farmers.

As to the Fianna Fail charge that the Free State Government was subject to British influence, Mr. Blythe pointed out that the people here have complete control of their own affairs, and added that if a Republic was set up in the twenty-six counties the Government would spend more time wondering what the British would do than they had to spend at present, because of their membership of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

MILITARY SERVICE PENSIONS.

Mr. Ernest Blythe said that there had been a great deal of correspondence in the County Monaghan papers recently in connection with the military service pensions. Dr. O'Higgins had justified them when he showed that they were only given to men whose prospects in life and opportunities had been injured, who had gone into the fight while the British were here, and risked their lives, faced wounds and death, ultimately to succeed in bringing this country, after seven hundred years of tribulation, into the circle of nations again and into the light of day.

The amount of military service pensions being paid to men who gave pre-truce and post-truce service was not as much as twice the amount given to the resigned and dismissed members of the Royal Irish Constabulary, men who, at the national call, simply left the police force. The men who left the police force did so on the understanding that they would receive compensation from the nation if the struggle which was then taking place was successful and they were then entitled to the pensions which they were receiving.

ALLEGATIONS OF UNFAIRNESS.

Now it had been suggested in this correspondence that in some way military service pensions had been unfairly administered, and that there had been something wrong with the refusal of the Government to allow all the papers to go before the Comptroller and Auditor-General. This suggestion was wholly unfounded.

When that Act was being passed it was decided to set up a Board of Assessors which had a right to say whether a pension should be given or not. This Board was given power to determine the qualifications and service necessary, and whether a man had given active service in a district in which definite warlike activities took place.

CONFIDENTIAL MATTERS.

Men had claimed for service which they had not given. The Board was composed of three members, one of whom was a District Justice. It was found necessary to assure everybody who might give evidence before that Court that the evidence would be treated as confidential. It was not only necessary to do that in order that they might give evidence, but it was necessary in the interests of a great number of people who were either applicants or witnesses for applicants.

A man's title to a pension might be made, and something might have happened in the Six Counties, where he might now be living, and in order to get his pension he would have to give evidence of actions, which would be very prejudical to his position if made public. The Auditor-General had mistakenly asked for these figures, and the Government had refused them.

ONE IN SEVEN.

The District Justice who was appointed to the Board of Assessors was independent of all parties, and he understood that this District Justice had never been over-ruled by the other two members of the Board. Only about one in seven of those who had applied for pensions had been awarded them, and if it was suggested that the Government was trying to buy up popular support by the granting of pensions, he would only point out that for the one granted there were six disgruntled applicants.

It would again be a poor and foolish policy to give pensions to those who did not merit them, because it would be bad for them if it was found out. Apart from that, they could take it that the Government was not going to go contrary to their policy of clean, impartial administration, in the hope that if they gave military service pensions to those who did not deserve them they would be buying the permanent political support of these people.

A DEPUTY'S SUGGESTION.

Dr. Ward had suggested that he (Mr. Blythe) had used his influence to get pensions for people who did not merit them. He had never brought pressure to bear on the Board of Assessors. If, however, a person had obtained new evidence regarding a claim which had been refused earlier, the Minister for Defence might have requested the Board to reconsider the claim in the light of this new evidence. He was anxious that every man who was entitled to a pension should get one, and also that no man who was not entitled to a pension should get one. He never told anybody that if he supported him it would help his application, nor did he ever hint to anybody that if he opposed him it might harm his application.

"If I were to go up for election to-morrow," said Mr. Blythe, "and be told that ordinarily I would only get a hundred votes, but that if I got some public money spent which was not justified I would get more support, I would not move a finger to get it done. My attitude is to see that in any individual case my constituents get their rights, and I will fight as much as anybody against them getting more than that, because I believe that the country can only prosper and the general good can only be served by absolutely fair and impartial administration, by giving a fair crack of the whip to everybody, giving everybody his right and full fair play, and no undue favours to any person."

FIANNA FAIL AND BRITISH INFLUENCE.

"The people of the Free State," said Mr. Blythe, "have as much control over their own affairs as the people of any other country have over theirs. Fianna Fail members have stated that we are subject to British influence, but I believe that the Government of this country pays less attention to British influence by far than do the people of either Denmark, Holland or Norway." (Hear, hear.) I believe that, if we had set up here in the twenty-six counties an absolutely separate and independent Republic, the Government would have to spend far more time wondering what the British would say about this, that and the other thing than they had to do at the present time, because their position in the British Commonwealth of Nations is based on a parity of the nations like South Africa and Canada. This means that, if the British were inclined to interfere with us, they could not do so without drawing down upon them the wrath of those countries.

"So long as the Free State is a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations, and so long as countries like Canada and South Africa are also members of the British Commonwealth of Nations, we have a guarantee, better than any other guarantee that we could have, that we are not going to be subject to any threats or any interference with us in our national life."

THE QUESTION OF PARTITION.

Continuing, Mr. Blythe emphatically declared that any idea of ending partition by force was altogether untenable and foolish. He thought that, so far as they were concerned at the moment, the only thing that they could do was to make a great success of the Free State—to produce conditions here that would make the citizens of the Free State a subject for envy on the part of those who were outside it. Nothing could be done by any other policy either of attack on the North or attack on Great Britain. So far as the constitutional and national position was concerned, there was no need to make trouble about it, nor would any benefit to the country or to the people come from making trouble about it.

They had reached, as he had said, a position in which they had as much direct control over their own affairs as the people of any other country in the world had over theirs; and the thing for them to-day was not to pick individual quarrels, not to look for a "show down" with England, not to look for a new Battle of Clontarf, but to use the powers that they had for building up the country economically, morally and culturally.

LAND ANNUITIES.

Referring to the Fianna Fail attitude towards land annuities, Mr. Blythe said that all England had to do was to impose taxes on the cattle and produce imported into England from the Free State, and so repay themselves from the Free State farmer all the money that Mr. de Valera had stopped. This would mean, of course, that the farmer would pay twice, for there was no fear that Mr. de Valera would ever remit land annuities to the farmers. Fianna Fail talked about reducing taxation, but its various schemes would only mean greatly increased expenditure. With the world arranged as it was to-day, and in a country like theirs, social services could only be increased in conjunction with the capacity of the country to pay for it.

The only result of Deputy Ward's Old Age Pension Bill, Mr. Blythe went on, would be to give pocket-money to people who were supported by relatives in homes of great affluence. Now the Government had done very many things for the economic betterment of the country, some with great results, some with less important results, but he claimed that all of them contributed to make the position better, and some would have increased results as time went on.

BACK TO 1922.

We do not regard the national spirit, said Mr. Blythe, as one of hatred for England. We do not desire to develop a quarrel with any country, but to live in our own country, strong in determination to build it up; to have a state of affairs here that will make Irishmen in America or Australia or the Argentine or in any part of the world proud of their country and of the fight that their people have made for freedom.

Stating that the trouble in 1922-23 was due to Mr. de Valera's jealousy of Collins, Mr. Blythe said that if Fianna Fail were in power for a month Army officers would be discharged, zealous and conscientious Civic Guards dismissed, and men who had guns in dumps would be given the "tip" that now was the time to bring them out, and in that one month they would they would get back with Fianna Fail to the dreadful position that existed in the early part of 1922, when there was no Government in the country, and when right depended upon the revolver or the rifle.

Our task, Mr. Blythe concluded, will have been well done when we come to give place to a Government which will preserve law and order, and respect the wishes of the people of the country, and no matter what may be thought of our shortcomings, we are not likely to be driven out to give place to the lunatics who would set the house on fire.

LAST WEEK IN THE DAIL.

Senator Toal said that the time would come when the farmers of the country would rise and do their duty, and control the Government of the country, and he was sure that the present Government when that time came would be only too pleased to make way for them.

Mr. Vincent Rice, K.C., T.D., referring to the "so-called crisis" of last week, said that Fianna Fail Deputies had gone all over the country saying that they had the Government on the run, but they could all see for themselves to-day how well the Government was running the country.

The events of last week had cleared up the air, and shown that, outside his own party, Mr. de Valera could not command one vote in four, and all this proved that the people of the country were going to stand by the Treaty and keep faith with England.

Senator O'Rourke said that Mr. de Valera's present policy was that of the sword and the gun, and a return to the conditions of 1922.

THE PENSIONS.

Dr. Higgins said that the Old Age Pensions Bill, sponsored by Deputy Dr. Ward, had been brought forward in a spirit of reckless political extravagance, and purely with the idea of buying political support. He spoke of what had been stated about the Military Service Pensions Act, which he now

THE MANUFACTURE OF PAPER.

NEW IRISH INVENTION.

The manufacture of artificial silk does not yet seem to have exhausted the inventive capacity of the makers, for the specifications published this month in the Official Journal of the Industrial Property Office no less than five deal with this subject. From reading the specifications in question it would seem, however, that the main lines upon which the manufacture of artificial silk, or rayon, as it is sometimes called, are conducted have been more or less firmly established, and that the chief concern of the makers at present is the improvement of details of the apparatus, such as thread guides, improved methods of reeling, and such like minor matters.

Almeida Accumulators, Ltd., continue to appear in the lists with improved storage battery inventions. Two specifications this month, 10240 and 10241, in this firm's name deal with further improvements in the type of cell described in Specification No. 10230, Specification No. 10240 dealing with modifications of the electrolyte and 10241 with the use of silicon-iron alloys as positive elements.

SAFETY GLASS.

Road-making is becoming more and more a field for patents, and Specification No. 10253 describes a bituminous binder of a type which may also be used for hot spraying. Safety glass for motor cars is another rapidly-extending field. The basic idea of safety glass is the sandwiching of a tough flexible transparent substance like celluloid between two sheets of glass, but many difficult problems arise in the manufacture. Specification No. 10258, in the name of Lancegaye Safety Glass, Ltd., describes a method of manufacture directed towards ensuring satisfactory adhesion between the glass sheets and the celluloid material, and towards the prevention of the formation of air bubbles between the sheets.

IRISH INVENTION.

An important Irish invention in connection with paper-making is described in Specification No. 10257, and stands in the names of Frederick Butterworth, of Dungarvan, and Robert William Horsburgh, of Saggart, as joint inventors. One of the difficulties in paper manufacture is to ensure an even thickness in the paper, and the object of this invention is to control automatically the thickness. The method adopted to measure the thickness depends upon the use of the photo electric cell.

A beam of light passed through the paper will vary in intensity with the thickness of the paper, more or less light being absorbed as the thickness increases or decreases. The beam of light after its passage through the paper is focussed upon a photo electric cell, and variations in intensity of the light produce variations in electric currents in the cell. These variations are amplified and used to control the speed of the motor driving the paper-making machine, so that if the paper tends to thicken the motor is accelerated and the amount of "stuff" fed to the machine in each revolution is reduced.

FACILITIES FOR INVENTORS.

Irish inventors and manufacturers do not yet seem to be sufficiently alive to the facilities for search afforded them by the Industrial Property Office. The library at the office, 45 Merrion square, is open to the public daily from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and not only all Irish Free State specifications, but also all British specifications are available to inventors or others who wish to consult them. Much valuable information which the State has made available to its citizens is contained in the thousands of specifications and other publications in the library of the office, and it is hoped that Irish manufacturers will not fail to make increasing use of these sources of information.

NEW TRADE MARKS.

The number of new trade marks accepted for registration continues to show an increase, as many as 329 being published during the month. Irish traders figure largely in the lists and are responsible for 50 of these, while the fact that foreign traders are the proprietors of 59 out of 72 new marks applied for during the month is an indication that external interest in trade here is not on the wane. In this connection it is worthy of note that the first action arising out of trade mark infringement in the Saorstat was heard in the Dublin Circuit Court during March.

FIANNA FAIL AND PENSIONS.

Addressing a Fianna Fail meeting in Claremorris, Co. Mayo, yesterday, Mr. Ruttledge, T.D., challenged the Government to go to the country on Deputy Ward's Old Age Pensions Amending Bill, on the issue of which, he said, Fianna Fail was prepared to stand or fall. When the Government was defeated on that bill in the Dail and was forced to resign, the sky did not fall or the terrible things did not happen that they were told would happen if this Government were put out of office. The Government's policy of saving was to cut the old age pensioners 1s. to 4s. a week whilst taking 1s. off income tax. Fianna Fail did not stand for a reduction of income tax at the expense of the old poverty-stricken people of the country.

Was there ever, he asked, such an example of tyranny by a junta ruling in the name of the people's Government. They had abolished the referendum and still said they governed by the will of the people. The twenty-six counties raised twenty millions taxation, of which over eleven millions went in salaries and pensions.

Mr. R. Walsh, T.D., said that Deputy Ward's amending of Old Age Pensions Bill sought to give the old people here the same privileges as they enjoyed in the North in regard to old age pensions, and to do what Mr. Blythe said was the way to get the North to fall in with the remainder of the country—that was to make the social conditions equal.

Mr. Kilroy, T.D., said that instead of the country having turned the corner it was getting poorer, and emigration was as bad as ever. The small majority that gave the Government power was given by the votes of ex-R.I.C. and Civil Service pensioners and their friends, whose pensions came from the taxation of this country.

NORTH CHINA WAR.

ARREST OF YEN ORDERED.

In a despatch from Shanghai yesterday, The Times Correspondent says:—The Nanking Government issued a mandate last evening enumerating the offences of Yen Hsi-Shan and ordering his arrest and punishment. It is generally considered, however, that the issue of the mandate is merely a gesture, and everything indicates that Nanking will remain strictly on the defensive.

BRITISH LEGION.

EX-SERVICE MEN'S RE-UNION.

DINNER IN DUBLIN.

A very large number of British Ex Service men assembled at a re-union dinner held in the Gresham Hotel, Dublin, under the auspices of the British Legion, last Saturday night.

Major-General Sir G. Franks, K.C.B., presided.

"OUR PATRON."

The toast of "The King" having been honoured,

Major-General Beauchamp Doran, C.B., D.L., proposing the toast of "Our Patron," said that it was not, perhaps, generally known that His Majesty the King, whose toast had just been so loyally responded to, was patron-in-chief to the British Empire Service League, that organisation which united all ex-Service men of the Empire. It was, therefore, not only appropriate, but they of the British Legion were fortunate and very proud of the fact that they had the heir to the Throne as their patron, a position to which his services in the senior service, the Royal Navy; his active service in the Army throughout the Great War, and his keen and active interest in aviation fully entitled him. (Loud applause.) British ex-Service men in Ireland did not forget that he was a Knight of the Most Illustrious Order of St. Patrick, and closely associated with very distinguished Irish regiments of the British Army as their Colonel-in-Chief, but ex-Service men liked to think of him more as a man amongst men, with the will to win through in whatever he undertook, and what appealed especially to them was his sympathetic understanding of the British soldier as a very true and loyal comrade, a quality which was essentially his own; his love of fair play, his fearless courage, and his intense enthusiasm for everything that was manly in sport and adventure.

"Before I call on you to honour this toast," concluded the speaker, "I hope I have correctly felt the pulse of everyone here to-night if I add: Our hope is that the day is not far distant when this country of ours, that we all love so well, will have the opportunity of seeing and welcoming His Royal Highness in our midst with a welcome second to none in the world. (Loud and continued applause.) Ex-Service men will not be behind hand in a loyal Irish, wholehearted, affectionate greeting to our patron." (Renewed applause.)

The toast was drunk with enthusiasm.

WHY IRISHMEN JOINED THE COLOURS

Captain W. A. Redmond, D.S.O., T.D., proposed the toast of "Ireland." He said that Irishmen joined the colours because they believed that they were doing what was right and that the sacrifice that they were making was justified. They believed that what they were doing was being done in the interests of Christianity and in the interests of humanity. (Applause.)

THE LEGION.

(The speech of Lord Glenavy, in proposing the toast of "The British Legion," will be found on page 7.)

Mr. A. P. Connolly, responding, said that the Legion by no stretch of imagination could be termed political. It was undoubtedly true that members of the British Legion were fond of the old traditions, but they were, first of all, Irishmen, and if their patriotism and love of country took a different form of expression, if they did not sing the same anthem and did not love the same colours, they were none the less Irish and willing to serve their country. He appealed to those present to join the British Legion. At that dinner it was proposed to form a new branch of the Association, which would not have any connection in any way with any of the existing ex-Service men's clubs. He thanked Lord Glenavy for coming there that night and for proposing the toast of the British Legion.

The toast of "The Chairman" was proposed by Captain A. H. Whitehead, M.C.

SOUTH AUSTRALIAN ELECTIONS.

LABOUR VICTORIES.

In a message from Adelaide yesterday, The Times Correspondent says:—Although many returns are incomplete, the Labour Party has had a sweeping victory in the elections to the South Australian Parliament, and will be able to form a Government assured of a big working majority. The party caucus will select Ministers next week.

Out of a House of 46 members it seems probable that Labour will have 27 seats, the Liberals 16, and the Country Party 1 and Independents 2. Mr. Hill, the Labour leader, thinks his party may have 31 seats.

THE MILLING INDUSTRY.

LIMERICK Corporation, at its last meeting, decided to adjourn to its next meeting the consideration of a report from the Cork Corporation protesting against the acquisition of the Irish milling trade by foreigners, and requesting the Dail to take steps to protect such an important industry for the people.

RELIEF OF FARMERS.

In regard to the plight of the 2,300 farmers in the COOLEY area, the Free State Government has agreed to allocate to the farmers of the area the growing of a further 400 acres of beet for the purposes of the Carlow sugar factory. This acreage will be in addition to the 150 acres for which the farmers already had contracted.

CROWN WITNESSES.

OMAGH Board of Guardians at their meeting last Saturday passed a resolution refusing to pay the substitutes for dispensary medical officers, who were summoned to give evidence as Crown witnesses, on the grounds that the dispensary doctors were paid their salaries by the Board, and at the same time were paid by the Crown for attending at assizes and other law courts.

POISONING OF DOGS.

The police are inquiring into the poisoning of a number of valuable dogs in the AUGHNACLOY (Co. Tyrone) district during the past week, among which were two greyhounds the property of Mr. Robert Sawyer, merchant. One of the greyhounds was a racing dog, Fair Traveller, which carried off several stakes, and was value for about £100. Both were poisoned in the owner's yard, while many pet dogs belonging to people in and around the town have shared the same fate.

BOYNE FISHERIES.

At the monthly meeting of the Boyne Fishery Conservators, which was held in DROGHEDA last Saturday, Inspector Horan reported that fishing on the tidal waters of the Boyne showed a good return for the month of March. Fishing on the fresh water was very poor up to March 26th, after which there was an improvement, especially between Stackallen and Navan. The 300 catches on the tidal waters represents a revenue to the fishers of £500 or £600. The lower reaches of the Boyne are this year being fished by 104 nets, an increase of thirty on the number registered last year.

AN ADVERSE BALANCE.

At the meeting of the OMAGH Board of Guardians last Saturday Mr. Williams and Mr. McCaffrey vigorously protested that an adverse balance of £1,500, which had been outstanding for the past fifteen or sixteen years on the County Council's books against the Rural Council, should be levied this year on the ratepayers, and Mr. McCaffrey pointed out that, instead of 3d. in the £, as formerly, this meant an increase of about 1s. 9d. in the £, and the town of Fintona, instead of having to pay £30, would now have to pay more than £250. It was urged that the striking of this rate was illegal. The Clerk stated that the rate was now struck, and nothing could be done in the matter. Mr. Williams said the only thing that could be done was to challenge the validity of the rate in the law courts, and he had obtained legal advice that the County Council had now no power to levy a rate on an adverse balance of such long standing. It would have to be tested in the courts.

STOLEN CLOTHING.

Bernard Diver, Gulladoo, MOVILLE, who appeared in custody of Sergeant Logue, Moville, was charged by Superintendent O'Riordan with the larceny of articles of clothing to the value of £1 15s., the property of Mary Doherty and Jeannie Doherty, Bredaghglen, Moville. Mary Doherty gave evidence of the clothes being missed off the clothes-line. The accused man pleaded guilty, and said that he had enlisted in the Field Artillery from the R.I.C., and was severely wounded in the head and body and was gassed in the Great War. Sometimes his head went bad and he forgot himself. There were previous convictions against him for the larceny of fowls. The Justice said that he would now sentence him to two months' imprisonment, without hard labour. Defendant—Is that the whole sentence? The Justice—Yes; I do not want to endanger your pension. Defendant said that he had a pension of £1 1s. per week from the R.I.C., which, by a clause, he could not lose for any cause unless "he joined some other police force." (Laughter.)

SUDDEN DEATH.

The Lord Mayor of Belfast, Sir William Coates, with the City Chamberlain, Sir F. Monypenny, also visited the vessel.

BIG PRICES FOR BUTTER AND MILK.

At the annual meeting of the BALLINAMALLARD (Co. Fermanagh) Dairy Society, Sir Edward Archdale, M.P., was re-elected president. The annual report showed that the society obtained the higher price in the county for butter—18.51d., and paid 6.22d. for milk. The supply showed an increase of 15,000 gallons. The net profits for the year were: on the dairying account, £64 15s. 6d.; on eggs account, £72 16s. 7d., and on hire of machinery account, £11 1s. 3d.

THE MISSING POSTMAN CASE.

Mr. Anthony J. O'Carroll, solicitor, Fermoy, visited WATERFORD last Saturday in connection with the Stradbally missing postman case. Mr. O'Carroll, it is understood, has been retained on behalf of the Civic Guards who are to be proceeded against for damages arising out of the Stradbally affair. The plaintiffs are, it is stated, persons from Stradbally and district, who allege interference with them by the Guards. The costs of the operations at Tankardstown and Ballinasisla mineshaft amount to a considerable sum. One local contractor's bill for Ballinasisla mine is said to be, roughly, £850. In the case of Tankardstown, the bill to be furnished will be at least £250. The cost of police, of all ranks, who were drafted into Stradbally district in connection with the investigations is said to be very considerable. Investigations are still going on quietly.

REVIVING INDUSTRY.

A resolution calling upon the Government to give protection to the Irish coach-building and body-building trades was passed at a largely-attended meeting which was held in the Town Hall, CLONMEL, to consider the question of reviving local industries. The Mayor, in opening the proceedings, said that Clonmel was at one time a great industrial centre, boasting of many mills, a boot factory, bacon yards, tanneries, a brewery, a condensed milk factory; but all except a few had passed away, and the town suffered in consequence. Senator Dowdall, Cork, pleaded for more native production, and the catering for the home market. They should be more self-supporting, and less dependent on the importer. They should at least feed, house, and clothe themselves. The Cork Industrial Development Association, he added, would give Clonmel every help to revive industry. At th close of the meeting a branch of the Association was formed.

FIGHT WITH POTEEN MAKERS.

The story of a running fight between Civic Guards and a number of poteen makers over the bogs of Ratheskin, near Killala, on the night of February 7 last, was told to District Justice Guy in KILLALA District Court last Saturday, when six men were prosecuted for various offences under the Illicit Distillation Act. The names of the defendants were:—Peter McDonnell, Glendagh; Michael Ruddy, Creevesmore; James Gaughan, Glendagh; A. Langan, Ratheskin; Patrick Walshe, Glendagh, and Michael McDonnell, Glendagh. Walshe was charged, in addition, with assaulting Sergeant O'Neill and escaping from lawful custody, and Michael McDonnell also was charged with endeavouring to escape from lawful custody, and with the larceny of a baton. Sergeant O'Neill, in the course of his evidence, said that the poteen makers scattered, five running in one direction, and two in another direction. Witness and Guard Gealish followed the five, one of whom, Patrick Walshe, got stuck in the bog. A fierce struggle ensued between witness and Walshe, on whom he had to use his baton. The other Guards were examined and described how, after a long run, they captured Langan, Peter McDonnell and James Gaughan and Michael Ruddy. Walshe, who pleaded guilty, said that he got four blows of the baton, and was rendered unconscious. The defence made by the other defendants was an alibi. The cases against Peter McDonnell, Michael McCormick, James Gaughan and Langan were dismissed. Ruddy was fined £12, or three months' imprisonment, and Walshe was fined £25, or four months' imprisonment.

THE FUTURE GENERATION.

DR. GREGG AND NEED OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATION.

Preaching in All Saints' Church, Grangegorman, yesterday morning, the Archbishop of Dublin said:—

"I want to ask your earnest consideration of the subject of religious education. It is one of the most vital parts of our Church's life; it is real sustentation or maintenance of the Church. We generally apply the word 'sustentation' to the provision of maintenance for the clergy—a most important work—but education is, in one sense, more important, because it means the provision of maintenance for the people to whom the clergy are to minister.

"As a Church we must stand together in this matter. I do not think people realise at all as they should how vitally urgent is the need that, by all the means in our power, we should educate in the principles of their religion the younger generation that in due time will step into our places and carry on the Church of Ireland tradition.

"Our Diocesan Board of Education is the agent in this diocese for this most important work. The first charge on its funds is the provision of an inspector, who goes up and down through the schools of the diocese, examining the children and inspecting their progress and conferring with their teachers. We owe a vast debt to the teachers in our primary schools, a debt we cannot repay, for the instruction given day by day in our day schools; but the work of the inspectors is to encourage and stimulate both teachers and pupils by testing progress and seeing that the programme of teaching is followed.

"This work lies also in the Sunday schools, where he finds not only professional teachers, but voluntary ones, to whom his visits should mean much encouragement. The Diocesan Board gives prizes to the pupils in various Sunday schools through the diocese where grants for this purpose are sought.

"Other purposes are—(1) Maintenance of diocesan boys' and girls' secondary schools in Dublin; (2) aid in transporting children in the country to Church of Ireland schools; and (3) help to those who hope in due time to become candidates for the teaching profession."

MODERN THOUGHT.

SERMON AT CHRIST CHURCH CATHEDRAL.

"Is Modern Thought Materialistic?" was the theme of the Rev. W. Nesbitt Harvey's sermon yesterday afternoon at Christ Church Cathedral, Dublin.

There were still, the preacher said, many half-educated people in the world who were shocked (as they put it) by things that they read in the Old Testament. Sometimes these people were foolish enough to talk of themselves as being too modern in their mental outlook. If there was any one marked characteristic of modern thought it was that it was saturated with the idea of progress, of evolution, of what a Greek philosopher would call "the becoming."

"The great scientific man of the present day avers that the plain man who knows nothing about science is under a complete illusion about the solidity of the world," said the preacher.

"Science knows quite well that there is no such solid thing as we call matter. It is a ghostly series of centres of force-protons and electrons—pushing apparently from no solid basis and against no solid target. The plain man may revolt a little against this, and remark that his imagination refuses to conceive centres of force with no solid thing in contact with them. The biological theory of evolution, the philosophy of progress which is based upon it, and that characteristic final analysis of things which are associated with the names of Einstein, Professor Eddington and Mr. Bertrand Russell, have at least this much in common—they all fall in harmoniously with the thought of the Apostle, that first comes that which is natural, but that the natural is only the provisional framework for the spiritual."

THE CRUCIFIX.

LENTEN LECTURE ON "THE HILLTOP OF CALVARY."

"The Hilltop of Calvary" was the subject of yesterday's Lenten lecture of the series, "Christ upon the Hilltops," by the Rev. P. O'Donoghue, S.J., at the Church of St. Francis Xavier, Gardiner street, Dublin.

That day being Passion Sunday, the Church, he said, had just put on her mourning—statues and pictures were shrouded in purple, foreshadowing the great tragedy of sin and suffering and death. On Good Friday that tragedy would reach its height. No sacrifice would be offered in that church. The tabernacle would be empty. The Man-God would not be there. But, while all else would be draped in purple, one object alone would be exposed for their veneration—the crucifix. That morning at the unveiling the priest would sing, "Ecce signum crucis"—"Behold the wood of the cross on which the Saviour of the world did hang—Come let us adore!" It would be the festival of the crucifix, when the mystery of the cross would shine forth with special power. In preparation for that great day let them, in the spirit of Passiontide, climb the sad Hilltop and gather round the first Christian crucifix that was ever made, the cross that stood on Calvary when the figure on it was the living body of Christ Himself.

What did the crucifix mean to everyone to-day? Was it only an outward symbol, a trinket to be worn, or was it something that entered with a dominant influence into their daily lives and daily conduct? They could truly call the crucifix their own, for it was a thing which had been made by sin. How far did they really make it part and parcel of their lives. When suffering came, as it did in the life of everybody, how did they accept their share of the Cross? Did they try to hurl it from them, rebelling against it like the wicked thief? Did they humbly submit to it in a spirit of atonement like the penitent?

Suffering, accepted in this spirit, was very purifying, elevating and spiritualising. There was a higher and a holier kind of suffering—to accept the cross and to love it, because it provided a chance to be more like Christ, the Man of Sorrows. Did they ever think of raising this ideal—making the cross the crucifix of love?

THE EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS.

"Do not imagine then that the Eucharistic Congresses are the mere passing phase of popular devotion or the fortuitous development of the enthusiasm of a few ardent souls. They are born of international necessity. They are in the providential designs of God a manifestation of the mighty Christ-given impulse of the Church to restore all things in Christ," said Father Crofts, O.P., preaching yesterday evening in St. Saviour's Church, Dominick street, Dublin, the fourth of the series of Eucharistic Conferences in preparation for the coming Eucharistic Congress of 1932.

U.S MARKETS.

STOCKS CLOSE IRREGULAR.

REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.
NEW YORK, Saturday.

In the early part of to-day's short session the market was subjected to heavy profit-taking, which caused widespread irregularity, but the selling was not directly associated with any development in the day's news. Pools succeeded in marking up a score of issues to new high points for the year on gains of 1 to 7; but this was offset by a long list of declines ranging from 1 to 6, in which amusement stocks were among the hardest hit. While there was a feeling in many quarters that the market had been running too far ahead of general business, in which the recovery has been slow, to-day's reaction was generally characterised as a correction to a temporarily top-heavy speculative position, built up in the rapid advance of the past few days. In late dealings heavy buying of an assortment of Oils, Utilities and Amusement stocks partially checked the reactionary price tendency, but the tone at the close was irregular. International Harvester advanced 8 points, and Air Reduction, Brooklyn Union Gas, Columbia Gas, Consolidated Gas Engineers, Public Service, Houston Oil, North American, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Stone and Webster, Utilities, Power and Warren Bros. gained 2 to 4 points, while Case Threshing Machine, International Telephone, Baltimore and Ohio, Loews Incorporated, New York Central, Pacific Gas, Radio Corporation and Warner Bros. eased 1 to 2 points. Government Bonds quiet; Railroad Bonds firm. The day's sales totalled 2,520,000 shares.

WINNIPEG GRAINS.

WHEAT opened firm, 1c. to ⅛c. up, owing to the absence of rain in the North-West area and a fair business doing in Manitoba wheats. The closing strength of the Buenos Ayres market, together with a private estimate giving 84,000,000 bushels as remaining for export from Argentina, with a large quantity of poor grade, assisted the upward movement. Complaints of dry weather in Australia and good buying by seaboard houses were further bullish factors, and the market finished firm, 3¼c. higher all round. STEP DANCING AND SCHOOL CHOIRS.

CLOSE OF PORTADOWN MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

KEEN COMPETITIONS.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
PORTADOWN, Saturday.

The step-dancing at Portadown Festival attracted large audiences to-day. Compared with last year, the entries in this section showed an increase of over a hundred. The competition in the various classes was keen.

First class certificates of merit were awarded in the following four classes:—

Large school choirs with average daily attendance of over 140. Children 9 years and under. Test pieces: Two songs chosen from Captain Corrin's list—Thomas Street Public Elementary School Choir, Portadown (Miss F. E. Greer). One entry.

Mr. C. K. Scott (adjudicator) said that he had had a very pleasant time in Portadown, but nothing more pleasant than hearing this little choir. He did not think that the lady who trained them was an average teacher. The way she got the youngsters to sing was remarkable.

School choirs with average daily attendance of over 95 and under 140. Test: Two songs from Captain Corrin's list—Hill Street Public Elementary School Choir, Lurgan (Mrs. D. E. McClure). One entry.

Mr. Scott said this choir sang very well, indeed, but had not the indescribable quality of the first choir.

Senior school choirs. Large schools with average daily attendance of over 140. Test pieces: (a) Two songs from Captain Corrin's list; (b) easy sight test.

1—Church Street Public Elementary School Choir, Portadown (Mr. J. J. Forsythe, B.A.).

2—Thomas Street Public Elementary School Senior Choir, Portadown (Miss M. D. Stevenson).

3—Liddell Memorial Public Elementary School Choir, Donacloney (Mr. George Power). Three entries.

SIGHT READING.

Mr. Scott complimented the choirs on their sight reading, and said that he was glad to find that sight reading was being made a point of in the festival.

School choirs, with average attendance of over 95 and under 140. Test pieces: (a) Two songs from Captain Cowin's list; (b) easy sight test.

Hill street Public Elementary School Choir, Lurgan (Mr. D. McDowell). One entry.

Mr. Scott, having finished his duties as adjudicator, was accorded a hearty vote of thanks on the motion of the Rev. F. J. Halahan, seconded by Mr. George Power.

Mr. R. F. Smyth, Dublin, who adjudicated, said that was his first visit to Portadown. They started folk-dancing there last year, and he was told that they did not expect much. Well, the dancing he had seen in the first competition that day was very good, and quite on a level with the step-dancing that he had seen in any other part of the country.

Junior Step-Dancing—1, Nancy McKinley, Dundalk, 96; 2, May McGirr, Dundalk, 95; 3, Mary O'Neill, Dundalk, 94. Twenty competed.

Junior Step-Dancing—1, Mary Cullen, Portadown, 90; 2, Minnie Newell, Derrycaw, 84; 3, Aidan Cullen, Portadown, 82. Ten competed.

Four-hand Reel, for competitors under 15 years—1, Newry Quartet (Junior), 97; 2, "Oriel Four," Dundalk, 95; 3, Portadown A Team, and Muirtheimhne Four, Dundalk, 85 marks each. Nine entries.

Step Dancing (Hornpipe)—1, Mr. John Maguire, Dundalk, 92; 2, Miss Monica Convery, Belfast, 90; 3, Miss Lily Lutton, Belfast, and Mr. Arthur Burns, Newry, 89 marks each. Twenty-six entries

SENIORS.

Senior Step Dancing—1, Miss M. Bowyer, Belfast, 92; 2, Miss Nell Fluke, Belfast, 91; 3, Miss Eileen Farrelly, Dundalk, 90. Seven competed.

Senior Figure Dancing—Four Hand Reel—1, Dealgan Four, Dundalk, 98; 2, Social Service Girls' Club, Belfast, 95; 3, Lambeg Irish Folk Dance Society Team, 90. Seven competed.

Mr. Smyth said that the winners' performance was almost perfect, and but for a slight slip towards the end he would have given them even higher marks. The second prize-winners gave a very finished performance.

Proceeding, Mr. Smyth said that he must congratulate the North on being able to produce figure dancing for men—the first and third prize-winners being mixed, as it was very difficult to get men, or even boys, to do step dancing, or junior figure dancing. The North was to be congratulated on having men who would get up and take no mean part in those dancing sets.

Senior Figure Dancing. Three-hand Reel—1, Dealgan Trio, Dundalk, 95; 2, the College Trio, Belfast, 89; 3, Lambeg Irish Folk Dance Society Trio, 80. Four competed.

Senior Step-dancing. Reel or Hornpipe—1, Miss Nell Fluke, 93; 2, Miss Eileen Farrelly, 92; 3, Mr. John Maguire, 90.

Senior Figure Dancing. Fairy Reel—1, Dealgan six, 100; 2, Newry six, 92; 3, Lurgan Technical School team, 90. Six competed.

SPECIAL PRIZES.

Miss Dympna Caraher, Portadown, and Miss Betty Atkinson, Derryall, Portadown, tied with 85 marks each for the special prize of a silver medal for the competitor living within a twelve mile radius obtaining the highest marks in slip jig or double jig, four steps each, or hornpipe, six steps, and reel, six steps, in junior step-dancing.

Miss Hetty Cummings, Lurgan, won the special prize of a silver medal given to the competitor in the senior step-dancing living within a radius of twelve miles who obtained highest marks in reel or hornpipe, four steps each, slip jig or double jig, four steps each, with 85 marks.

DUBLIN METHODIST COUNCIL'S RESOLUTION.

The concluding meeting of the Dublin Methodist Council for the session 1929-30 was held in the Centenary Church Parlour, when there was a large attendance of members. After the social hour, the chair was taken by the President, Rev. J. M. Alley.

The Council deeply regretted to learn of the sudden death of Mr. James Henry, S.C., an ex-officio member of the Council, and one of its former Vice-Presidents. A resolution was passed, placing on record the Council's appreciation of the services so willingly rendered by the deceased to the Council and to the Irish Methodist Church.

On the motion of Rev. J. A. Duke, B.A., a resolution was unanimously passed expressing strong disapproval of the Public Charitable Hospitals Bill, entitling hospitals to raise funds by means of sweepstakes, and expressing the hope that the measure, which must result in an extension of the serious gambling evil, would not be passed into law.

The subject of the main discussion for the evening was "The United States and World Peace," which was ably introduced by Mr. Bolton C. Waller, M.A. (Hon. Secretary of the League of Nations Society of Ireland), who had recently returned from a lecture tour in the United States. Mr. Waller gave an extremely clear and comprehensive account of the various points of view held in the United States, and more especially in the middle western portions of that country, on such questions as the League of Nations, Naval Disarmament, and collaboration with the nations of Europe. At the conclusion of the ensuing discussion, Mr. Waller replied to various questions asked, and was thanked by the chairman for his introduction of the subject.

Classic Candidates : Press Gang Unlikely to Run at Newbury : Lord Derby's Pair : Mishap to Fairway : Italian and Australian Gold Cup Challengers : Some "Jubilee" Notes : Arctic Light's Success ; Selections.

(From Our Travelling Correspondent.)

LONDON, Sunday Night.

We usually look to the spring meeting at Newbury, which begins on Friday next, for a fugitive appearance on the part of a few of the classic possibilities of the season. Last year the Berkshire Handicap introduced us to Trigo, and few thought that afternoon, when Mr Barnett's colt gave Ennis Bridge 15lb and a head beating, that they had seen not only the winner of the Derby, but the St. Leger as well.

Last year this race was a handicap, but it has been converted into a maiden plate, and I do not see anything among the 28 left in that seems likely to win a classic race.

BLENHEIM.

There seems to be more possibilities about those left in the Greenham Plate, though this race has seldom proved a reliable guide to the classics. One who will probably be seen in the field is the Aga Khan's Blenheim, who missed his engagement at Lingfield on Friday for this. It is said that he has done best of all the Whatcombe three-year-olds, and that a good deal is expected of him this season.

Fred Darling, who has been seriously ill, following his holiday in India, but is now about again, has several engaged, and one who is likely to be seen out in this race is Tiffin's half-brother by Papyrus, Golden Dawn. We may not have seen the best of him last season when his brightest performance was to run second in the Criterion Stakes, beaten a short head by Candida, with Strongbow, three-parts of a length away, third. I believe Strongbow will be fancied to win the Two Thousand for Mr. Victor Gilpin.

Press Gang, who was about the best of the Beckhampton two-year-olds last year, and was placed only 1lb. below Diolite, the top weight in the Free Handicap, is not engaged in the Newbury race. He is not in the Derby, and his first appearance before he runs for the Two Thousand Guineas will probably be made at the Epsom spring meeting.

LORD DERBY'S HOPES.

I have heard excellent accounts of the progress made during the winter by Lord Derby's filly, Fair Isle. She has not grown a great deal, but she has done well in every other way, and if she continues to make progress, as she has been doing, she can be regarded as a probable winner of one or both of the fillies' classics. Mr. Dawkins made her out the best of the two-year-old fillies, and in the Free Handicap placed her 4lb. above Quarrat-al-Ain. With such a pair as Fair Isle and Caerleon, Lord Derby, can look forward with a good deal of hope to the Classic races. There was immense room for improvement in Colorado's brother when he ran at Liverpool, and the stable did not expect him to do anything more than make a good show.

There was another maiden three-year-old who won at Liverpool in Sir Ernest Tate's Pal o' Mine, a son of Captain Cuttle, bred by Lord Londonderry, who made a great impression. He, unfortunately, is not in the Derby, but he is in the Guineas and the St. Leger. He did not beat a great deal at Liverpool, but he won like a good colt.

It is interesting to note that the Italian four-year-old, Ortello, is coming to England for some of the Cup races this season. Everyone who saw him win the Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe in Paris last autumn formed a very high opinion of him. To oppose him we have, of course, Fairway, but I am afraid that things have not been going altogether too well with Lord Derby's champion. I believe he was cast in his box some time ago, and although he is in mild work again the prospects in his case do not seem as bright as they were at the end of last season.

THE "CITY" AND "JUBILEE."

The weights for the City and Suburban and the acceptances for the Kempton Park Jubilee were published in the Racing Calendar last Thursday, and the Newbury Cup, which is run for next Saturday, will probably throw some light on both events. The Newbury Cup last year revealed the winner of the Jubilee in Athford, who went on to Kempton to carry his penalty successfully. The Australian horse, Strephon is top-weight in the Jubilee, but it is generally understood that his main objective is the Ascot Gold Cup. In his own country his best form was shown at distances longer than that of the Jubilee. Athford is in both the City and Suburban and the Jubilee.

The Irish filly, Soloptic, whom, I understand, has wintered extraordinarily well, is not engaged at Epsom, but has been accepted with in the Jubilee, where her weight is 8st. 2lb. She is on the same mark as Horus, a good colt, who was a meritorious third in the St. Leger and was not beaten a length behind the winner. It is possible that Soloptic has too much weight in this race. In the Royal Hunt Cup, with 7st. 10lb. or so, she might be an attractive proposition, if she has retained her excellent Irish form.

As well as Horus, J. Jarvis has two other acceptors for the Jubilee in Haste Away and Midlothian. In the Newmarket Stakes last season Midlothian was only beaten two short heads behind Hunter's Moon and Mr. Jinks, and that form suggests that the handicapper has taken a chance in letting Lord Rosebery's colt into the Jubilee with 7st. 5lb. Against this good performance has, however, to be put the fact that he was a dire failure at Ascot, and in the other races in which he ran later in the season.

The Irish Two Thousand winner Salisbury has not been accepted with for the Jubilee, and be has had to be sent away from Newmarket to Mr. Frank Cundell for veterinary treatment. He got "a leg" soon after leaving Ireland last summer.

AT LINGFIELD.

We had some quite good racing yesterday afternoon at Lingfield, where Sir Mathew Wilson's Achtoi gelding, Arctic Light, won the Lingfield Handicap all the way, with a half-length and a neck to spare, in a good finish, from Porthole and the French-bred Regain. Arctic Light, who, I believe I am right in saying, was bought from Mr. C. A. Rogers by Victor Tabor on behalf of his present owner, ran really well in the Lincolnshire, where he was ridden by a small boy and only just missed a place. Here Clifford Richards rode him at 7st. 9lb., and his stronger handling made a good deal of difference to the horse, who was well able to find a bit extra when he was challenged at the distance by Porthole and Regain.

Arctic Light only began to find his form at the end of last season, when, with a light weight, he beat Flittermere at Warwick, but he has made a good deal of improvement since then, and he is very likely to win his owner more races. Cragadour started at a long price, and was never conspicuous. The favourite was Leopardus, in the colours of M. Marcel Esoussac, who won the Lincolnshire with Leonidas. He was well enough away, but when they had covered half the distance his chance was gone. West Indies finished well up behind the placed horse.

SELECTIONS.

At Leicester to-morrow the Prince of Wales' Walter may be won by CLEAR CASH or, in his absence, by GIGOLO. The Brocklesby winner, TOURMALINE, should take the Oatby Plate, and ABELARD the Burton Handicap.

GALTEE MORE.

SPORTING GOSSIP.

Sunnyfield Maid Disqualified.

Sunnyfield Maid, who finished third to Bathoi and Arizona's Knight in the Stand Steeplechase at Naas on 29th March, has been disqualified, as her trainer was in the English forfeit list. The Stewards accepted the explanation of Mr. E. S. Dowling, the owner, who stated he was unaware of the fact, and exonerated him from all blame in the matter.

Irish Two-year-old for England.

The two-year-old colt by Knight of the Garter—Bank Note, recently purchased by Mr. Bradlaw, has been sent to be trained by J. R. Anthony.

Mishap to Equality.

After winning the Ashbourne Plate at the Phœnix Park meeting on Saturday Mr. J. T. Rogers's smart filly, Equality, sustained very serious injuries through rearing up and falling in the unsaddling enclosure. She was obviously in great pain, and it transpired that she had fractured an elbow.

Carbineer II. Destroyed.

Whilst contesting the Chepstow Handicap Steeplechase at Chepstow on Saturday Carbineer II., a thirteen-year-old gelding by Brigadin, fell, and received fatal injuries.

Why Ferry Skipper Did Not Run.

The two-year-old Ferry Skipper was declared a runner for the Kyle Plate at Ayr on Saturday, but as the declaration did not conform with Rule 129 the Stewards ordered his number to be withdrawn. Rule 129 refers to weighing out before the race, and states—"No horse shall be weighed out unless the name of the race and of the horse and the jockey have been given in writing not less than three-quarters of an hour before the time fixed for the race."

Steeplechase Jockey Suspended.

After Dark Ray had won the Marston Selling Hurdle Race at Uttoxeter on Saturday P. O'Hara, the rider of Rossmint, who finished second, lodged an objection to the winner for bumping and foul riding, alleging that Malcolm, the rider of Dark Ray, had struck him with his whip. The objection was sustained, and the race awarded to Rossmint, Niloak being placed third. Malcolm was suspended for the remainder of the meeting, and was reported to the Stewards of the National Hunt Committee.

Left for India.

Little Trouble, three years, has left Major Miller's stable at Childrey for shipment to India.

Why Pachalik Did Not Run.

The reason why Pachalik did not run for the Lingfield Handicap on Saturday was that the ground was considered too heavy for him.

Lambourn Trainer's Recovery.

Captain O. M. D. Bell, the Lambourn trainer, has returned to his house at Lambourn from the nursing home, where he underwent an internal operation some time ago. His condition is very satisfactory, and he hopes to be about again in a few days.

PHŒNIX PARK.

INTERESTING TWO-YEAR-OLD RACES.

SWILLY ROCK BEATEN.

DOUBLE FOR J. T. ROGERS.

In weather more suggestive of mid winter than early spring the first of the season's meetings at the Phœnix Park was held on Saturday afternoon, while, luckily, no rain fell, there was a piercingly cold east wind, which made matters very unpleasant, and the attendance in consequence suffered. The big attraction of the afternoon was the Greer Plate, in which the two winning two-year-olds, Treminnie and Swilly Rock, were in opposition, but both got beaten by Sir Thomas Dixon's Cornstack, who was making a first acquaintance with a racecourse, and gave a very impressive display.

All of the fifteen runners declared overnight, except Essex Lass, who had gone wrong, turned out for the chief event, but the race was generally regarded as being between Swilly Rock, Treminnie and Cornstack, and this estimate proved perfectly correct; for the three were always the ones prominent in the race. For the last couple of furlongs, however, it was apparent that Cornstack was going the easiest of the three, and when Canty roused his mount the issue was quickly decided. Swilly Rock did look like throwing out a strong challenge close home, but she could not maintain the effort and was beaten for second place by Treminnie.

A BALLSBRIDGE PURCHASE.

Constack is a half brother to Galumph, and for the time being, at any rate, must be regarded as the best of the season's two-year-olds. The colt was purchased at the Ballsbridge sales rather cheaply by Sir Thomas Dixon, who secured him from Mr. P. D. Sullivan's lot for 240 guineas. Sir Thomas has his horses in several stables, but this one is in charge of P. Behan at Mountjoy Lodge, and this astute trainer once more has showed himself to be a master hand at getting two-year-olds ready for their early engagements. Cornstack promises to play a big part in the series of races for first season horses, which from now until next November, provide such an interesting problem for racing enthusiasts.

Of the other two-year-old races, the Ashtown Plate was the more important, and this was won by Elton's half brother, Double Arch, a son of Arch Gift, the property of Mr. J. T. Rogers. Ohoka, a daughter of Warden of the Marshes, hailing from Mr. W. W. Ashe's successful stable, was all the rage for this, but, in a very fine finish, Double Arch wore her down to win by a matter of a length.

ENGLISH JOCKEY'S TWO WINS.

It was E. Gardner's first winning ride since coming to Ireland as first jockey to Mr. Rogers' stable, and he was again to the fore later in the afternoon when Equality came home an easy winner of the Ashbourne Plate. It was no mean performance on the part of this three-year-old daughter of Athlone, who was meeting most of the older horses on very unfavourable terms compared to the weight-for-age scale. Swift Bird, who started favourite, was running on his favourite course, but after showing prominently in the race for most of the way, was eased off when it was evident that he had no chance of beating Equality, and it was the lightly-weighted Limousine and Glass Boss who hunted Equality home.

A SHORT-HEAD WIN.

Wounded Prince, one of the most moderate of flat racehorses in training, was considered to be better than any of the others in the Ardsallagh Plate despite the fact that he had to concede weight away all round. The fact that he had won two hurdle races during the winter encouraged the belief that he had made improvement, but he never appeared in the race in question with a winner's chance. It was strange that it was this race, which was for maiden four-year-olds and upwards, which provided by far the most exciting finish of the afternoon. Remus and Winchburgh raced home together for the last couple of furlongs almost abreast, and it was not until the former's number appeared in the frame as the winner that anybody was certain as to which had won. Remus ran last at Baldoyle in the St. Patrick's Steeplechase, but fell at the second fence.

AN OWNER-TRAINER'S SCORE.

Mr. Peter Kelly since he took over the training of his own horses has met with considerable success, and he added another point to his score when Bem played the part of hare before hounds with the opposition in the Arklow Plate. The race was for maidens, and generous odds of 2 to 1 were laid against Bem, who, it will be remembered, finished fifth in the National Produce Stakes behind Ballyferis, Glannary, Sol de Terre and Foretopsail.

Lass of Rheims bore out the form she showed when following Swilly Rock past the post at Naas by winning the Artane two-year-old race. This she did in very ready style, but Bray Beauty, who finished second and ran a trifle green, is one who will probably show improvement on this form later on. Details:

WESTMEATH (MULLINGAR) RACE COMPANY, LIMITED.

Sir Walter Nugent, Bart., presided at the 40th annual general meeting of the Westmeath (Mullingar) Race Company, held in the offices, Mary street, Mullingar, on Saturday. In his address, the Chairman said that for several years the company had paid a dividend of 10 per cent. on its Ordinary shares, up to and including the year 1925. The profit for the last year is £23 3s. 4d., as against a loss of £143 12s. 3d. for the previous year, a loss of £548 17s. 10d. in 1927, and of £186 in 1926. Notwithstanding the very adverse circumstances which had to be faced in the last few years, the position of the company compares not unfavourably with other race companies in the Free State.

Many improvements have been made, notwithstanding the unfavourable results shown in the last three years. The cheap enclosure will be provided with a totalisator booth, the same as will be provided in the grand stand enclosure.

With regard to the provision which has been made for the introduction of mechanical betting at Newbrook, he informed the meeting that the booths will be complete, and pari-mutuel betting will be in operation at the summer meeting next June. The admission to the grand stand has been further reduced this year, and they had every reason to hope that better results will follow.

The directors' report and statement of accounts were adopted. The report pointed out that, as a slight improvement had taken place in racing, the directors had applied for three fixtures for the present year.

Sir Walter Nugent, one of the directors retiring by rotation, was re-elected, and the appointment of Mr. T. Downes as director confirmed. Messrs. Cooper and Kenny, auditors, were re-elected.

LEICESTER TO-DAY : PROBABLE STARTERS AND BETTING.

YU SHAN FANCIED.

SELECTIONS.

A comparatively quiet week's racing opens at Leicester this afternoon. The chief event in to-day's card is the Prince of Wales's Welter Handicap, and here choice can be made from Servus, Yu Shan and Gigolo as the likeliest combination to furnish the winner. Servus showed up well when third to Roi des Aulnes in the Bridgeman Plate at Liverpool, and should be all the better for that outing. On the other hand, Yu Shan is much more leniently handicapped, and he ran a great race when third to Highbury and Coaster in the Hainton Handicap at Lincoln. Gigolo is fancied, but should not be capable of beating Servus on worse terms than obtained at Liverpool, and both may have to give best to Yu Shan, who seems to be the pick of the handicap.

Some very promising youngsters are expected to figure in the Oadby Plate, and the best of them should be Tourmaline, who won the Brocklesby Stakes at Lincoln after having made the whole of the running. Oh For a Monocle failed behind Tourmaline at Lincoln, and has since advertised the form by winning at Warwick.

The Durham Plate presents backers with a rare problem, as the horses with the most obvious chances are not certain to be saddled. In the circumstances the best of the probables may be Tulchan, Plodder and Dick Bush. The last-named will have the assistance of Gordon Richards in the saddle. Tulchan will be all the better for his recent race at Liverpool, but the one for which I have most liking is Plodder, who was a good second favourite to the odds-on chance, Slip the Painter, at Lincoln, and who was, perhaps, short of a gallop at the time.

The Burton Handicap has an open appearance, and I think that the finish will be fought out by Abelard and Furlough. The former ran Gulvain to a short head at Warwick a week ago, and may make amends here, while Furlough did well at Liverpool to finish second to Gold Seal in the West Derby Stakes. On the balance of form I prefer Furlough.

HUNTING.

THE KILDARE HOUNDS.

A most successful season was brought to a close on Thursday last—a by-day—when hounds met at Tinoran cross roads. Finding at once in the Black Bog, hounds ran in a right-handed circle over a nice line of country in the direction of Grange Con. After crossing the Baltinglass road the fox pointed for the railway, and got to ground in a shore a field short of the permanent way near Grange Con village.

Flushing the shore with water, the fox was bolted, and he ran back over the Baltinglass-Grange Con road as if for the Black Bog. Turning left-handed, the hunt went on over Tinoran Hill, then in a left-handed circle, and hounds marked to ground within a field of the Black Bog after a fast thirty-five minutes.

Tinoran failing to respond, Davidstown was visited, where a fox was marked to ground in covert. Another fox from the same covert was hunted over the Tinoran road to Hughestown Hill, where hounds lost trace of him.

The Kildare country has stood up remarkably well to four days a week hunting. There were very few stoppages, and sport in the greater portion of the district was up to an excellent standard.

LOUTH HOUNDS.

Summary of Season, 1929-30.—Taken as a whole, this season was a good one—up to February very good. Hounds were out on 58 days, including cub hunting. They killed 11½ brace of foxes and marked 30½ brace to ground. They had one blank day and lost one day owing to frost. The best hunt of the season was from Hilltown on January 15th, when hounds ran for 65 minutes without a check, killing their fox in the open and making a six-mile point.

The Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews issued the following statement last Saturday:—

"It has been stated in the Press that in a mixed foursomes competition recently played at Camberley Heath the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews was represented. This statement is incorrect. The Royal and Ancient Club is never represented officially in matches or competitions of any description."

MOTOR CYCLING.

LEINSTER "EVERYBODY'S" TRIAL.

With the object of attracting newcomers to the sport and to give the novices an opportunity of winning awards, the Leinster Motor Cycle and Light Car Club held a trial on Saturday over an easy course in the northern part of the County Dublin. The distance was about six miles, and, starting on the outskirts of the city, it ended near Skerries.

That a competition of a less strenuous character than the rough-riders' class of event is appreciated by a large number of motor cyclists was shown by the large entry received for the event. No less than 85 riders of solo machines and side-cars took part, and, in spite of the inexperience of many of the competitors, the proportion of finishers was large. There were awards for novices, first-time-out men, and for those who carried pillion passengers, as well as for the best performances in the 350 and 500 c.c. solo classes and the side-car class.

RUGBY.

LANSDOWNE AGAIN.

FOURTH SUCCESSIVE CUP WIN.

BECTIVE DISAPPOINT.

Lansdowne's fourth consecutive success in the Leinster Senior Cup was achieved in a comparatively easy manner. Favoured by the draw, the match in the final against Bective on Saturday provided the only possible chance of their being beaten, and even in this, as things turned out, they were not unduly extended. The score was made up of a penalty goal and two tries to nil.

The foundation of success was laid by the forwards, who, instead of dancing to the tune played by their opponents, dictated the course of the struggle themselves.

The display of the Bective forwards was disappointing, and, apart from being beaten in tactics, they seemed to lack their usual dash, and played as so many individuals. Their backs seldom got the ball in an attacking position from the scrums, but did well, considering the nature of the opportunities the opposing division had in the first half in preventing their line being crossed up to the interval.

O'Reilly has seldom played a better game than he did on Saturday, and his quickness and cleverness at the base of the Lansdowne scrum, were big assets to his side both in attack and defence. Jones played a useful game at out-half. Davy, in the centre, by his soundness in all respects was a dominant force in the game, and his partner, Moran, was better in defence than attack. Arigho made the most of limited chances in attack, but Lightfoot struck an off-day as far as handling was concerned. Moran, at full-back, was not consistent. The forwards all rose to the occasion, but, perhaps, Powell, Dunne, Bermingham and McEnery were a bit more prominent than the others.

Lansdowne had nearly all the attacking play in the first half, and on two or three occasions they had the Bective defence beaten, only for scores to be thrown away by bad handling. The only points obtained in this half were from a penalty goal, kicked by McEnery from far out. Early in the second half Arigho, cleverly taking a high pass on the blind side from O'Reilly, beat Lightfoot, and, swerving past Morris, increased Lansdowne's lead by a try, which McEnery failed to convert, and shortly afterwards a passing movement gave E. J. Lightfoot the chance to score right at the corner. This try was also not converted. Bective had somewhat the better of the remaining play, and their backs had several passing movements, which, however, never looked like gaining anything tangible. Result:—

Lansdowne—1 penalty goal 2 tries (9 points).
Bective Rangers—Nil.

GOULDING CUP.

A DRAWN GAME.

G.S. and W.R. (Inchicore) 3 L.M.S. 3

These teams met in the first round of the Goulding Cup at Park avenue, on Saturday, in miserably cold weather, and although an extra twenty minutes were played a definite decision was not arrived at, each side scoring a try. On the run of the play G.S. and W.R. should have won easily, as they pressed for at least three-quarters of the game. Balmer scored for L.M.S., and Wall for G.S. and W.R., both tries being got in the second half.

HIGH SCORING GAME.

H. C. HEWITT'S 15 POINTS.

For more than half of the game with Heriotians at Ravenshill, on Saturday, Instonians were outclassed, and yet they were only beaten by two points, after a great rally, in which H. C. Hewitt played a brilliant part. The final score was 4 goals 1 penalty goal (23 points), to 1 goal, 1 dropped goal, 2 penalty goals and 2 tries (21 points), and Hewitt secured no fewer than fifteen points for the losers. More than that, he effectually put a brake on A. H. Brown's cut throughs, when he changed to out-half after the inverval. The Scottish out-half had been going through without much trouble, R. B. Price making little effort to stop him, but when the change was made there was a different spirit about the Instonian team all round, though so far as football skill and combination went Heriot's were much superior. Never once during the game was there any real cohesion about the Instonians' back division in attack, and their defence was of the feeblest description, if one excepts A. C. Douglas, at full-back, and H. C. Hewitt. Result:—

Heriotians—5 goals (1 penalty) (23 points).
Instonians—4 goals (1 dropped, 2 penalties) 2 tries (21 points).

MUNSTER CUP FINAL.

YOUNG MUNSTERS WIN BY A POINT.

YOUNG MUNSTERS 6 U.C.C. 5

Close on 8,000 people witnessed a thrilling final for the Munster Senior Cup at Limerick on Saturday between University College (Cork) and Young Munsters, which the latter team won by a single point.

The game was one of the best and fastest in the long series of matches for the trophy, and it must be said it was also one of the cleanest games associated with the contests for the Cup.

Flaherty scored an unconverted try for Young Munsters in the first half, and in the second Garvey kicked a penalty goal, while J. J. O'Sullivan's try for University College was converted by Dalton.

MUNSTER PLAYER SUSPENDED.

The discreditable scenes arising out of the Munster Junior Cup semi-final between Abbey and Young Munsters were investigated at a meeting of the Munster Branch, I.R.U., at Limerick, on Saturday night. The Branch suspended M. Storan, Young Munsters player, for three years, and another player from the same club for two years. They also directed the spectator who is alleged to have struck the referee to be prosecuted, and ordered that the match be replayed at Limerick on the 16th inst. under a Leinster referee.

PROVINCIAL TOWNS CUP FOR WEXFORD WANDERERS.

WEXFORD WAND'RS. 6 ATHY 3

Wexford Wanderers on Saturday gained the Provincial Towns' Cup at the first time of asking, when they defeated Athy by two tries to one.

Wexford scored early in the game. Play was at the Athy "25" when T. F. Walsh came into possession, and dodging past several opponents, ran through for a try, which was not converted. This was the only score of the opening half, but midway through the second period Wexford went further ahead when a round of passing culminated in McGilligan scoring a try, which was not converted. Athy put up a very strong attack after this, and, keeping it up, were rewarded with a try a few minutes before time. The scorer was Carbery, who got over following a forward scramble on the line.

Athy—W. Keyes; T. K. Rossiter, G. V. Gibson, R. McHugh, J. Harvey; S. McHugh, R. Griffin; James Griffin, D. Carbery, R. Anderson, J. Carbery, J. Doyle, V. M. Gibson, T. Maher, J. B. Maher.

Wexford Wanderers—T. E. Pierce; C. J. Sheridan, T. P. Walsh, M. McGilligan, W. Murphy; E. A. Sutton, H. J. Coffey; W. J. Hamilton, E. J. McCarthy, J. H. Moore, G. D. Rowe, J. F. Salmon, J. Stafford, R. G. Walsh, J. J. Whelan.

Referee—Mr. C. P. Stuart.

Previous winners:—1926, Enniscorthy; 1927, Enniscorthy; 1928, Balbriggan; 1929, Carlow.

THE WELSH XV.

TWO NEW CAPS ON TEAM TO MEET FRANCE.

The Welsh XV. to meet France in Paris on Easter Monday has been selected as follows:—

Full-back—T. Scourfield (Torquay);
Three-quarters—Howie Jones (Swansea), Claude Davey (Swansea), Guy Morgan (Cambridge University), R. Boon (Cardiff);
Half-backs—W. C. Powell (London Welsh), F. Williams (Cardiff).
Forwards—T. Arthur (Neath), A. Sky (Cardiff), Norman Fender (Cardiff), A. Lemon (Neath), E. Jenkins (Aberavon), H. Day (Newport), H. Peacock (Newport), D. Thomas (Swansea).

The side includes two players with no previous experience of international football—Scourfield, the full-back, and Davey, the right centre.

FRANCE BEAT GERMANY.

CHARLOTTENBURG, Sunday.

For the fourth time since 1927 France to-day beat Germany here by 31 points to nil. The French team, which with one exception was the same as that which played England at Twickenham, were superior in every department, the three-quarters being particularly good. Samatan, who was well supported, ran splendidly, and went over the line twice before the interval. The Germans, on the other hand, could not get together; their passing was feeble, and their handling was far from good, the ball being frequently fumbled badly. In the second half, when they were 19 points in arrears, the Germans became rather more aggressive, and frequently carried the play into the French territory, but the visitors' defence was far too good for them.

CONNAUGHT CUP FINAL.

Ballina, 3 tries (9 points); Loughrea, 1 dropped goal 1 try (7 points).

SATURDAY'S RESULTS.

HOCKEY.

TRIPLE HONOURS FOR RAILWAY UNION.

A FINE RECORD.

The last of the Leinster senior trophies, the Mills Cup, was played for on Saturday, and in winning it Railway Union wound up a most successful season, as besides supplying three members to the Irish team which won the championship, they secured all the senior honours—the Irish Senior Cup, the Mills Cup and the Leinster Senior League, the latter for the eighth successive season, a feat not accomplished by any club previously.

In the two Senior League matches Pembroke Wanderers, after a close struggle with National Bank, won by the odd goal, and Kingstown Grammar School defeated Dalkey by two clear goals.

THE MILLS CUP.

HOLDERS BEATEN BY THE ODD GOAL.

RAILWAY UNION ... 2 MONKSTOWN 1

Monkstown made a great effort to retain the cup, which they held for the past two seasons, and the closeness of the winning margin about represents the run of the game. It was a typical cup struggle, in which the art and finer points of the game had little or no part. Strenuous tackling, hard hitting—which at times was wild—and bustling tactics were the outstanding features.

During the first half Railway tested the Monkstown defence, whose close tackling was successful for a time. After fifteen minutes a well-placed stroke from O'Donoghue let Hennessy away, and the Railway left-winger dodged the challenge of two defenders before scoring from the edge of the circle. Some ten minutes later "sticks" in the Monkstown circle allowed V. Sully to score from the resulting penalty corner, the Monkstown custodian being unsighted. Railway had a couple of chances before the interval, but sent wide.

Resuming two goals down, Monkstown put on pressure and early Leopold was fortunate to clear his lines. O'Donoghue later was instrumental in checking some dangerous movements. Midway through this period Legge went up forward and Dormer fell back, but the Railway defence, although hard pressed, stood up well. Nearing the finish the many efforts of Monkstown at length brought a score, Legge shooting into goal from a crowded circle. Some exciting exchanges took place before the end, but defences prevailed.

Mrs. Cook presented the cup to Mr. Chiddick and the medals to the winning team.

Monkstown—J. P. Gray; H. G. C. Legge, G. Darcus; P. B. McWeeney, G. Tyndall, W. P. Delamere (capt.); J. McElveen, E. E. Dormer, E. Gray, J. Brewster, John Gray.

Railway Union—W. C. Leopold; K. N. Browner, M. C. O'Donoghue; J. J. Corscadden, W. Chiddick (capt.), H. W. Sully; T. C. Browner, C. Sully, V. G. Sully, the Rev. F. Bennett, W. E. Hennessy.

Umpires—Messrs. D. J. Colter and A. Cork.

SENIOR LEAGUE.

SEVEN GOALS AT KIMMAGE.

PEMBROKE W....... 4 NATIONAL BANK 3

For their League match at Kimmage on Saturday, National Bank and Pembroke Wanderers played substitutes for several of their usual first eleven players, and, in addition, were each a man short in attack, J. Gill and D. Allen being absent from the respective sides. In the circumstances it would naturally be thought that the defences would rule supreme, but such was not the case.

The game was fairly evenly contested, but Wanderers were more finished, and would have run up a big score but for Darcy's fine goalkeeping. With two of the shots that passed him Darcy had absolutely no chance, as they came from scrambles in the circle.

Williams opened the scoring for the Bank after five minutes' play, a rising cross-shot finding the net. Before the interval, however, Doyle and Martin, with a goal apiece, gave Wanderers the lead. Immediately on resuming Doyle dribbled from midfield and put his side further ahead. Goals by Deignan and Foley made the sides level, and the end was in sight when Doyle got the decider.

National Bank—A. Darcy; R. Hewitt, J. Collins; T. Foley, A. P. Swaine, E. Power; D. Dixon, E. Deignan, T. Williams, S. J. Armstrong.

Pembroke Wanderers—N. McNeil; E. E. Spence, J. Havelin; E. D. Beadle, C. J. Little, K. Keane; F. W. Hirst, S. J. Doyle, R. P. Martin (capt.), H. A. Martin.

Umpires—Messrs. C. Bruton and F. Scales.

DALKEY'S DEFEAT.

KINGSTOWN G.S.... 2 DALKEY............ 0

At Stradbrook, Blackrock, on Saturday, Kingstown Grammar School defeated Dalkey by 2 goals to nil after a hard match. The pace was fast and the hockey good. Dalkey gave a remarkably fine display, and hardly deserved to be beaten by two goals. They attacked as often as their opponents, but were not quite so steady in the circle. They were handicapped, too, by an injury to Cobbe in the first half. This player had his nose cut, and was unable to resume.

There was no score at half-time. Immediately on changing over Kitchie got in a grand shot that gave Anderson no chance. This was soon followed by another goal, scored by the same player.

Anderson, in the home goal, saved many hard shots. Pender was an outstanding success, being one of the best backs on the field. Sarratt, G. Wilson, and Cobbe were the best forwards. Fisher played well in the School goal; Varian, Brown, and Phillips were good backs; and Duke, Ritchie, and Cheetham were clever forwards.

Dalkey—R. J. Anderson; T. Pender, L. C. Wilson; G. Boardman, H. Kenny, F. Regan; F. O'Kelly, A. D. Sarratt, G. Wilson, H. Cobbe, T. Kennedy.

Kingstown Grammar School—J. R. Fisher; G. Brown, I. Varian; E. Winder, F. Shellard, L. Phillips; J. R. Fitzpatrick, E. F. Duke, W. Ritchie, E. Felton, S. Cheetham.

Umpire—Mr. H. H. Peterson.

LADIES' HOCKEY.

IRISH CUP FOR MAIDS OF THE MOUNTAIN.

MAIDS .... 3 OLD ROCHELLE ... 0

At Gilford road on Saturday afternoon, Maids of the Mountain scored a good win over the Munster Cup winners by 3 goals to nil. Both sides took some time to settle down, and Maids were feeling the loss of Miss Robinson very badly. Play in the first half was very scrappy, and the interval arrived without any score. Misses Gahan and Moore (2) scored in the second half.

PEATT CUP SEMI-FINAL.

In the semi-final for the Peatt Cup, played on last Saturday, Shielmartin (Sutton) beat Bray 2nd by 2-0. The losers played the better hockey, but the dash and determination of Shielmartin, whose goalkeeper saved many hard shots, pulled them through a finely-contested game.

ASSOCIATION.

ENGLAND CHAMPION COUNTY.

SCOTS WELL BEATEN.

ENGLAND .... 5 SCOTLAND 2

At Wembley on Saturday England defeated Scotland by 5 goals to 2, and thus annexed the International Championship, which they had not held since 1913.

The type of play changed a lot. The Scots for a long time relied mostly on their traditional style, with dribbling and low passing as their main means of attack. The halves in this way supported the forwards with rare skill, and, in the strongest contrast, the Englishmen opened the game with long kicks, lifting the ball and finding the far wing men with such remarkable certainty that Rimmer and Crooks were able to carry on attacks which removed play from one end of the field to the other at an amazing speed.

Ability to alter their methods as the needs of the moment dictated showed the Englishmen more versatile in cleverness, and brought out the real football possessed by every man in the side. The forwards, considered a scratch line when chosen, blended to a degree reflecting the highest possible merit in each individual, and when the opportunity came, because of Scotland's defence floundering, England's attack carried the day in the grand manner.

Watson scored for England after twelve minutes, and before the interval three more goals came in the course of four minutes, Watson, Rimmer and Jack scoring. Almost immediately after the resumption Fleming scored for Scotland, but Rimmer soon afterwards put on another for England. Fleming also obtained Scotland's second goal.

THE INTERNATIONAL TABLE.

	P.	W.	D.	L.	Goals. For	Goals. Agst.	Pts.
England	3	3	0	0	14	2	6
Scotland	3	2	0	1	9	8	4
Ireland	3	1	0	2	8	6	2
Wales	3	0	0	3	2	17	0

THE SHIELD GAMES.

BRIDEVILLE'S FORWARDS AGAIN FAIL.

SHAMROCK ROVERS ... 3 BRIDEVILLE ... 1

At Harold's Cross Park last Saturday, Sloan, Fullam, and Glenn (penalty) scored for Rovers, and Blair for Brideville.

It was a reproduction of the Free State Cup final in every respect. Brideville's forwards failed to make use of their opportunities to take an early lead, and were outclassed in the closing stages, when Rovers displayed superior finish.

For the greater part of the game Brideville monopolised the play, but the strength of the opposing backs was a feature. They were beaten often, however, and it was then that the weakness of Brideville's finish manifested itself. They had several chances of taking the lead early, but the inside players lacked judgment in shooting.

It was an interesting game, in which both sides were seen to advantage, but though the Milltown backs were fully extended, they were usually equal to their task. Chervi made some excellent recoveries when his partner was beaten, and stood up well to Gaskins and Blair.

Rovers gained the lead after 25 minutes, and held it until eight minutes from the interval, when Brideville drew level, and they crossed over on equal terms.

For about fifteen minutes of the second half Rovers' goal was subjected to strong attacks. Finishing the stronger, however, Rovers had the better of the closing play. Brideville's defence was easily beaten, and their chances of Shield honours vanished.

Brideville—Callaghan; Kenny, Bermingham; O'Reilly, Charles, Fox; Smith, Blair, Gaskins, Reid, O'Brien.

Shamrock Rovers—O'Reilly; Chervi, Burke; Glenn, Caulfield, Marlow; Flood, J. Sloan, Byrne, Fullam, Golding.

AIKEN'S "HAT TRICK."

JACOBS WELL BEATEN BY DUNDALK.

DUNDALK .... 4 JACOBS 0

Dundalk gained two points at home yesterday, when they easily defeated Jacobs. Three of their goals were scored by Aiken, and Berry got the fourth.

In the opening minutes Patton beat Cunningham, and centred for Aiken to head through. Five minutes later Aiken scored the best goal of the match, when he dribbled through, and shot as Collins came out. Before the interval he took advantage of a mistake by the visiting backs to score his "hat trick." Dundalk were equally superior in the second half, in which Collins was brilliant.

Dundalk—Fitzroy; M'Keown, Kelly; Lennon, Slowey, Firth; Page, Patton, Aiken, Beadles, Berry.

Jacobs—Collins; Ronan, Cunningham; Farrell, Kelly, Nibbs; Forrest, Hearne, Carlisle, Temple, Hickey.

SHELBOURNE'S SUCCESS.

FORDSONS WELL BEATEN AT HOME.

SHELBOURNE .... 2 FORDSONS 1

At the Mardyke, Cork, yesterday, Shelbourne beat Fordsons by 2 goals to 1.

It was a game of lost chances, and although there were occasional flashes of brilliant play, there was a noticeable lack of understanding between the Fordson forwards, who only gave infrequent glimpses of their true form. The great weakness of the side was at centre-forward, where Kinsella was too slow against the reliable Shelbourne defence. Burke, in goal for Shelbourne, had an easy passage behind Lacey and Byrne, and McGrillen, Ledwidge and Molloy played no small part in securing their side's victory. After fifteen minutes' play McMillan headed into the net, and this was the only score of the first half.

Fordsons dominated the play in the opening stages of the second half, and, following a remarkable series of head passing between T. Dickson, Kinsella, Owens, and J. Dickson, the last-named struck the crossbar, and Owens met the rebound and headed into the net. Ledwidge scored the winning goal for Shelbourne.

MARLOW'S BENEFIT.

ST. JAMES'S GATE DEFENCE OUTWITS ROVERS' FORWARDS.

ST. JAMES'S GATE ... 1 SHAMROCK ROVERS 0

At Milltown yesterday Westby scored from a penalty kick in the extra time of a quiet game.

St. James's Gate were, in a sense, fortunate to win. They had much less of the play, but their defenders completely nonplussed their opponents.

Shamrock Rovers impressed one by their dash and energy, but in rounding off their efforts they were distinctly disappointing. Although they were faced by an alert set of backs—Cass, in goal, was also confident—Shamrock Rovers had enough chances to make the issue safe, but their shooting was unusually weak and erratic. They seldom had control of the game, notwithstanding the amount of time they spent in the St. James's Gate half. Earnestness did not appear until they were in arrears, and then St. James's Gate packed their goal successfully.

Soon after the start Shamrock Rovers had to reorganise their team, as Burke received a leg injury and went to outside left for the remainder of the game. This, however, was not in any way a cause of the defeat.

Shamrock Rovers—O'Reilly; Chervi, Burke; Glen, Caulfield, Marlow; Flood, J. Sloan, Byrne, Fullam, Golding.

St. James's Gate—Cass; Murphy, Clarke; Tynan, McKay, Murray; Cahill, Byrne, Westby, Comerford, Dixon.

THE METROPOLITAN CUP.

BENDIGO ... 3 SHAMROCK ROVERS "B" 1

At the Thatch, Drumcondra, last Saturday, P. Whelan and P. Gaffney (2) scored for Bendigo; North (penalty) for Shamrock Rovers.

At the conclusion of the first half it looked as if the match would end in another draw. Bendigo, however, put a different complexion on the game after the opening of the second period, the first fifteen minutes bringing the three scores. Twenty minutes later North converted the penalty kick for Rovers.

The game was a typical cup tie. Speed was not lacking on either side, and the frequency with which each end was visited caused interest to be sustained all through. The visitors hardly deserved to be so much behind at the finish, taking the game on the whole, although Bendigo worked well for their scores, each being the result of clever and forceful movements. Whelan's watchfulness and Gaffney's ability to turn his chances to account brought the scores. From goal out the winners were hard triers. For Rovers, Gannon saved many shots from close range. The fulls made some mistakes, and the half-back line was their strongest, with the forwards a level lot.

Bendigo—Robinson; Robinson, Donohoe; Power, Coyne, Gibbons; Complisson, Loughlin, Gaffney, O'Rourke, Whelan.

Shamrock Rovers "B"—Gannon; Chervi, Carr; McKenna, Leonard, North; Madigan, Mathews, Toole, Keag, Robinson.

BOHEMIANS B .... 2 EDENVILLE 0

Quicker on the ball, and more business-like in their methods, Bohemians' second string easily survived the round at Dalymount Park last Saturday. It was not, however, a stirring game, and that the margin in favour of the home side was not smaller was due to a want of enterprise and resource near goal of Edenville.

LEINSTER LEAGUE.

DRUMCONDRA .... 2 UNIVERSITY COLL 2

At Tolka Park last Saturday, O'Reilly and Casey (own goal) scored for the University; Magill (own goal) and Little for Drumcondra.

It was a poor game, in which the College, with a side which included several substitutes, deserved a division of the points. Their display, while not polished, was in contrast to that of Drumcondra, which was virile and spirited. Drumcondra had an "off" day. There was a lack of combination among the forwards, whose passing was cramped, while the shooting was wild.

Drumcondra—Massey; Wayte, Ward; Kennedy, Kane, Casey; Little, Rattigan, O'Keeffe, Inglis, Smullen.

University College—Murphy; Kenny, Finnigan; Kevans, McGahon, Magill; N. McGahon, O'Reilly, Crowe, O'Connell, Donaghy.

GAELIC GAMES.

DUBLIN'S EASY WIN IN NATIONAL LEAGUE.

ARMY AND GUARDS DRAW.

(BY PAT'O.)

DUBLIN .... 4-5 WEXFORD 2-2

Wexford had rather a weak side at Croke Park yesterday, where they met Dublin in the second round of the National Football League. Playing smooth, accurate football from the opening, Dublin were never in serious danger and, despite a Wexford rally in the second half, Dublin won comfortably.

An opening point by Lalor gave the city men an early lead. P. McDonnell added a second. Then Martin O'Neill worked up for Wexford and narrowed the gap. Dublin scored again, Dowling shooting hard to the net, and he was again on the mark with a high point.

Dublin were first to score on turning over, and P. McDonnell was again the medium. Martin O'Neill raised Wexford's hopes with a great goal, but Dublin got another goal per O'Brien, and the same player clinched the game for Dublin a few minutes later with a fine rising shot. Wexford, as usual, finished strongly. Power and Kennedy fed Courtney, who punched to the net, and the same player added the visitors' second point. The last score of the game was Dublin's. A drive by Langton reached Dowling, who put P. Synnott in possession and the O'Toole man netted Dublin's fourth goal.

DUBLIN CHAMPIONSHIP.

GARDA .... 2-4 ARMY METRO. ... 1-7

The meeting of these keen rivals yesterday produced the best hurling match of the series. Army Metro balanced, and led up to the last minute, when, from a well hit 70, Tobin equalised. Teehan, Mockler and Higgins were seen to great advantage for the Army; whilst Tobin, J. O'Neill, McEnerney and Power gave a great exhibition for Garda.

CROSS-COUNTRY.

FAUGH-A-BALLAGH CUP WON BY S. DALY.

The Donore Harriers brought their season to a close on Saturday with the annual race for the Faugh-a-Ballagh Cup, which carries with it the title of champion of the club. By combining with it a sealed handicap, a big field was assured, and 19 of the starters finished the six miles. In the absence of Douglas Coard, Syd Daly was expected to win the scratch race, and this he did very comfortably, although his winning margin from T. Murphy was only 7 seconds.

The placings were:—1, S. Daly, 35 mins. 40 secs.; 2, T. Murphy, 35. 47; 3, J. Kelly, 36. 35; 4, P. O'Farrell, 36. 59; 5, J. Eakin, 37. 10; 6, J. Hardiman, 37. 30; 7, M. Tolan, 37. 41.

The sealed handicap brought the men closely together, a minute covering the first six, as under:—1, T. Solan (3 mins. 30 secs.), 34. 11; 2, P. O'Farrell (2 mins. 45 secs.), 34.14; 3, T. Murphy (1 min. 30 secs.), 34. 17; 4, J. Eakin (2 mins. 30 secs.), 34. 40; 5, S. Daly (45 secs.), 34. 55; 6, J. Hardiman (2 mins. 30 secs.), 35. 0.

ATHLETICS.

A.A.A. AND ULSTER CASE.

EQUAL STATUS GRANTED.

At the meeting of the Amateur Athletic Association in London on Saturday,

Mr. Harry J. Barclay, Hon. Secretary of the A.A.A., had two proposals on the agenda, both of which were carried.

One was, in the official wording, "to add to Law XVI., after the words, 'Association of Ireland,' the words 'within the area known as the Irish Free State' also the words, 'National Skating Association of Great Britain,' 'Northern Ireland Amateur Athletic, Cycling and Cross-Country Association.'"

Rule XVI. reads—Decisions of the following governing bodies as to suspensions, disqualifications and requalifications are recognised by the Association (the A.A.A.), and are binding upon affiliated clubs and associations and their members.

In short, the proposal of Mr. Barclay endorses the view of the Northern Ireland body that the National Athletic and Cycling Association of Ireland should control athletics only in the Free State.

The seconder of the motion was Mr. H. M. Abrahams.

The second proposal will have the effect of adding to Law XXX. before the word "Ireland" the word "Northern," which will mean that any application for a club or member to take part in an athletic competition outside Great Britain and Northern Ireland must be made direct to the Hon. Secretary of the A.A.A. Previously, of course, this rule covered the whole of Ireland, and the reframing of the law gives Northern Ireland equal status with Great Britain.

While the Amateur Athletic Association feels that by these two acts it has done a lot to smooth over matters in Irish athletics, it is questionable whether the matter has been finally laid to rest. There can be little doubt that the National Athletic and Cycling Association of Ireland feels strongly that theirs is the right to govern athletics throughout the whole of Ireland, and the action of the A.A.A. may only be the prelude to further controversy.

THE MUNSTER CONGRESS.

At the Congress of the Munster Provincial Council in Mallow, Dr. O'Sullivan, who presided, said that Munster had had a most successful year. He mentioned the impression created at the National Congress in Dublin that there was something wrong with Munster. He deplored that such publicity had been given the matter. He understood that it arose out of a misunderstanding.

The treasurer's report showed debit balance £39 18s. 11d.

PUBLIC HEALTH WORK.

FORTHCOMING DUBLIN CONFERENCE.

The Conference on Public Health and Social Services, 1930, will be held in the Mansion House, Dublin, on the 8th and 9th July. Last December the Minister for Local Government and Public Health announced his intention to convene a conference this year of urban health authorities and boards of health and public assistance. Nearly all the authorities invited have responded to the Minister's invitation by appointing delegates, and it is expected that the conference will be fully representative.

The subjects for discussion included in the preliminary programme relate to matters of practical interest to local authorities. On the health side attention will be given to the newer aspects of public health work, such as the county medical officer of health and his functions, the methods of promoting health education, the health of the school child and the economy of preventive measures. Three subjects relating to public assistance have been put on the programme—the improvement of the County Homes, the administration of home assistance, and the welfare of children in the care of the public assistance authority.

The principal objects of the conference are to co-relate the special knowledge and experience of professional workers, administrators and others engaged in public social work; to promote, through discussion and conference, a closer understanding between the agencies concerned, and to be of educational and stimulative value to the authorities participating.

FILM ACTRESS'S DEATH.

INQUEST STORY OF STUDIO ACCIDENT.

A verdict of "accidental death"—without any rider or censure—was returned at the inquest last Saturday on Miss Anita Fay Tipping (Nita Foy), who was fatally burned earlier in the week when her crinoline dress caught fire at the Twickenham Film Studios.

Mr. Donald Calthrop, the actor, in whose room the accident occurred, said that he had noted that the girl looked ill when she arrived at the studios, and invited her into his room for a brandy and soda. Her dress went on fire when he turned to get her the soda—she had been standing near the gas radiator—and he was burned about the hands and face in extinguishing the flames.

The manager of the studio said that he had now ordered special guards for the radiators.

POULTRY, CAGE BIRDS, DAIRY.

THE LAYING STOCK.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Poultry Correspondent says:—

Eggs are now plentiful, and all the hens should be doing their best, as this is the greatest egg-producing month of the year, but they should not be neglected. The chief trouble at this time of the year is the supply of green food. The grass has not yet grown enough to supply sufficient nourishemnt, but farmers should have cabbage of some kind, which is one of the best foods. Swede turnips should be given to birds in confinement; cut in half, they will pick them to the rind. There is also clover meal and alfalfa, which are good substitutes. These should be mixed with the soft food. Meat must still be supplied in some form, as there is nothing yet in the fields of insect life.
